Twelve-Year-Old Newton Miss Is Winner of Pony In "Hopalong" Contest

A very happy young Newton Miss was declared last week to be one of the two top winners in the Boston Traveler Hopalong Cassidy Contest. Twelve-year-old Miss Debby Wilson, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. William L. Wilson, 527 Commonwealth avenue, Newton Centre, when informed of her good fortune, began to jump up and down, but "Gee," and "Jeepers," was all she could say for several minutes.

The object of the contest was to assemble the pieces of a puzzle, a piece given each night in the Traveler, color them, and send the completed picture in. The winners had the best put-together and colored puzzle.

Debby's prizes consisted of an entire Hopalong Cassidy outfit, and a beautiful ebony pony, "Fiddlefoot", the board for which the Traveler will pay for a year at any stable Debby choses.

A pretty five-foot, two-inch youngster, Debby will enter Weeks Junior High School in the fall. She takes piano lessons, swimming lessons, owns two goldfish, and says she loves the Braves.

Although she knew very little about riding a horse before the contest, after a few minutes on her new pony at the Paddocks in Milton and a little coaching, Debby seems to be on her way to becoming a very polished horsewoman.

Chief Warns Traffic Signs Vital

—o—

"You can't shrug off traffic signs!" This is Chief Philip Purcell's warning to Newton drivers.

"You can bet your bottom dollar," he continued, "that every traffic sign and signal you pass on the highway has a definite reason for being where it is. The hospitals and cemeteries are full of ex-drivers who shrugged off some sign on the mistaken notion that whoever put it there didn't know what he was doing."

A great many intersections having "Stop" signs are deceptively safelooking, according to the National Safety Council, but have a bloody history behind them that necessitated the original installation of these controls.

In the same way, each speed limit and warning sign is a silent testimonial to days and weeks of investigation and testing by traffic experts in their efforts to determine at what speed, and under what conditions, the road may be safely traveled. Entering into this are studies of the road's surface; what effects various weather conditions have on it; topography of the country through which the road travels; principles of inertia; and other factors that seldom occur to the average driver.

"No traffic sign or signal," the Chief concluded, "is thrown up at random simply because it is found lying around in the sign shop."

Break Reported At MacNeill Co.

—o—

In a break which occurred sometime between 5 p.m. last Thursday and 7 a.m. Friday morning in the office of the MacNeill Engineering Co., 275 Riverview avenue, West Newton, thieves went through three desks, and failing to break the safe open by knocking off the combination dial, stole two Starrett indicators worth $42. They had broken the glass near the lock of a rear door in order to get in. The tools were owned by Norman Dube, an employee of the company.

Burns Fatal To Woman

—o—

Miss Julia Simpson, 79, of 1138 Chestnut street, Newton Upper Falls, died late Friday night at the Newton-Wellesley Hospital from second and third degree burns. About 80 per cent of her body had been seared when flames flared up over her person and made ashes of her clothing in the cellar of her home at approximately 9 a.m. that morning.

Surviving are a sister, Miss Rose Simpson, with whom she made her home, and a brother, Thomas Simpson of Newton Upper Falls. The funeral was held Monday from the Eaton Funeral Home, 1351 Highland avenue, Needham, with a high mass of requiem in Mary Immaculate of Lourdes Church at 9 a.m. Interment was in St. Mary's Cemetery, Needham.

Pre-Primary Reception Held For Candidates

—o—

Mr. and Mrs. John F. Conroy, of 55 Fair Oaks avenue, Newtonville, held a pre-primary reception at their home last Thursday for several Republican candidates for state offices.

Many people representing Newton, Brighton, Watertown, Cambridge, and the Boston area, had a chance to meet such candidates as Christian A. Herter Jr., past president of the Newton Republican Club and candidate for Representative from the

—o—

The announcement last week of the intention of Alderman Paul S. Rich to seek the Republican nomination for the House of Representatives in the 4th Middlesex District, coupled with the closing time for the filing of nomination papers, has brought forth a sudden interest in the primaries which will be held next month. The Republican contest for the nominations to the House of Representatives in Newton, which are the fourth and fifth Middlesex districts, is replete with candidates. In each district two of the candidates will win the nomination, four in both districts.

In the fourth district, Newton Republicans will have to select two of the four candidates seeking the office, while in the fifth district, the voters must chose two out of a field of six. Thus the next few weeks in Newton will witness a spirited campaign.

In the contest for Senator from the Middlesex-Suffolk district, Senator Richard H. Lee will have three opponents in his quest for re-nomination while on the Democratic side of the picture, five candidates will vie for the nomination, two from Newton and three from the Boston district.

Newton will also have local men seeking the higher State offices; two for the Governorship, one for Secretary of State; one for Attorney-General, and one for County Commissioner, all on the Republican ballot.

Following is the list of candidates who will seek the Republican nomination in the local field.

Governor: General Daniel Needham and Judge Frankland W. L. Miles.

County Commissioner: Harry N. Gath, Jr.

Senator: Richard H. Lee; Gordon L. Hawes; Walter A. Hodgdon, and Ellis Sutcliffe.

Payrolls Here Show Increase

According to the monthly survey of the State Department of Labor and Industries, Division of Statistics, payrolls in 15 Newton manufacturing plants rose 2.5 per cent. In the state as a whole, an increase of 3.5 per cent in the total wages paid in June over the month of May was shown.

For the week ending June 17, the totals were 4537 employees; $202,132 wages; 2.5 per cent increase in number of workers, and 2.5 per cent increase in total wages. Average earnings for the week in June were $44.55, compared with $44.56 in the corresponding week in May.

Placement Tests To Be Held at Warren Jr. H. S.

Placement tests will be given to children of Grades 7, 8 and 9 living in the Warren Junior High School district, who are new to the Newton School system, at the Warren Junior High School Friday morning, September 6, beginning at 8:45 o'clock. This will include children who have moved into Newton during the summer and children from grades who are planning to enter Warren Junior High School from parochial schools and private schools.

Pupils who report to the school for the placement tests are asked to bring transfer and report cards with them. Any other material which may be helpful to the school in making placements, should be brought at this time.

Make-up tests for incomplete work for regular Warren pupils will also be given on Friday morning, September 8, at 8:45. The schedule will be as follows: English, 9 to 10 a.m.; Mathematics, 10:15 to 11:15 a.m.; Social Studies, 11:30 to 12:30 a.m.

Pupils of Warren who are making up tests in other subjects will also report at 8:45 on Friday morning, September 8, 1950.

The office will be open for registration of new pupils from

Named Head Of School Of Nursing

—o—

Miss Myrtice L. Fuller of Norton, Massachusetts, is to become the new Director of Newton-Wellesley Hospital's School of Nursing, Edward B. Gray, Hospital President, and O. Herbert Sherbrooke, Chairman of the School's Board of Directors, have announced. She will replace Miss Mabel McVicker who is retiring from active nursing administration September 1.

MYRTICE L. FULLER

Miss Fuller, who is completing post-graduate work at Boston University, has had wide experience both in teaching and in administration. After graduation from Massachusetts Memorial Hospital School of Nursing she was supervisor and instructor at Long Island College Hospital, Brooklyn. She has served as well as assistant director of the School of Nursing at Massachusetts Memorial Hospitals, as Principal Chief Nurse of an Army Hospital where she held the grade of Major and as Director of Nursing at Waltham Hospital.

MABEL McVICKER

Miss McVicker has previously been associated at both Peter Bent Brigham Hospital, from which she graduated, and New England Deaconess Hospital in the Boston area. She is currently serving as well on the Board of Directors of Central Directory and of the Massachusetts League of Nursing Education. She will retire to her home in New Hampshire.

Local Youth Wins Model Plane Award

—o—

Donald L. Ferguson, Jr., 17, son of Mr. and Mrs. Donald E. Ferguson of 21 Park place, Newtonville, was named one of the winners, having earned 390 points, in the National Model Plane championship competition Sunday at Dallas Naval Air Station. The planes are cut out by the manufacturers, but are built, equipped with motors, and control-flown by the contestants themselves.

Donald was New England Junior Champion last year in the National Meet at Kansas, even though he was placed at a preliminary disadvantage when the plane he entered did not meet the scale requirements.

Sgt. Thomas B. Concannon Is Awarded Fellowship To The N.W. Univ. Traffic Institute

Sergeant Thomas B. Concannon of the Newton Police Department received a check Wednesday morning representing an advance on a $650 fellowship awarded to him to attend the traffic police administration course at the Northwestern University Traffic Institute, Evanston, Illinois, this fall. The course will be held from September 7 to January 25, 1951.

The awards were announced following competition among scores of applicants from police departments throughout the country. Applicants were subjected to a series of examinations and a personal interview to determine their fitness.

The certificate was presented by Martin P. Luthy, vice president and New England manager of Lumbermens Mutual Casualty Company and American Motorists Insurance Company. Chief of Police Purcell witnessed the presentation at Newton Police Headquarters. Sergeant Concannon is one of nine municipal police officers in the United States awarded fellowships by the Kemper Foundation for Traffic Safety, an organization sponsored by Lumbermens Mutual Casualty Company and American Motorists Insurance Company. In addition, eight municipal police officers were awarded $250 scholarships by the Kemper Foundation.

Fellowships and scholarships also were awarded to state police and highway patrolmen by the Automotive Safety Foundation, Washington, D. C.

Aspirants to Public Office

Since Tuesday was the last day for submitting nomination signatures to the Secretary of State, The Newton Graphic will not publish announcements by the various candidates for Democratic and Republican nominations after next week's issue. The Graphic has endeavored to cooperate with the candidates for public offices by enabling them to present to the voters of Newton their qualifications for the positions they are seeking.

Because there are so many candidates seeking public support it has been necessary to establish next week as the deadline. Those who have not already had their announcements printed in this newspaper must have them at The Graphic office by Saturday noon, August 5, to get under the wire.

Group Takes Issue On Proposed School Site At Highlands

Contending that "the question as to whether or not a school shall be built anywhere in Newton at all does not depend wholly either upon Mr. Gores or upon the School Committee but rests with the Board of Aldermen and the Mayor," a group of residents of Oak Hill Park have issued a statement this week relative to the proposed location of a Bound Brook Road School in Newton Highlands.

The communication is signed by Nancey L. Stanhope, E. G. Stanhope, Dr. Robert C. Cochrane, Earl M. Dushuttle, Madeleine Barrett, Thomas Curtis and Vera Curtis.

The statement of this group issued this week is as follows:

"According to an item in the News-Tribune of July 10, Supt. of Schools Harold B. Gores has proposed a re-districting plan to go into effect with the opening of the new Memorial School in Oak Hill Park.

"This plan is to tide the department over until the completion of the proposed Spaulding School in Oak Hill and the proposed Bound Brook Road School in Newton Highlands.

"The undersigned, who are not only concerned as residents of the location involved but also as Newton citizens take issue with this matter only insofar as they feel that Mr. Gores is somewhat premature in speaking of a 'Bound Brook Road School in Newton Highlands.' At the recent hearing before the Board of Aldermen and at an equally recent School Committee meeting residents of the area concerned called the attention of Mr. Gores to the wholly unsuitable and specifically unhealthy character of the proposed site, through which runs an evil-smelling brook and swampy, low, marshy ground.

"It may be true that the proposed site is within the half-mile requirement emphasized by Mr.

Scholarships To Three Local Boys

—o—

Three Newton recipients have been awarded scholarships at Northeastern University and they will enroll with more than 1500 freshman in two divisions this fall.

Gordon K. Morse, 205 Grove street, Auburndale, who has been awarded a $150 Charles Hayden Memorial Scholarship, will major in industrial engineering in the College of Engineering. He will enroll on Sept. 6.

Ralph P. Hayden, 137 Stanford street, Auburndale, who has been awarded a $100 Charles Hayden Memorial Scholarship, will major in marketing and advertising in the College of Business Administration. He will enroll Sept. 6.

Bruce E. Stewart, Jr., 17 Washington terrace, Newtonville, will major in history and government in the College of Liberal Arts. He will enroll on Nov. 15.

All three graduated from Newton High School this year.

In all, Northeastern University has granted $10,500 in Charles Hayden and Trustees Scholarships to 88 top-ranking high school students.

J. Edgar Hoover Urges Public to Be Alert for Subversive Activities

J. Edgar Hoover, Director of the Federal Bureau of Investigation, this week asked the public to be alert for any evidence of subversive activities and to report such activities immediately to the F.B.I. He warned, however, that "the F.B.I. is interested in receiving facts; we are not interested in what a person thinks but in what he does which undermines our internal security" and that the public is urged to "avoid reporting malicious gossip or idle rumors.

Director Hoover's statement is as follows:

"The internal security of the United States can be assured with the cooperation, aid and assistance of every law-abiding person in our nation. The President of the United States in restating the responsibilities of the Federal Bureau of Investigation has called upon all law enforcement officers, patriotic organizations and individuals to report information pertaining to espionage, sabotage and subversive activities to the FBI. Plans have already been made and are in operation whereby the law enforcement agencies of the nation are working in close cooperation with the FBI.

"The following suggestions are being made to assist patriotic organizations and individuals in complying with the President's request:

"1. The FBI is as near to you as your telephone. The first page of every telephone book in the country lists the nearest office of the FBI. You can communicate with the FBI by telephone, letter or call at our nearest office.

"2. Feel free to furnish all facts in your possession. Many times a small bit of information might furnish the data we are seeking. If you have any information on sabotage, espion-

Directive for Blood Procurement Is Received

—o—

Mrs. Hannah Levensohn, Director of the Blood Program, Newton Chapter, American Red Cross, says that a directive has been received from Eastern Area, American National Red Cross, that a significant understanding has been reached between the American National Red Cross and the Department of Defense concerning the procurement of blood for the armed forces. This adds a further responsibility to the organization.

Automobile Registration Increases

The Massachusetts Registry of Motor Vehicles has issued a statistical report showing that 1,203,031 motor vehicle registration certificates were issued during the 6-month period ending June 30, 1950. This is a substantial increase over the same period a year ago when certificates totaled 1,110,950. There are appreciably more trailers, also; with 43,606 trailer certificates having been processed up to and including June 30 this year as compared with 42,336 certificates during the first half of 1949. A heavy increase is noted in the total of licensed operators, too; there being 1,687,496 on June 30, 1950 while the 6-month total for 1949 was 1,570,559.

Registrar King, in view of this large increase in traffic in the Commonwealth, has urged each motorist and pedestrian to "accept his share of responsibility"; for by thus doing, "traffic tolls can be reduced despite present day circumstances which indicated increased hazards for highway users."

Polio Cases Less Than Last Year

—o—

According to a report released this week by the Newton Health Department, poliomyelitis cases throughout the country this year to date, are considerably less than prevailed last year for the same period.

In Massachusetts, the report states, cases are few and widespread. The report further states that the prevalence of cases throughout the rest of the country are dropping behind last year. States reporting the largest number of cases are: Texas 111, Virginia 76, New York 64, and California 54.

Edwin W. Hadley of Newton to Seek Republican Nomination For Attorney General of State

EDWIN W. HADLEY

—o—

Edwin W. Hadley of 16 Belmont street, Newton, filed his nomination papers at the State House Tuesday and will be a contestant for the Republican nomination for Attorney-General. He is a home owner, taxpayer and has resided in Newton for the past twelve years.

Speaking of his candidacy, Professor Hadley stated:

"My friends have successfully circulated nomination papers which will put my name on the ballot as a candidate for the Republican nomination for Attorney-General at the primary election on next September 19th.

"I hereby accept this nomination as a candidate, and I wish to thank all who circulated and signed my nomination papers for their kind support.

"For twenty-seven years I have been a professor of law and a practising lawyer, and in both such professions I have worked and studied in the many fields of the law. Accordingly, I believe that I am qualified to be the chief law officer of the Commonwealth. My friends and students know, and I am certain that the public will learn, that I have no intolerance of any kind or description. I have worked on a farm, toiled with a hay-baling crew, driven a truck, stevedored on the docks and rendered military services as an

To Sponsor "R" Day August 14

—o—

A fleet of 25 cars and as many baby sitters will be on hand to accomodate unregistered voters when the Alice M. Waters Campaign Committee sponsors "R Day" from three to eight p.m. August 14. The Committee is providing this opportunity because it has learned that there are many unregistered voters in Newton.

In conjunction with "R Day," the Committee will publish this week the first edition of a newsletter designed to give legislative facts and news of happenings at the State House to voters in Wards 4, 5 and 6. The publication will be distributed every two weeks until the primary election with subsequent issues to follow throughout the year.

The first edition will contain facts about legislative procedure, Massachusetts taxes, election laws and the importance of registering to vote. Incorporated in the masthead will be a distinctive signet which will be featured in all Miss Waters' campaign advertising.

Those who wish to participate in "R Day" should call Alice M. Waters DE 2-0347, or Priscilla Marple, LA 7-6071 any evening. If August 14 is not convenient for some unregistered voters, accomodations for registration at other times will be provided from the Committee's rotating car pool.

Engagement of Miss Ann Schwartz Is Announced

Annual Reunion Of Wing Family This Saturday

—o—

The descendants of Deborah Wing are being called together for the annual regional reunion of the Wing Family of America at the Old Fort House, ancestral home of the family in East Sandwich, Mass., Saturday, August 5, according to announcement by Frank E. Wing, 15 Magnolia avenue, Newton, president. From all parts of New England, the descendants of the three Wing brothers, John, Daniel, and Stephen, who came to Boston with their mother, Deborah, in 1632, and settled in Sandwich in 1637, will gather to renew friendships and to plan for the continued preservation of the Old Fort House, one of the oldest houses in New England, and the oldest which has remained continuously in the possession of members of the same family through successive generations for more than three centuries.

Descendants from all over the country, including Iowa, New Hampshire, Chicago, Minnesota, Maine, California, and Pennsylvania, will be present for the afternoon, the program for which consists of a business meeting followed by a program of music, games, beach parties, guided tours of Old Wing houses, and a visit to the Sandwich Historical Society. On the program committee is Deborah Wing of Newton and Ross, California.

Explains Vote

—o—

Editor, Newton Graphic:

I should like to tell my constituents some of the facts connected with the second $100 million bond issue just passed by the General Court. I voted against this second $100 million bond issue because:

1—I wanted to be honest with the public about the cost.

2—I wanted to make sure that the over-all highway program will not have to be curtailed because of political or short-sighted financial planning.

3—Because the revenue from the present gas tax cannot be used to pay the bonds without endangering our ability to match the Federal contribution of $10 million annually, nor without certain loss to the cities and towns of $6 million annually distributed to them for local highway purposes under Chapters 81 and 90 of the General Laws.

4—The annual interest charges will be more than $1 million per year, and there is no need to burden the taxpayers with interest charges when there is, at this moment, $51 million of the present bond issue still available for highway construction.

5—The construction of highways requires months of engineering, and this $51 million, plus the $22 million in the regular highway fund now available, will provide for all the planning, engineering and construction that can be done before June 30, 1951. Therefore it is not necessary to appropriate another $100 million. The work would go along without any interruption.

6—I am convinced that it is financially unsound to place in the hands of a political administration in an election year, without any restrictions, such a large sum of money when that administration has repeatedly proved that jobs for the politically faithful are its first consideration.

I did not vote against the highway construction program, but against hasty, unsure, and unnecessary legislation that will continue waste and extravagance, and pass on to the next generation the responsibility that clearly belongs to the present General Court.

Edward Arnold recently seen as Pawnee Bill in "Annie Get Your Gun," comes to Wellesley August 8-12 as the guest star in the Wellesley Summer Theatre production of "Apple of His Eye." Mr. Arnold is celebrated for his numerous successful Broadway and stock engagements, and motion pictures, the best known among his more recent ones being "Janie," "Mrs. Parkington," "Weekend at the Waldorf," "Dear Ruth," "The Hucksters," "Command Decision" and "Take Me Out to the Ball Game."

Featured with Mr. Arnold will be Helen Shields, radio and stage actress. Supporting players are Fay Roope, Dorothy McLaughlin, and Frank Sanderford, all members of the resident company at the Wellesley Summer Theatre.

The production is staged by Henry B. Williams, and the set designed by George W. Hendrickson, both members of the faculty of the Theatre-school.

Curtain goes up at 8:00 p.m. every evening, as usual.

Executive Director Eldon Winkler has urged that, in order to be assured of the best seats for the world premiere of Jack Levin's comedy, "The Big Deal," reservations should be made early. Tickets are now on sale for this pre-Broadway engagement.

Addresses Board Of Trustees at N.-W. Hospital

—o—

In a talk entitled "Some Advantages of the Suburban Community Hospital," Dr. Egon E. Kattwinkel, Chairman of the Newton Heart Demonstration Program and a member of Newton Wellesley Hospital Medical Staff, stressed the tendency toward a homelike atmosphere in the community hospital as compared with that in a large teaching medical center. He discussed it from the point of view of the advantages to the patient, the physician, the resident and intern staff, the nursing personnel, the administration and the community.

The talk was presented at the quarterly meeting of the Board of Trustees of Newton-Wellesley Hospital held in Allen-Riddle Hall at the hospital July 25. Mr. Edward B. Gray, President of the Hospital, presided at the meeting attended by 3 members of the Board of Trustees, at which, in addition to Dr. Kattwinkel's speech, reports were heard from chairmen of the various committees of the Board of Trustees, as well as from the President of the Hospital Aid Association, Mrs. Robert W. Moore, Jr., and the Director of the Hospital, Dr. T. Stewart Hamilton.

The afternoon meeting was followed by the regular monthly meeting of the Board of Governors held in the office of the director.

Wins Prize for Best Slogan

Henry R. Lever, of 9 Wessex road, Newton Centre, was the top prize winner in the Silver Anniversary Slogan contest sponsored recently by Northeastern Distributors, Inc., Boston, where he is a salesman. Blue Ribbons and Special Awards Are Presented Children at Safety Program

In conjunction with the Newton Police and Recreation Departments, a bicycle safety program is being held at the various Newton playgrounds. Blue Ribbons, and Special Awards donated by merchants in the vicinity of the particular playground, are given to the children who pass the written test with the highest scores and drive their bikes more carefully through the intersections, circles, and curves constructed at the parks by the Maintenance Crew of the Recreation Department for this purpose.

Blue Ribbon and Special Awards went to: Mary Lu Rogers, Helen Monahan, Nancy DeGiacomo, Kevin Murphy, John Mullen, Oscar Carter, Alther Moore, Edward Cavallo, Billy DeGiacomo, and Eugene Mullen.

Blue Ribbons went to: John Green, Vernon Rollins, Sam McClary, Pat Gilroy, Edward Yanco, Richard Carmel, Richard Yanco, Eleanor Moore, Beverly Reynolds and James Manning.

The judges were Thomas L. McEnaney, the Safety Officer in charge of the program; Westly Phiwney, Official Starter of the Bicycle Racing Club of America; Nancy Mitchell, playground instructor, and James Delaney, Safety Officer of the Cambridge Police Department.

The Blue Ribbons and Special Awards were given out by Mayor Theodore R. Lockwood, Chief Philip Purcell and Miss Edith Doane, Supervisor of Education, Massachusetts Safety Council.

Alderman Kenneth Prior, James Murphy, member of the Board of Recreation and John "Buck" Donahue, Supervisor of Playgrounds, were present.

The written Bicycle Information Test that each contestant had to take consisted of the following questions:

Should a bicycle rider stop for a red light?

Do traffic signs apply to bicycle riders as well as to drivers?

Is it safe for two people to ride on a bicycle if one sits on the frame back of the handlebars?

Is it a good practice to ride a bicycle on the sidewalk in a business district of a city?

Should you ride at least three feet away from parked cars?

Should bicycles be ridden on sidewalks if there are many pedestrians?

If two people are riding bicycles on a busy highway, should one ride behind the other?

If you are riding a bicycle is it safe to hitch a ride on a slow-moving truck?

Is it safe to hitch a ride on a street car?

Should a bicycle be locked when it is parked?

If you enter a street from an alley and pedestrians are in the way, should you ring your bell to make them hurry out of your way?

Bicycle Safety Awards Are Made

—o—

Several youngsters were awarded blue ribbons and special safety test awards for having shown bicycle safety, at the Cabot Playground last Friday. The recreation department marked the playground off into roads, intersections and such, and various safety probems were set up on this testing ground.

Judges were Newton Safety Officer Thomas L. McEnaney, from whom the children learned their bicycle safety lesson; and the playground instructors, George King, Philip Pattison, and Marion Cannon.

Those awarded blue ribbons and special awards were Donald Norton, Richard Hession, Sylvia Rice, Paul Quinlan, Marjorie Galgaard, Ronald Bornstein, Leonard Murphy, and Michael McIntyre. Other blue ribbons went to Stephen Tribe, John Patuto, Jackie O'Sullivan, Francis Dougherty, Jane D'Ercole, Jackie Maley, Charles Gorman, and James Sheridan, Consolation awards went to Joseph Reeves and Hugh Comisky.

The Eden avenue Playground and the warren Playground were visited Monday. Among the many people, including parents, viewing the demonstration, were Police Chief Philip Purcell, Mayor Theodore R. Lockwood, Alderman Kenneth Prior, Miss Edith Doane, supervisor of Education in the Massachusetts Safety Council; Recreation Commissioner C. Evan Johnson; Belmont Safety Officer Raymond Cox, and Cambridge Safety Officer James Delaney. Members of the Board of Recreation were also present.

CYO to Hold Swimming Meet

—o—

The 5th Annual Swimming Meet for Boys and Girls sponsored by the Catholic Youth Organization in conjunction with the Development Committee of the New England Association A.A.U. will be held the afternoon of August 27 at 2 p.m. at the George R. White Memorial Pool in Charlestown.

The CYO Committee on Swimming has made two changes. Formerly the meet was held indoors in the fall. A steady growth in numbers—upwards of 300 are expected to participate this year—has forced the meet outdoors. Also, to provide an opportunity to the inexperienced as well as to the experienced swimmers, novice and open classes have been introduced.

St. Mary's of Charlestown is the defending titlist in both the boys' and girls' divisions.

It's Just A Question

Women may start all the arguments at home, but it's usually the men who start the wars. There are only a few examples in history of queens or other female rulers who were of a sufficiently quarrelsome nature, or even smart enough, to start a really important war, according to some and of course these are probably of the male species.

In recognition of this fact, war-gods, rather than war-goddesses, usually symbolize armed conflict between men and other men, in the mythology of ancient nations.

Research experts for "The Book House for Children," having inspected museums, libraries, archaeological finds, and historic ruins all over the world for information on this subject, emerged with some interesting details.

They found that "the fighting Pharoahs of the 18th Dynasty,, whose family came from Thebes, made their great war-god Amon greater than Ra and Osiris, the chief god of all the land, and they called him Amonra."

Bel and Ninib were the war-gods of Sumer, the great Asiatic culture which flourished on the same fertile plain that later cradled Babylon.

Ares was the awe-inspiring war-god of Greek mythology. He wore a helmet and carried a shield at all times, even when he hung around the rosy summit of Mt. Olympus.

Kwanti, the Chinese war-god, was dear to the hearts of the Mongols, fierce warriors who almost conquered the world under the leadership of the powerful Genghis Khan.

And the Aztecs of Mexico, to whom war was the breath of life, had a tongue-twister of a war-god named Huitzilopochtli, or Mextli for short.

However, the Akkadians, whom hardly anyone but history professors ever hear about, had a war-goddess. For a while, she did all right by the folks who believed in her, but, "like all women, she proved in the long run to be unreliable."

Current Comment

Influential Republicans Backing Needham . . Lt. Gov. Jeff Sullivan Faces Real Fight . . . Denfeld Silent as to His Eligibility . . .

There isn't much doubt but that the important fight for the Republican nomination for Governor will be settled in a hectic two-week race between Labor Day and Primary Day.

The six men seeking the right to carry their party's banner against Governor Dever next November are doing what they can to stir up public enthusiasm and interest in their causes.

They have been speaking at outings, picnics, clambakes, about any place where they can find a gathering of prospective listeners, but it's rather difficult to do much effective campaigning during the sultry weeks of August.

What is probably most important at this stage of the contest is the number of influential party leaders they can attract into their general camp in preparation for the September drive, and in this respect General Daniel Needham of Newton appears to be outstripping his opponents.

Whatever advantages former Attorney General Clarence A. Barnes, Admiral Louis E. Denfeld, former Lieutenant Governor Arthur W. Coolidge and Judge Frankland W. L. Miles may have piled up by the earlier starts to their campaigns, they can't match the impressive array of G.O.P. figures who have taken their places on the Needham bandwagon.

Needham still has to show what kind of campaigner he will make, but the party professionals, who don't guess wrong very often, have decided to string along with him. For the present, at least, he is the man to watch in that G.O.P. primary.

On the Democratic side of the political fence, the most interesting State-wide fight probably will be the drive against big, bumbling, fumbling Charles F. Jeff Sullivan, who is about as inconsequential a Lieutenant Governor as Massachusetts has had in a long time.

When Sullivan was Mayor of Worcester, the people of that city in the Heart of the Commonwealth demonstrated the esteem in which they held his administration by voting for the adoption of Plan E.

His service as Lieutenant Governor has been even less distinguished, if such a thing is possible, and certain of his associations in his home city are likely to be the subject of discussion during the campaign.

Even some of the Plan E adherents are still snickering over the unexpected help they received from Sullivan during one row on Beacon Hill.

Democrats and Republicans were locked in a battle over the question of outlawing Plan E in Massachusetts, the Democrats favoring the idea, the Republicans opposing it.

In the midst of the row each legislator received a telegram from the Lieutenant Governor, against whom Plan E had been directed in his own city. It called upon them to save and protect Plan E. What some of the Democratic law-makers had to say about Mr. Sullivan was not entirely of a complimentary nature.

At the present time Lieutenant Governor Sullivan has four opponents, and he will have the advantage of first place on the ballot. But if the opposition to him crystalizes behind one of the four candidates he might find that he could devote all his time to agitating for Plan E.

* * * *

Some of Admiral Louis E. Denfeld's political sponsors and backers are bitterly resentful that any issue has been made of the Admiral's eligibility to serve as Governor of Massachusetts.

They infer that anyone discussing the question does so for purely political reasons and for the purpose of driving the admiral out of the gubernatorial campaign.

Up to the time that this is written, Admiral Denfeld himself has chosen to disregard the issue and to leave it to one of his campaign lieutenants, Albert Cole of Lynn, to answer.

As a matter of fact, the admiral hasn't expressed his views on any issue relating to the Governorship of Massachusetts except in the most general terms.

It is not difficult to understand that a man, whose word was usually law in the Navy, might be astounded and shocked that a political writer would have the temerity to direct any pointed and pertinent questions to him and his candidacy.

Admiral Denfeld is now in politics. He stepped into the political field when he announced his candidacy for the highest public office the people of Massachusetts can confer upon any man. And he is no longer in a position to greet questions concerning his eligibility or qualifications with chilly silence.

As long as he has chosen to run for Governor, the people of Massachusetts certainly are entitled to a full discussion of whether he is eligible under the State Constitution to serve in that office.

This writer is not an authority on Constitutional law and does not pretend to be able to state whether or not Denfeld can meet the requirement that a Governor have seven years of residence in this Commonwealth before his election as Governor.

But the question was raised in the newspapers more than three weeks ago, and so far Admiral Denfeld has not answered it or met the issue in the straightforward manner you would expect from a man who has spent a lifetime in the Navy.

His spokesman, Mr. Cole, who may or may not be a qualified expert on the matter, issued a statement in which he said there was no question whatever as to the admiral's eligibility for the Governorship.

Mr. Cole listed a number of reasons to support that contention. He said that Denfeld always considered Massachusetts his home State, that he referred to it as such in his public addresses, that he always has been a registered voter in Westboro and regularly paid his $2.00 poll tax there.

He stressed that in the case of a serviceman his domicile is where he intends it to be. That, of course, is true. A man at a military station or on a battleship has wide latitude in deciding what city or town he wants to call home.

But Mr. Cole avoided the real issue that has been raised concerning Admiral Denfeld. That is that he has never paid a State income tax in Massachusetts.

State Tax Commissioner Henry F. Long, who is as good an authority on the matter as one can find, says that as far as he is concerned Admiral Denfeld is not a resident of Massachusetts.

He bases that statement on the fact that Denfeld has never made a tax return in this State, that he twice declined when he was asked to do so, that in 1945 he told tax officials his domicile was outside the Commonwealth, and in 1932 he said his residence was in Tacoma, Wash.

Commissioner Long goes further and says that if a man is a resident of Massachusetts he is legally required to file an income tax return here.

If, as Mr. Cole insists, the question of Admiral Denfeld's residency would hinge on his own intent, it appears that he would have difficulty showing that he intended Massachusetts to be his home State when he refused to pay it any income taxes.

Ordinarily, it would be an intrusion on a man's privacy to ask to what State or States he paid his income taxes for the past seven years, but it doesn't seem that it is when a man is offering himself as a candidate for Governor.

To the average resident of Massachusetts the responsibility for supporting their State government by the payment of taxes is a very real one and at time a burdensome one.

If Admiral Denfeld expects the people of Massachusetts to take his candidacy seriously he should tell them just how he considers he qualifies as a seven-year resident of the State, and he should explain why he has never filed an income tax return here.

* * * *

One of the reasons many Americans have been so stunned by the grim news from Korea was the false picture drawn over a period of many months by the man who is the over-all head of our armed forces, Secretary of Defense Louis Johnson.

About the most charitable thing that can be said for Secretary Johnson is that he talks a very potent war.

He was quoted repeatedly as declaring that if Russia went to war at 3:30, we would have our tremendous air power marshalled by 4:30.

"We can lick Joe Stalin overnight," he declared on one occasion.

The philosophy preached by Johnson was ir direct contradiction to that of Secretary of State Dean Acheson, and it now appears that it was Acheson who knew what he was talking about and that the greatest public service Johnson could render would be to write out his own resignation.

Month after month, Acheson has been calling upon the nation to mobilize its resources in order to create situations of strength which would permit a peaceful settlement with the Soviet Union. He urged some of the sacrifices which war itself demands.

In other words, Acheson felt the only way we could obtain peace was through military might and strength. Johnson took just the contrary tack, proudly announcing that we were getting greater security at less expense.

What's This Advertising Business All About?

An address delivered to the Newton Kiwanis Club at its meeting July 26.

By WINFIELD C. ANDERSON

So many times when during the course of conversation it comes out that I am in the advertising business, eyebrows —and people are curious. Invariably the reply is, "Advertising? That must be a very interesting game. Very lucrative, too." Well, gentlemen, advertising is very interesting, but whoever started the notion that it is a "game" should have had his oil changed many miles ago by his local psychiatrist. No, my friends, advertising is no more a game than is selling real estate, running a store or practicing a profession. It's a business—a business as logical as any of yours. Lucrative? As lucrative as your inegnuity, perseverance and perspiration want to make it.

So you see, the first points I want to make about the advertising business are: (1) it is not one glorious round of parties and pin-up girls, (2) that everyone engaged in the advertising business does not enjoy movie star incomes, (3) that it will probably take ten more years to live down the ublic illusion of advertising as created by the movies and suchp gems of literature as "The Hucksters."

Now I know that many people look on advertising as some rare sort of malady that bites some people. The innards of the business seem glamorous and exotic. Very few actually know what goes on behind the scenes. Today I would like to draw aside the curtain and show you that there are no concealed wires — no mirrors — no hidden ball tricks as far as advertising is concerned. I shall talk about the particular phase of advertising with which I am most familiar. That is the advertising agency.

Fundamentally, an advertis- agency is an organization of specialized personnel who together serve a group of businesses or clients, in the preparation of all sorts of advertising material. It is the job of the advertising agency to plan and execute the best means of selling a product, service or idea to the greatest number of people for the smallest amount of cost. Just how this shall be done, of course, calls for considerable know-how and understanding not only of the product, but how it is sold—how it is distributed—how it is bought —who buys it—why they buy it—why they will buy it again —what competitive products are on the market—what is the best way to reach and influence the potential customers for a product.

An advertising agency also functions as counsel in a host of other capacities which directly influence the sales of a client's merchandise. This includes display material, packaging, leaflets, pamphlets, and informative literature for salesmen, jobbers, wholesalers, and retailers. Most advertising agencies also serve as publicity agents for clients. In return for these facilities and services, the foremost question in your mind perhas is, "How does an advertising agency get paid?" Well —there is a standard, accepted method practiced by all reputable agencies throughout the country. For a flat fifteen per cent of the cost of an advertisement, whether it be in newspapers, magazines, on billboards, subway posters—over radio and television—the advertising agency which prepares and places the ad receives fifteen per cent of its cost. Thus, if it cost $1,000 for a newspaper ad in the Boston Herald, the agency would collect $150.00 for the client's use of that space. The agency would, in most cases, use its own working capital to pay the Herald $850, subsequently billing the client the established rate of $1,000. Now, someone might say, "Nuts to the advertising agency. I'll send my ads direct to the paper and save $150." However, this 15 per cent is allowed only to established agencies. Direct placement ads are billed at a straight rate. But, for the 15 per cent an advertising agency does a lot of leg work and gives the benefit of its experience and professional knowledge in the preparation of advertising that makes sales. The 15 per cent actually is a very nominal amount for services rendered.

Whew! So much for the finances. I hope I have convinced you fellows that we have a legitimate way of earning our keep. And remember — out of that 15 per cent we have to pay rent, light, salaries, supplies, postage stamps and for the time the cute red-headed receptionist spends talking to her dream boat on the telephone.

As for the internal operations of an advertising agency, there are seven major divisions. They are: copy, art, production, media, contact, billing and research. In some agencies, depending on the size, there are a number of people working in each department. In some small agencies one or two people will develop a swell case of ulcers trying to do two or three different jobs. Then there are the real booby-hatches where one man does 'em all. In some of the large New York agencies there may be up to 1500 people employed under the one company heading. Such outfits are J. Walter Thompson with offices all over the world, including Johannesburg, South Africa, and that butt of all radio jokes concerning advertising agencies, Batten, Barton, Durstine and Osborn. But even that mouthful is a piker compared to Merrill, Lynch, Pierce, Fenner and Beane.

In the copy department of an agency the bright people with a way with words manufacture the sense of the ad. In advertising terminology copy is words. Every word is copy. And that's how advertisements start out.

Next comes the art department whose job it is to take the words and ideas of the copywriter and arrange a suitable illustration in a pleasing presentation that will catch the reader's eye and invite him to explore the message.

From the art department the production department takes over to perform the mechanics of making the ad exist in material form. Here the type and photographs are fused in metal so that printing can be executed.

Of course billing handles the financial records and keeps a record of costs.

The media department has the know-how of what kind of advertising method will get best results. It is a veritable fountain of facts and figures on costs, sizes, closing dates.

Contact personnel call upon clients, discuss their problems, interpret the objectives to be achieved to the creative talent of an agency. They are the liaison force between client and agency.

Research is where all intelligent data originates. Facts on markets, competition and all sorts of valuable information that makes for sound planning comes from research. Research shows how to save making false moves that may be costly and wasteful in advertising.

Together, these specialzed people make the advertising wheels click successfully. It5s amazing to think that the billions of advertising dollars spent every year are the result of the efforts of but a very small group. There are about 60,000 people employed in all kinds of advertising jobs in the U. S. That is only one-tenth of 1 per cent of all jobs. By contrast, there are 180,000 lawyers, 165,000 doctors and 140,000 clergymen in this country.

Ah, yes—it's a wonderful business. And just to show you that we aren't stuffy about it here's an inspirational thought about the people in it. In an advertising agency a sensational new idea is one that has not been thought of by anyone else for at least the past six weeks. People who can think of sensational new ideas that have not been thought of for 90 days are geniuses. They are allowed to take an extra 15 minutes for lunch and pinch the prettiest stenographers.

So many times you and I hear scoffers of advertising. The armchair economists who pontifically state that advertising is a waste of money and that people who believe the ads—are just morons. Just recently I actually had a man tell me that he never read an advertisement in his life and that as a consequence he has never been influenced one bit by advertising.

I said to him, "Is that so, Bill? You sure are an unusual individual. But tell me one thing. What kind of a shirt are you wearing?" "An Arrow," he said, "I always wear Arrow shirts."

"What kind of new car are you going to buy next?" I asked him.

"Oh, I don't know—I'm kind of interested in that Oldsmobile 88 with the rocket engine and hydramatic drive. Sounds like a terrific car. After all—those General Motors cars have a wonderful reputation."

I then ointed out that in the space of a few seconds he had mentioned four brand names including a manufacturer's name.

Yet he said that he had never been influenced by advertising. When I asked him how come he knew about Arrow, Oldsmobile, and General Motors if he hadn't heard about them, read about them—yes, even investigated them, he stammered and finally said, "Well, I guess they were names in my subconscious mind but their advertising never affected me directly."

Subconsciously he admitted being influenced. What the heck —advertising isn't designed to hit you over the head with a club to make an impression. It can be just as effective when done subtly—and that's the way it's done usually.

Advertising makes impressions so that when you step up to buy cigarettes, chewing gum, a shirt or a new car, your own intelligence tells you what you want, but 100 to 1 you'll buy Camels, not X brand—Wrigley's, not Y brand—or Arrow, not Z brand. In other words, you want something that has the manufacturer's name and reputation behind it. That's why you can still buy Ivory soap and you can't buy Pear's soap which 50 years ago was the rage of two continents. They stopped advertising and new generations coming along never heard of the darned stuff. E

And then every once in a while you'll hear the braying of some character who maintains that advertising makes people buy things they don't need or can't afford. Well—actually all that we humans need basically for existence is food, water and shelter. But who wants to go back to the cave man era?

We never needed automobiles —within the means of nearly every family we had horses— we never needed electric refrigerators in every kitchen, we had ice boxes—we never needed the home pleasures of radio and television receivers, we had gramaphones—we never needed neatly packaged fresh foods, we had the cracker barrels and molasses kegs. Well—how did we get all of the many, many modern conveniences and luxuries that today give us the highest standards of living in the world? Inventive genius developed them, of course. But only the wealthy privileged few could afford the first automobiles, refrigerators and radios. It was mass production that brought these commodities within the financial reach of you and the man next door. And how do manufacturers arrive at mass production? Through mass demand, of course. And how do you get mass demand? Simply by appealing to enough people and creating the want within them. That, my friends, is done with advertising.

I don't have to draw any pictures to tell you that businesses prosper or fizzle without customers. And getting customers is as much a part of any business as the research laboratory, the production department or the managerial staff.

Now there are two ways to get customers. First — suppose Grandma Jones made the most delicious fudge in the world. Her family knew that and they served it to a few guests. The guests liked Grandma Jones' fudge too, and asked if they could buy some. So next time Grandma made fudge she made a little more than her regular batch. Grandma's friends told their friends and those friends told their friends. Pretty soon Grandma was spending all of her time making fudge. Word-of-mouth advertising had started a regular cycle of customers.

Well — Grandma outgrew her kitchen quarters — she couldn't make enough fudge in those quarters. So she rented a small plant. Now she could make enough fudge for her word-of-mouth customers but she had to make more than that to pay for her plant operation. She had to get more customers or quit making fudge! She had to let a lot of people know that she had fudge for sale. The best way, of course, would be to go to every house in town —ring the doorbell and tell 'em. That, however, is quite impractical. Naturally, the best way to contact a lot of people at one time was to run an advertisement and tell thousands of people simultaneously about her fudge. Out of that audience with the percentages with her, she'd be cultivating the necessary customers.

That's a mighty homely example of how advertising can work, and yet it is a fundamental purpose of advertising —to tell a lot of people at the lowest cost a story that you want to get across or an idea that you want to develop.

To show you just how practical this method is, let we show you this. Here is a full-page, four-color advertisement in Life magazine. How much do you think it cost to run this advertisement? $2,000? $4,000? $8,000? $16,000? No, gentlemen—the cost was $38,600. But what does the advertiser get for that apparently exorbitant figure? He gets his advertisement printed 5,303,000 times. Before that many millions of people he presents his story. And to tell that story to such potential customer it costs him the piddling amount of seven thousandths of a cent! Is it a bargain? Of course it is! And with an average pass-on readership of three persons for every issue of Life he stands a good chance of reaching nearly 16,000,000 people for $38,600.

That's what brings down the unit cost of advertising. That's why it costs only 1/32 of a cent to advertise Campbell's Soup or $8.34 to advertise a Chevrolet —or 3 cents to advertise your favorite Arrow or Manhattan shirt.

If the economics of advertising were not sound—if it didn't pay off, Procter & Gamble wouldn't spend $33,000,000 a year to sell soap which at the most costs 29c per package. Your cigarette companies, automobile manufacturers, and any other other commodity manufacturers wouldn't be pouring their dough and their stockholders' dough down the spout if there was not a worthwhile return on their investment.

There is one final yet highly significant point that establishes advertising as an important adjunct to our way of life. Advertising not only pays its own way but also pays the way for a great many of the things you enjoy. Advertising pays for the newspaper you read. Without it, no publisher could stay in business unless he charged several dollars per copy instead of the usual five cents. Even Marshall Field with his practically unlimited wealth couldn't afford to continue to publish his advertising-less newspaper "P.M."

None of your weekly or monthly magazines would bring you hours of interesting and educational reading if advertising didn't pay editorial and production staffs.

Your radio and television networks and stations would offer sorry programming without sponsors—who are advertisers. Instead you would hear for hours the same type of dull broadcasting for which the British Broadcasting Company —a non-commercial network— is famous. Instead fo Jack Benny, The Ford Symphony, famous sports events, the Lux Radio Theater or any of the hundreds of other programs that bring free radio and television entertainment into your home, you'd be tuning in on the love life of Afghanistan camels or how to build a tree house in a butternut tree.

Those, gentlemen, are the ways advertising pays its way and the way of the good things in life.

So—if you like your way of life under the American plan—if you think that America offers opportunities unlimited, remember that advertising has contributed and will continue to contribute to our fine way of doing things. It's a lot of fun and a ceaseless challenge to be working in a business that combines salesmanship, showmanship and a good common-sense understanding of people.

Frankly, I think advertising is here to stay!

Praises Herter, Jr.

—o—

Editor, Newton Graphic:

As a lifelong resident and businessman of the City of Newton, I would like to express an opinion relative to the September contest for State Representative from the 4th Middlesex District which includes West Newton, Newtonville, Newton and Nonantum.

Newton is fortunate because an extremely able and conscientious candidate, in the person of Christian A. Herter Jr., is seeking this post. Herter's name has long been associated with Republicanism and it is altogether fitting that he should be a candidate from traditionally Republican Newton. He is the type of man who should represent the Garden City in the Massachusetts Legislature. His education, background and civic activities certainly qualify him for the job. In addition he obviously has the initiative and leadership so necessary to give the people the sort of representation they deserve on Beacon Hill.

The men and women who have served Newton in the Legislature have compiled an enviable record in the past. The election of Christian A. Herter Jr. will insure the continuance of this tradition of able public service.

Named To Key Post in Jewish Appeal Drive

—o—

Mrs. Philip A. Segal, 60 Eliot Memorial road, Newton, has been named to a key post in the Women's Division of the Combined Jewish Appeal. She will be Assistant Campaign Chairman in charge of Administration and Public Relations for the drive to raise funds for Israel, local health and welfare services and overseas needs.

Long active in the Combined Jewish Appeal, Mrs. Segal is particularly interested in the family service aspect of the social welfare field, and is a member of the executive committee of both the Jewish Family and Children's Service and the Newton Family Service, which she also serves as program chairman. A member of the National Council of Jewish Women, she is New England Regional Chairman of Section Service and a past president of the Boston section. She has also held the post of president of the League of Jewish Women's Organizations of Greater Boston.

The renowned Yodeling Slim Clark, the fastest yodler in New England will appear in person at the Melody Corral on Route 9 at the Wellesley-Natick line this Saturday night.

Folks who like to hear yodeling, and who doesn't, should not miss this chance to hear one of the best in the business. Make up a party of friends now and go to the Melody Corral and enjoy a very pleasant evening.

Juvenile Stakes At Wonderland

—o—

Over ninety young greyhound racing hopefuls are being readied for the fourth annual Wonderland Juvenile Stake Race. This "Puppy Stake", so called as the entrants must be born on or after January 1, 1949, has had to start its elimination events now, even though the quarter finals don't take place until August 23 and 24.

This Juvenile Stake, due to its large added purse, provides an incentive for owners and trainers to concentrate on producing only the best in racers. It also helps them to determine just what are the capabilities of some of their potential stars.

Elimination races will be held until the field is cut down to 64 young hopefuls. When the field reaches 64, then one round of schooling races will be held at the conclusion of a regular night of racing to narrow down the entries to 34. These 34 greyhound puppies will then compete in the quarter finals, the first four in each quarter final will run in the semi-finals on August 28 with the finals on August 31.

Many of the pups to reach the finals will be making the headlines at Wonderland next year. Last year's winner, Something New, has had her share of wins this year and another of last year's finalists is Wonderland's long distance champion. Mariella, Art Wilson's brindle racing lady won her title by taking the 7/16 mile Essex County Championship.

Hold "Junior Pooler Night" at Norwood Arena

—o—

Tonight is "Junior Pooler Night" at the Norwood Arena stock car races. "Junior" was seriously burned while driving in the midget auto races at Norwood Thursday, July 6. He is hospitalized at the Norwood Hospital, being treated for the burns he received when the gasoline in the car spilled over the motor, completely enveloping him as he drove along, trying to bring the flaming car to a halt. Doctors say he will be confined to bed for from 9 months to a year. He is married and has two children.

The Benefit being run tonight is for the purpose of lending a hand to "Junior" Pooler during these months. The show will consist of eight stock car races, plus added attractions. Such stars of the N.E.A.R.A. as Ray Janelle, Bob Harper, Red Cummings, Ralph Gurney, and Hop Harrington will be present.

It is hoped that all stock car fans who have been thrilled by "Junior's" driving exploits during the past three years will be there tonight to aid him during his darker hours.

Gores. This alone, however, does not warrant the selection of a school site with such obvious defects, particularly in view of the fact that there are far more attractive and apparently more suitable sites in the immediate vicinity. Finally, we should like to point out that the question as to whether or not a school shall be built anywhere in Newton at all, does not depend wholly either upon Mr. Gores or upon the School Committee, but rests with the Board of Aldermen and the Mayor, who, we are certain, will do what is best for the citizens of Newton."

Concannon-

The Northwestern University Traffic Institute's nationally-known traffic police administration course is designed for commanding officers, police training directors and for those who may be expected to attain positions of command. Its purposes are to: 1, provide a broad understanding of all phases of modern traffic control; 2, develop ability to plan and execute an effective traffic control program; 3, develop ability to conduct traffic police training courses, and 4, encourage professional awareness and an interest in traffic policing as a career.

Lectures, demonstrations, conferences, field work, and a one-week field study trip constitute the plan of instruction. Field trips are to selected police departments to study in actual operation the principles and methods taught in the classroom.

Subjects that are covered in the four-and-a-half month course include traffic law enforcement, traffic police administration, traffic flow regulations, records analysis, traffic engineering, accident investigation, pedestrian control, and vehicle inspection.

The Director of the Traffic Institute, Franklin M. Kreml, is a nationally-known authority on traffic safety. The Institute faculty, including outstanding authorities on traffic safety and police administration is drawn from Northwestern University, the Traffic Institute, the Traffic Division of the International Association of Chiefs of Police, police departments, safety organizations, and other agencies.

Five hundred and twenty-nine officers have been graduated from 22 previous classes in traffic police administration at the Institute. Sergeant Concannon is the first representative of the Newton Police Department to attend the Institute.

More than two thousand other police officers, traffic court judges and prosecutors, driver training instructors, motor vehicle fleet supervisors, and military traffic personnel have attended short courses and conferences at the Institute since its organization in 1936.

Among the guests who attended the presentation of the fellowship award to Sergeant Concannon were: Mayor Theodore R. Lockwood, who congratulated the Sergeant on being awarded the fellowship; Judge Donald E. Mayberry, of the Newton District Court; Charles O. Richter, assistant superintendent of the Newton school and president of the Governing Board of the Newton Community Council; George M. Henry, Highway Safety Supervisor, representing Edgar F. Copell, president of the Massachusetts Safety Council; Rudolph F. King, Registrar of Motor Vehicles, and members of the Street Traffic Committee of the Board of Aldermen consisting of Edward A. Fahey, chairman; Kenneth E. Prior, Arthur S. Scipione, Earle D. Wood, Edwin A. Terkelson, Stanton J. Ten Broeck Jr., and Paul S. Rich.

Over 500 Attend Annual Red Cross Swimming Demonstration

A crowd of more than 500 people witnessed the Fifth Annual Red Cross Demonstration at Crystal Lake on Sunday, staged by a large number of children under the direction of Miss Claire McCarthy, swimming instructor.

Speakers on the program included: Maxwell P. Gaddis, chairman of the Newton Chapter, American Red Cross, who extended the greetings of the Red Cross and emphasized the splendid opportunity offered these children to take part in this program; Frank E. Dowcett, chairman of the Water Safety Program for the Newton Chapter; Kenneth E. Prior, Alderman at Large; and John Donahue, representing C. Evan Johnson, Commissioner of the Newton Recreation Department.

All classes will continue until August 31st. A new life-saving class, both junior and senior, began Tuesday at 11:15 a.m., and classes for adults will continue Wednesday evenings from 6 to 8.

Miss McCarthy and her teaching staff greatly appreciate the interest and help from all the parents. They wish to thank the following people for their splendid cooperation: Chief of the Newton Police Department, Philip Purcell; Walter Hartford, Newton Police radio technician, who operated the public address system; Joseph Deely, Superintendent of Transportation of the Middlesex and Boston Street Railway Company, who has arranged the bus schedules for the morning transportation and for the afternoon has allowed the children the use of bus tickets at half-price.

age, or subversive activities, contact the FBI.

"3. The FBI is interested in receiving facts; we are not interested in what a person thinks but in what he does which undermines our internal security. Avoid reporting malicious gossip or idle rumors.

"4. Do not circulate rumors about subversive activities, or draw conclusions from information you furnish the FBI. The data you possess might be incomplete or only partially accurate. By drawing conclusions based on insufficient evidence injustices might result to innocent persons.

"5. Once you have reported your information to the FBI do not endeavor to make private investigations. This can best be done by trained investigators who have access to data acquired over the years on individuals engaged in subversive activities. Hysteria, witch-hunts and vigilantes weaken internal security. Investigations involving internal security require care and painstaking effort. We all can contribute to our internal security by protecting the innocent as well as by identifying the enemies within our midst. In cases involving espionage it is more important to identify spies, their contacts, sources of information, and methods of communications than to make immediate arrests.

"6. Be alert. The greatest defenders against sabotage are the loyal American workmen who are producing the materiais and weapons for our defense. They can be the "watch dogs" of defense in every walk of life.

"7. The forces which are most anxious to weaken our internal security are not always easy to identify. Communists have been trained in deceit and secretly work toward the day when they hope to replace our American way of life with a Communist dictatorship. They utilize cleverly camouflaged movements, such as some peace groups and civil rights organizations, to achieve their sinister purposes. While they as individuals are difficult to identify, the Communist Party line is clear. Its first concern is the advancement of Soviet Russia and the godless Communist cause. It is important to learn to know the enemies of the American way of life."

LEGALS

THE COMMONWEALTH OF MASSACHUSETTS
LAND COURT
Middlesex, ss.

TO THE HONORABLE THE JUDGES OF THE LAND COURT FOR THE COMMONWEALTH OF MASSACHUSETTS.

Respectfully represents William F. Lamb and Edith V. Lamb, of Newton, in the County of Middlesex and said Commonwealth; that they are owners of certain lots of land with the buildings thereon, situate in Newton, in the County of Middlesex and said Commonwealth, bounded and described as follows:

1. A certain parcel of land, with the buildings thereon, situated in that part of said Newton called Waban and comprising the greater part of Lot numbered 394 and the whole of lot numbered 396 as shown on a plan made by Ernest W. Bowditch, dated 1890, and recorded with Middlesex South District Deeds, Book of Plans 63, Plan 39, and bounded as follows:
   SOUTHERLY by Mossfield Road, two hundred ten and 36/100ths (210.36) feet;
   EASTERLY by Lots numbered 393, 397 and 395 on said plan, two hundred thirteen and 72/100ths (213.72) feet;
   NORTHERLY by the parcel of land hereinafter described, being registered land, eighty-four and 97/100ths, (84.97) feet; and NORTHWESTERLY by the remaining part of said lot numbered 394, and being land now or formerly of Ruth B. Bourne, seventy-three and 94/100ths (73.94) feet.
2. Also a certain other parcel of land comprising lot numbered 392B as shown on a plan filed with a Certificate of Title numbered 5223 in the Middlesex South Registry District of the Land Court and bounded as follows:
   SOUTHEASTERLY by the parcel above described, eighty-four and 97/100ths (84.97) feet;
   NORTHEASTERLY by land now or formerly of George B. Loring thirty-five and 7/100th (35.07) feet, and NORTHWESTERLY by lot numbered 392A on said plan, ninety-nine and 23/100ths (99.23) feet.

Being the same premises conveyed to said William F. Lamb and Edith V. Lamb by deed of Bertha I. Davis, recorded with Middlesex South District Deeds in Book 4824, Page 33, the registered title being derived from Certificate of Title No. 10783.

That the record title to said lot of land is clouded by a mortgage given by said William F. Lamb and Edith V. Lamb, to Dora White, dated June 16, 1925, and duly recorded with Middlesex South District Deeds in Book 4854 Page 401, and also being Document numbered 59773, registered June 18, 1925 on Certificate of Title No. 10783, in Land Court Case No. 1334, purporting to secure a note for Two Thousand Dollars ($2,000), payable in or within one year with interest semi-annually at six (6) per cent per annum, which mortgage was assigned to B. L. Tim-Manson Co. by instrument dated October 13, 1928, and recorded with said Middlesex South District Deeds in Book 5288, Page 521, and being Document numbered 91837, registered October 16, 1928 on said Certificate of Title No. 10783. also

By a mortgage given by said William F. Lamb and Edith V. Lamb to Timothy J. Desmond, dated August 31, 1928, and duly recorded in Book 5272, Page 224, and also being Document numbered 90566, registered Sept. 1, 1928 on said Certificate of Title No. 10783, purporting to secure a note for Fifteen Hundred Dollars ($1500), payable in one year with interest quarterly at six (6) per cent per annum; and

By a mortgage given by said William F. Lamb and Edith V. Lamb to Tim-Manson Huckins Co., dated Sept. 7, 1929 and duly recorded with Middlesex South District Deeds in Book 5398, Page 329, and also being Document numbered 100761, registered Sept. 19, 1929 on said Certificate of Title No. 10783, purporting to secure a note for Two Hundred Fifty Dollars ($250) with interest at six (6) per cent per annum, payable as provided in note, all of which mortgages appear to be undischarged, unassigned —except in the case of the mortgage to said Dora White—and unforeclosed on and by the record.

That for more than twenty years after the expiration of the time limited for the full performance of said condition no payment has been made and no other act done in recognition of said mortgage; and

That the mortgagors named in said mortgages and those claiming under them have been in uninterrupted possession of said land for more than twenty years after the expiration of time limited in said mortgagé for the full performance of the condition thereof.

WHEREFORE your petitioners pray that after appropriate notices a decree may be entered on the foregoing allegations as authorized by Section 15, Chapter 240 of the General Laws as amended by Chapter 20, of the Acts of 1924.

WILLIAM F. LAMB and
EDITH V. LAMB.

A Red Feather Service

Birthday Gifts for Mother

By DOROTHY G. BAKER

"Thank you, ma'm," said Eddie to the Rummage Sale worker at the West Newton Community Centre as he picked up an armful of packages and left the table. After a short conversation with the woman who had helped him choose the contents the youngster disappeared out the door and along the street.

"He hardly said a word," remarked the worker to the boy's companion, "but his whole being seemed alive and happy."

"As his school teacher I know that those few words are the major part of his English vocabulary", the latter replied, "You should feel well repaid for all the efforts you have put into this Sale."

"Well", admitted the worker, "it is nice to hear that. By holding these sales at the Centre we give its friends an opportunity to contribute what to them are useless articles which we sell to others who consider them real treasures."

"To Eddie, the scarf, tray book, and quilted slippers are indeed treasures," the other replied. "They are birthday presents for his mother, and I doubt that there will be a happier one in the city of Newton."

"The two," she continued, "have been living with the mother's brother and his wife since their arrival in the United States only a few weeks ago. It took all the resources the mother had to bring them here, and consequently Eddie has no spending money. He was in despair when he came to me at recess the other day. He had tried to get a paper route like his friend, Jimmy, but was not old enough. The language difficulties interfered when he sought other ways to earn money. However, a friend and I gave him small errands to do, and the 40 cents he earned was a real achievement."

"This sale was certainly timely. Eddie was enchanted with his purchases and he is beginning his American way of life by honestly earning his privileges and rewards. This little incident is a fine example to illustrate the contributions of this Red Feather agency to the community."

Field Day Dates Are Scheduled at All Playgrounds

—o—

The Newton Recreation Department today announced the dates for the Playground Field Days to be held in conjunction with the summer recreation program. These field days afford an opportunity for the playground children to display their talents and to compete against each other in various playground activities.

The children look upon this day as a highlight of the playground season and are most encouraged when the parents attend. The parents will also have an opportunity to view the handwork and craft work projects carried out by individual and group action.

The Newton Recreation Department cordially invites all parents to visit these field days and to share in the enjoyment and pleasure afforded by our Newton Recreation Program.

New Stores of R. H. Stearns and S. S. Pierce Opened at Chestnut Hill Last Week

R. H. STEARNS EXECUTIVES who greeted visitors last week at the opening of their new store in Chestnut Hill at the junction of the Worcester Turnpike and Hammond Pond Parkway. They are (left to right): Richard McGeoch, who is in charge of the accessory divisions; Edgar S. Swail, head of the children's and housewares division; William M. Sanderson, manager of the new store; Carl N. Schmalz, president of the R. H. Stearns Company, and Miss Janet Chamberlin, in charge of the fashion apparel divisions. A view of the front of the new building also is seen above, with its redwood louvers outside and a similar motif inside. There are entrances at both ends of the ultramodern building, designed largely of white brick with large areas of glass and native fieldstone. Also the new S. S. Pierce Company store, next door to Stearns. The side entrance, nearest the generous parking lot and Hammond Pond, is shown above. Mouth-watering window displays tempt the visitor. Natural fieldstone, utilized near the entranceway, extends into the inside of the building, which was designed by Walter Dorwin Teague, as was the Stearns building. (Right) Executives of the new S. S. Pierce store stand in front of the eye-catching display tree which graces the entrance nearest Stearns. They are (left) James J. McDonough, assistant manager of the new store and (right) Aubrey C. Schurman, manager. The tree has samples of S. S. Pierce's goodies on its "branches." Among the delicacies displayed are cool-looking green onion puffs. (All photographs printed through the courtesy of The Christian Science Monitor).

Among the eager crowds which attended the opening last Thursday morning of the R. H. Stearns' new "country club" store in Chestnut Hill and the new S. S. Pierce Company store next door, were many persons from Newton.

Both stores, located between Hammond street and the Hammond Pond Parkway, on the Worcester Turnpike, are ultra-modern both inside and out. Both make use of native fieldstone and both have large areas of glass as walls. The stores were designed by Walter Dorwin Teague, with Morton C. Tuttle Company, contractors. Both have ample parking areas adjacent to them and each store is air-conditioned.

Other large stores already located in the new Chestnut Hill shopping development, or those which will soon locate there are the Franklin Simon store, Filene's store, and the Star Market.

On the opening signal at R. H. Stearns there were no ribbon cuttings or formal ceremonies last week. Interested visitors were free to walk about at their leisure, lingering in those departments which especially caught their fancy—the millinery section, with its accessible chairs and horizontal mirrors, the better dress department, with its white colonial trim and handsome white chandeliers against Wedgwood walls, the junior department with its youthful-appearing dogwood-flowered walls, and others.

Among the innovations at S. S. Pierce is a brand new car service. A shopper may remain in her auto while the order which she has telephoned or placed in the store is brought to her.

At Stearns, one of the departments which captured the special interest of adults as well as of youngsters was the children's shoe section. There, a circus-like atmosphere prevails. A sort of circus tent covers the tiny carpeted stairs, ascent of which leads to the menagerie, lions, tigers, and other animals—all in the form of small chairs in which the children sit while being fitted for shoes.

Other handsome departments include the sportswear, into which the fieldstone motif and redwood treatment of the outside are carried, thus bringing the outdoors indoors, giving an open airy effect.

A masculine appearing men's department, more complete than that of the down-town store, is eye-catching with its cypress paneling.

Across one end of the store is a large mural depicting a scene on the Boston Common about 1847, with the State House in the background.

Fitting rooms will be the delight of the women customers, especially. Partitions are moveable to accommodate a larger number of persons, when desired. Mirrors also flatter the customer, special lighting giving her a rosy glow.

Over the entire area is a thick carpeting with a sponge-rubber backing, making for cushioned walking.

On the mezzanine floor is the piece-goods department, as well as ladies' lounge and rest-room. The employees' cafeteria, with a view out across the pond to the Hammond Pond Parkway, is also located on this floor.

New store manager is William M. Sanderson of 17 Stetson Way, Waban and the three assistant managers are: Edgar S. Swail, of 1105 Walnut street, Newton Highlands, in charge of the children's and housewares section; Richard McGeoch, of Newton, accessories division, and Miss Janet Chamberlain of Brighton, fashion apparel divisions.

At S. S. Pierce's, niches and gay wall designs indicate the type of merchandise displayed below. Over the cheese bar, for example, there's a milkmaid. A large powder box on the upper wall indicates that cosmetics are sold in that particular section. At one entrance, a modernistic tree also displays many of the tempting delicacies for which S. S. Pierce is known.

Aubrey C. Schurman is manager and James J. McDonough, assistant manager.

Sunday morning service, 10:45; Sunday School at the same hour. Wednesday evening testimony meeting at 8.

"Spirit" is the Lesson-Sermon subject for Sunday, August 6. Golden Text: "The fruit of the Spirit is love, joy, peace, long-suffering, gentleness, goodness, faith, meekness, temperance; against such there is no law (Galatians 5:22, 23).

Sermon: Passages from the Bible (King James Version) include:

"Whither shall I go from thy spirit? or whither shall I flee from thy presence? . . . If I take the wings of the morning, and dwell in the uttermost parts of the sea; Even there shall thy hand lead me, and thy right hand shall hold me" (Psalms 139:7, 9, 10). Correlative passages from "Science and Health with Key to the Scriptures" by Mary Baker Eddy include:

"God is individual, incorporeal. He is divine Principle, Love, the universal cause, the only creator, and there is no other self-existence. . . . He fills all space, and it is impossible to conceive of such omnipresence and individuality except as infinite Spirit or Mind. Hence all is Spirit and spiritual" (p. 331).

First Newton War Casualty Is Reported

—o—

Listed among the 472 Americans reported missing in action thus far in the Korean war was Master Sgt. Richard A. Haley, 29, of 22 Charles street, Auburndale, according to a War Department telegram received by his family last week.

The 29-year-old man is first sergeant of Rifle Company I, 21st Infantry Regiment, of the 24th Division, and is a veteran of World War II, serving in the ETO. He was also a member of the Occupation Forces, before being sent to Japan in February of 1949.

Sgt. Haley, the son of the late William Haley, a World War I veteran and a Newton policeman, joined the Regular Army in 1937 as a career soldier, and his last visit home was in February of 1949. He was single, and has two brothers. Leo A., 31, married, and living in Auburndale with Haley's grandmother, Mrs. Ellen Flanagan, 90, of the same address.

Another brother, William A., 28, is a petty officer in the Navy as a career man and is presently on fleet maneuvers in the Bermuda area, but is expected to arrive home following the training cruise.

Registration Session at Oak Hill Adds 197 New Names to Voting List

A total of 197 persons were registered Tuesday night at the registration session held at the new Oak Hill Fire Station on Dedham street. This large registration of voters probably is one of the largest number ever registered through a concerted effort to add names to the voting list of the city.

Through the combined efforts of Arthur G. Heaney, president of the Oak Hill District Improvement Association, and Franklin Flaschner, past president of the Oak Hill Park Association, postal cards were sent out and personal telephone calls made to enlighten residents of precincts 4 and 7 in Ward 5 of the registration session.

It was reported that a large percentage of the 197 registered were younger people, many of them from the Oak Hill Park development.

NEWTON CENTRE WOMAN'S CLUB members, working singly and in groups, have spent a busy summer preparing for their Bazaar, The Holiday Gift House, which will be held October 25 and 26. A group of the Household Committee met at the home of its chairman, Mrs. Albert L. Sliker Tuesday of this week to sew on the many attractive articles they are making for the Household Table. Members of this committee who attended this meeting are: Left to right: Mrs. Norman M. Appleyard, co-chairman; Mrs. N. Arnold McCoy; Mrs. Ralph L. Morse, co-chairman; Mrs. William H. McCabe; Mrs. Albert L. Sliker, chairman; Mrs. Benjamin T. Fawcett; Mrs. Carl B. Bohlin; Mrs. Orville P. Carter, and Mrs. Harry A. Wansker.

Former Waban Resident Named Alumnae Regional Secretary At Women's College

Appointment of Mrs. Edwin B. Roberts formerly of Waban, to the newly-created position of alumnae regional secretary at New Jersey College ofr Women, Rutgers University, has been announced by Mrs. O. Wesley Davidson, president of the Associate Alumnae.

Mrs. Roberts' primary responsibilities will be the direction of the annual alumnae fund campaign and field work with alumnae and alumnae clubs, both in New Jersey and outside the State. The former Miss Marjorie Virgien, Mrs. Roberts was graduated in 1930 from New Jersey College for Women, the woman's college of the State University of New Jersey.

A former resident of 564 Quinobequin road, Waban, Mrs. Roberts was active in community organizations. She was president of the Massachusetts Alumnae Club of New Jersey College for Women, founder and president of the Angier School P.T.A. in Waban, and organized the Children's Exchange in Waban. She was chairman in charge of organizing and fund-raising for the Girl Scouts in Waban; membership and social chairman of the Waban Woman's Club; hospitality chairman of the Neighborhood Club; a member of the executive board of the Double Y; and captain in the fund-raising drive for the Newton-Wellesley Hospital. During the war she was a canteen worker for the Newton Red Cross and Blood Donor Center and a hospital aide in the Newton-Wellesley Hospital.

A native of New York City, Mrs. Roberts attended the Dwight School in Englewood, and was graduated from New Jersey College for Women with a major in history. Shortly after her graduation she became assistant to the director of the Personnel Bureau at the College, a position she held until 1936. She received a master's degree in personnel from New York University in 1932.

Her husband is a personnel consultant for the Sheraton Hotels and they have a 16-year-old daughter, Marjorie, a student at Dana Hall School. Their permanent home is Shoot Flying Hill road, Centerville, Mass.

Award Given Dr. Lamb for Cancer Aid

—o—

Dr. Charles A. Lamb, Newton campaign chairman for the 1950 drive of the American Cancer Society's Massachusetts Division, has received a framed award from the American Cancer Society in appreciation of the help given in the fight against cancer.

The award presented Dr. Lamb reads:

"The American Cancer Society, Inc., hereby commends Dr. Charles A. Lamb, who through continuing assistance and cooperation made an outstanding contribution in the fight against cancer."

The testimonial is signed by William J. Donovan, chairman of the Board and E. H. Bobst, vice chairman of the board of the National Society.

Asks Newton and Other Communities To Approve Discharge of 15 Million Gallons of Water Into Charles

—o—

Moving to eliminate nuisances heightened by the drought and recent heat wave, the State Health Department has asked Newton and six other cities and towns bordering the "extremely" low Charles River to approve the discharge of 15 million gallons of surplus Metropolitan District Commission water into the river.

Deputy Commissioner Clarence I. Sterling Jr., revealed that his department has sought approvals from Newton, Boston, Cambridge, Waltham, Wellesley, Weston and Watertown.

If four or more of the communities favor the plan, the State Health Department will request the M.D.C. to divert the surplus water to the Charles River from its Sudbury aqueduct.

Mrs. Haeuser Is Named As Case Worker

—o—

Mrs. Adrienne A. Haeuser has recently been named as a case worker for the Family Service Bureau of Newton, a Red Feather Service. A native of Whiting, Ind., Mrs. Haeuser comes to the agency with a fine educational background.

A graduate of Wellesley College, Class of 1948, where she took a pre-medical course, she received her Master's Degree in Social Service at the Simmons College School of Social Work this past June. Her field work was gained at the James Jackson Putnam Children's Clinic in Roxbury and dealt primarily with the problems of difficult children.

Most of her service at the Family Service Bureau will be family counselling and individual adjustments. Mrs. Haeuser, who is married to a young architect in Boston, is active in the Wellesley Alumnae Association and is reunion chairman for her class.

Post Office Needs At Nonantum Now Being Considered

—o—

Word has been received from Congressman John W. McCormack by Gordon L. Hawes of 46 Lothrop street, Newtonville, that Postmaster General Donaldson has acknowledged Nonantum's request for a second class post office and that action on it will be taken as soon as the facts of an investigation by Inspector Mc Carthy of the Boston branch of fice of the U. S. Post Office Department is completed.

Things Do Happen--Even In Newton

We've heard a lot of fish stories, but none to beat this one. It appears that Merton D. Knowels, of 29 Commonwealth avenue, Chestnut Hill, who manages a large apartment building owned by his father, at that address, was experiencing trouble with the water supply in the building.

Calling the Newton Water Department, Wednesday morning, a service man was dispatched to the apartment house and came to the conclusion that the trouble was in the water meter. It was! Taking it apart and reposing in it was a dead Horn Pout.

The service man forthwith took the fish along with him to prove to the city officials that he was not telling a fish story. Whether a fish dinner was later prepared Wednesday evening at the home of the service man, has not been determined.

Legion County Hosts To Hold Its Pre-Convention Meeting Here Saturday

Representatives of Posts throughout the county will gather Saturday in the War Memorial Building here for the pre-convention meeting and caucus of the Middlesex County Council of the American Legion.

At 1:30 the executive council committee will be convoked, and at 2 the pre-convention meeting will open, to be attended by delegates and alternates, members, and those running for departmental office.

Under discussion will be the recommendation of the posts of the 9th District which concerns the determination of district commanderships within the council. A change will have to be brought about in the council's by-laws if this is passed. This meeting will be a preliminary to the department convention in Cambridge, August 17-19.

At 2:30 the pre-convention caucus will open, when delegates and alternates will organize and complete preliminary business incidental to the convention caucus.

Building Permits More Than Double Those of Last Year

—o—

According to the July summary of the Building Department, the cost of building permits issued by the City of Newton for the first seven months of 1950 more than doubled the amount for the same period last year.

Through July 31, the department issued 749 permits for construction amounting to $7,218,199, compared with 509 permits

Measle Epidemic Appears Ended

—o—

According to the monthly "Communicable Disease" report of the Newton Health Department the recent measles epidemic has stopped, with only 12 cases reported for last month, whereas there were 218 cases in May and 131 in June.. In July, 1949, only seven cases of measles were reported. Dr. Ernest H. Morris said no appreciable increase in measles is expected for several years.

	July, 1950	July, 1949
Whooping cough	10	0
Chicken pox	17	18
Mumps	14	9
Dog bites	60	49
German measles	4	2

Rawson Explains His Vote Against Legislation to Investigate Communism

Representative George E. Rawson of the 4th Middlesex District in Newton, this week issued a statement relative to his vote against the Dolan order which would have for its purpose the setting up of a commission of legislation to investigate Communists and others engaging in subversive activities.

In explaining his reasons, Representative Rawson in remarks to the House of Representatives said:

"Mr. Speaker, I should like to explain my vote against the order which has just been adopted. I have given a great deal of thoughtful consideration to this matter. In my opinion, Chapter 160 of the Acts of 1948, is properly enforced, provides all the law that is necessary. The enforcement of this law is not within the power of this legislature.

"I have discussed this matter with representative and substantial citizens of my city, and they have advised me that my stand here is right. From the information that I have, it is my opinion in spite of all that has been said here, that the passage of this order wil seriously interfere with the efforts of the F.B.I., our State police and our local police, who are now fully able to cope with the situation.

"I have voted according to my own conscience, and without regard to political consequences because I have always believed in the truth of the old proverb, 'To thine own self be true and thou canst not be false to any man.'

"The law referred to provides that whoever by speech, by written or printed matter, or by distribution thereof, incites anyone to assault a public officer or to destroy any public or private property or to overthrow by force the government of the United States or of this Commonwealth, shall be punished by a fine of $1000, or by three years imprisonment or both.

"Enforcement of this law by those to whome enforcement of law is a duty makes it unnecessary for the General Court to spend $100,000 on what may well be not only a witch hunt, but can easily hamper all our law enforcement agencies. Let us leave law enforcement where it belongs, in the hands of the F.B.I., the State and local police."

File Will Of Late Chief Justice Field

—o—

The will of the late retired Chief Justice of the State Supreme Court, Frederick T. Field, was filed in Middlesex Probate Court Monday.

No executor bond accompanied the will and the estate was not estimated. The late chief justice, who died at the Newton-Wellesley Hospital July 23, left $1000 to his daughter, Ann M. Field, and the balance of his estate to his wife, Mrs. Gertrude M. Field, 36 Fairmont avenue, Newton.

Evening Sessions For Registration of Voters To Be Held Here Next Week

Tuesday night the registrars of voters started holding evening sessions throughout the city for the registration of anyone who is not now enrolled as a voter.

Registration will close Friday, August 18 for the State Primaries which will be held September 19. The City Clerk's office at City Hall is open daily, except Saturdays and Sundays, from 8:30 a. m. to 5 p. m.

Evening sessions at the City Hall will be held August 14, 15 and 16, from 7:30 to 9 p. m. On August 18, the final day, the office will be open for registrations from 8:30 a. m. until 10 p. m.

Registration wil begin again September 21 and continue until October 6 for the state election, Tuesday, November 7.

Persons in Newton who have lived in Massachusetts for one year and in this city for the past six months may register by appearing in person before the Registrars of Voters, consisting of William J. Doherty, Thomas F. Donnelly, Norman J. Mitchell and City Clerk Frank M. Grant. Naturalized citizens must show papers at the time of registration.

Twenty-year old residents who will reach their 21st birthday by September 19, are eligible to register now to vote in the primaries, City Clerk Grant states.

Two Injured as Automobile Skids

Mr. and Mrs. Harry M. Stewart of 34 Overlook avenue, Worcester, were dismissed Sunday from the Newton-Wellesley Hospital after being treated there, he for cuts on the face, and she for a fractured nose, following the mishap in their car on the temporary bridge at Quinobequin and Washington streets, Newton Lower Falls, where construction is now under way on the new Route 128. The couple were taken to the hospital in a Police Ambulance by Patrolman Francis W. Turner, and Joseph T. McKenna.

The car, heading for Boston, skidded, and then crashed through the wire guard rail and rolled down the embankment.

Kiley-Sullivan Nuptials Held At St. Mary's Church, Randolph

At 10 o'clock July 29, in St. Mary's Church, Randolph, Paul L. Sullivan, son of Mr. and Mrs. Thomas J. Sullivan, 114 Dedham street, Newton Highlands, took as his bride Miss Theresa Marie Kiley, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. George H. Kiley of Randolph.

The bride, given in marriage by her father, wore a ballerina-length gown of white embroidered organdy, and her net veil was embroidered with white roses. She carried a white orchid and stephanotis.

Miss Joan Kiley, a sister of the bride, was the honor maid, and she wore ice blue organdy and carried a bouquet of yellow and white. The bride's two other sisters, Jane and Irene, served as bridesmaids and wore pink organdy gowns, with yellow and white hats. They carried sweet peas and baby's breath.

Thomas Sullivan was the best man, and James McTaggart of Milton, and Paul Kiley, brother of the bride, were ushers. Mary Jean Rose of Randolph was the organist, and Stephen Hart of Randolph offered vocal music.

The mother of the bride wore a gown of ice blue lace, complemented with a white orchid. The bridegroom's mother wore teal lace, and also wore a white orchid.

Fairy Tale Players To Give Cinlerella

—o—

The Fairy Tale Players, who broadcast children's plays every Sunday morning at 8:30 from Station WCRB in Waltham, are presenting an original version of "Cinderella" written by Elsi Rowland and adapted for radio by Clara Hartigan. This delightful and highly entertaining version will certainly be worth listening to as it was written to appeal to everyone from the ages of 6 to 60. Those taking the leads are: Carole Faber as Cinderella, Stanley MacKay as Prince Charming and Charles McEachern as Marmaduke Lisp. Others in the cast include: Barbara Ann Kerr, Clara Hartigan and Barbara Boyle. This version of 'Cinderella" was done on the stage by the Children's Theatre of Roxbury recently, and was met with so much enthusiasm that it was necessary to have many repeat performances.

With its past success, we are sure that the listening audience will find it just as entertaining.

Candlelight Service Held At Bagnoli-Thomas Nuptials

—o—

At a candlelight service in St. Mark's Church, Jackson Heights, Long Island, on July 22, Miss Anita Ann Bagnoli, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Emile Raphael Bagnoli, was married to Mr. Gordon Gould Thomas, son of Mrs. Sterling Gould Thomas of Newtonville and the late Mr. Thomas.

The bride's gown was of floor length Chinese silk damask, made with an off shoulder collar veiled with a flounce of imported silk lace. Her mits were of the same lace, and her halo and veil were fashioned from an heirloom lace scarf of Alencon lace. She carried a shower bouquet of white roses.

The bride's two attendants were her sister-in-law, Mrs. Robert Bagnoli of River Edge, New Jersey, and Mrs. Robert F. Thomas, sister-in-law of the groom, of Newtonville. Their gowns were of blue silk organdy with matching halo hats and they carried nosegay bouquets of yellow roses.

Mr. Thomas had for his best man his brother, Mr. Robert F. Thomas of Newtonville and ushers were Mr. Robert Bagnoli of River Edge, New Jersey, and Mr. Louis Bagnoli of Norwood, New Jersey.

The bride's mother wore a gown of cocoa crepe and lace with matching hat, and wore a corsage of talisman roses. The groom's mother's gown was of blue printed chiffon with hat and accessories of darker blue velvet, and she wore a corsage of pink roses.

Mrs. Thomas was graduated from Montgomery Blair School in Washington, D. C. and attended Mt. Ida Junior College in Newton. She spent three years in Rome, Italy where her father was attached to the American Embassy. Mr. Thomas graduated from Syracuse University and is employed by Pan American Air Lines. Mr. and Mrs. Thomas will make their home in Washington, D. C.

City Tennis Matches to Begin Next Week

—o—

The Newton Recreation Department announced the dates for three city-wide tournaments for the month of August. Beginning Tuesday afternoon, August 1, 1950, the Men's Singles and Doubles Tennis Tournament will be held at Burr Playground. Entries will be received either at the local playgrounds, or you may call the Recreation Department, Newton City Hall and give your name and telephone number so that you can be reached by the tennis committee.

This tournament affords an opportunity for those people who have had experience in tournament play to compete against their own friends and neighbors.

On Monday, August 7, the Playground Tennis Tournament will get under way. Any Newton youth, boy or girl, who makes use of our playground facilities is eligible to compete in this tournament. They are to file their names with the directors of their respective playgrounds.

On Wednesday, August 16, the city-wide Playground Paddle Tennis Tournament will begin. In order to qualify for this tournament you must be the winner or runner-up in your own playground tournament held at the grounds which you represent.

The playground eliminations should begin not later than Monday, July 31. The playground directors will send the names of the playground eliminations and the runner-up to Mr. William Powers at Burr Playground.

The location of the Paddle Tennis Tournament finals will be decided upon at a later date.

Privately Financed Nursery School To Start at Oak Hill in October

The Oak Hill Park Association announced Monday that a nursery school in the new Memorial School, Oak Hill, will go into effect in October, due to the need of a nursery school in that area. Privately financed, the school will charge $80 for a 38-week school year. The teacher will be paid according to the Newton teachers' pay scale, in order that the teacher be experienced. According to the announcement, she will be aided by trainees from nearby colleges.

The announcement continues, "The classes will be limited to a reasonable number. However, should enough children enroll, a part-time teacher also will be secured. This would then make it possible to have two morning classes and one afternoon class.

"Children enrolled in the morning session will change to the afternoon in February when the kindergartens likewise change."

Walsh Withdraws In Favor of Ayer

—o—

Atty. John J. Walsh, Jr., of Belmont last week withdrew from the Republican race for attorney general and at the same time announced his support of Atty. Frederick Ayer, Jr., of Wenham for the GOP nomination.

Walsh, former first assistant U. S. attorney and former assistant attorney general of Massachusets, in a prepared statement announced that he was withdrawing from the GOP race because he sincerely believed that Ayer "is the only Republican candidate in the field who could defeat the present incumbent, Atty. Gen. Francis E. Kelly."

Walsh pointed out that he was stepping aside for a younger, stronger man so that the Republican party could provide the kind of leadership so sorely needed during these turbulent times.

"Fred Ayer, Jr. has the training and experience to provide the kind of leadership Republicans in this State need today. He has served his government in both war and peace with unimpeachable honesty, integrity and sincerity," Walsh said.

Ship Fire Fatal to Newton Man

—o—

Word has been received that Electronicsman 1-c Roger E. Pelland, 28, who resided at 175 Walnut street, Newton, died while aboard the USS Manchester en route to Korea.

Information released by the Navy Department stated the veteran of the second World War was asphyxiated in a fire which broke out below deck.

The son of Mr. and Mrs. Aristide Pelland of 4 Margaret road, Willimansett, he had been employed at the Doelcam Co., at 57 Elmwood street, Newton. Funeral services will be held when it is known as to the time of the arrival of his body, which it is understood, is on its way home.

During his previous Naval service, Pelland had been in the Atlantic and Pacific aboard a destroyer. Because of his rating, he was placed on immediate active duty when he re-enlisted.

Besides his parents, Pelland leaves a brother, Adrian, and a sister, Bernadette, who 12 hours after the word of her brother's death was received, took her final vows as a nun at St. Joseph's Novitiate, Adrian, Mich. She is now known as Sister Marie Antoine.

Girls Group Aiding As Volunteers

—o—

A group of young high school and junior high school girls are learning through action what it means to be a volunteer. Eleven have, for the summer season, volunteered at least 60 hours of service at the Rebecca Pomroy House on Hovey street, Newton, a Red Feather agency.

Working under the supervision of Mrs. Jean Barrett, staff director, these junior assistants read stories to the 30 children enrolled for the summer, help with handicraft, supervise play on the playgrounds. The Pomroy House operates a supervised playschool for children between the ages of 4 and 7, weekdays from 9 to 12 and from 1:30 to 4:30.

Miss Mary Manning, who is a senior at high school, gives volunteer service at the agency all year round. Other girls who are giving their time this summer include the Misses Ann Furden, Mary Maguire, Martha Maguire, Janet Farrell, Betty McLaughlin, Carol Van Wort, Patricia Murphy, Lucy Colella, Carol Peters and Jean Hopf.

What Is "Security"?

In a recent statement Senator Byrd of Virginia contented that government expenditures for purely domestic purposes have increased 77 percent since 1948!

"With a war on our hands, some of these outlays must be cut unless we are going to spend ourselves into the kind of bankruptcy the Russians are counting on," he said.

It has long been Soviet doctrine that capitalism, especially in the United States, would collapse from inner weaknesses, and that then communism would take over the world with a minimum of difficulty. And the surest way to bring that situation about is to throw our billions away at home on phony welfare schemes and socialistic programs while we are trying to bolster the whole anti-Soviet world in stemming communist military aggression.

"Security" has become one of the great catch words, and it is time we analyzed it. Real security for this nation must be based on hard work and rigorous economy at home, in order to provide the money and the energies we must use abroad.

There can be no security in any bankrupt government, as has been clearly demonstrated.

Proteins and the Life Span

There appears to be a definite connection between the life expectancy of peoples and their consumption of the protein foods

This is strongly indicated in a recent survey made upon the subject.

The United States has the highest life expectancy at birth, 68.3 years, and its per capita consumption of meat and other protein foods was also the highest, 194 pounds. Canada was next, with a life expectancy of 67.2 years and a protein food consumption of 174 pounds. The figures for Italy 3454 54.9 years and 75 pounds of protein foods. At the very bottom was India, where life expectancy was but 28.6 years, and protein food consumption was 18 pounds per capita.

Other factors, surh as infant mortality, have a strong bearing on life expectancy. However, the discovery of the value of the proteins has been one of the most dramatic developments of modern medical science. In addition to their influence on life expectancy, protein foods have been proven to be of the utmost value in benefiting people suffering from many types of illness. It has been found also that they have a direct, constructive influence on human energy and morale.

Finally, the principal protein foods, such as meat and eggs, are attractive and appetizing to the vast majority of people.

Muchnick Has Real Fight to Defeat Kelley . . . Denfeld-McLean Alliance Unusual Strategy . . . Will Saltonstall Openly Endorse Needham . . .

Aside from the battle for the Democratic nomination for Lieutenant Governor, the Democratic primary contest which may provide the largest amount of fireworks is that between Attorney General Francis E. Kelly and School Committeeman Isadore H. Y. Muchnick.

While there are other candidates in the field, pending the decisions on the protests which have been filed with the State Ballot Law Commission, that fight will simmer down to a two-man battle between Kelly and Muchnick.

Committeeman Muchnick, who has strong political connections, particularly in Boston, is extremely confident concerning the outcome of his first bid for State-wide office, but the fact is that Kelly probably will be a very tough candidate to defeat in either the primary or the election.

When Kelly assumed office as Attorney General in January, 1949, his political enemies predicted everything but a reign of terror while he was serving as the State's top law-enforcement officer.

Actually, there has been little room for criticism about the manner in which Kelly has conducted himself and discharged his responsibilities. The dire fears of his foes have not come to pass.

Now Kelly is seeking another term, and Muchnick is challenging him. Some potent vote-getters have battled Kelly in Democratic primaries only to discover that as a result of repeated campaigns he has built up a core of Democratic strength which it takes a Tobin, a Dever or a Curley to crack.

Muchnick declares that he will provide the surprise of the primary. He has been working hard and building his fences across the state. Kelly is well entrenched to meet this threat. It will be interesting to see how the two fare in their fight.

* * * *

One thing about Admiral Louis E. Denfeld is that he isn't at all concerned about shattering political tradition. Few experienced politicians would have followed the admiral's strategy in tieing his bandwagon with that of a candidate in the race for the Republican nomination for Lieutenant-Governor.

When Denfeld announced his endorsement of ex-Mayor Daniel E. McLean of Beverly for second place on the G.O.P. State ticket, he automatically alienated the other candidates in that field and their immediate followers.

Unless Denfeld shows unexpected strength and pulls McLean along with him, which at this stage of the campaign seems an unlikely possibility, the battle for the right to run as the Republican candidate for the Lieutenant Governorship promises to come down to a two-man contest between former State Treasurer Laurence Curtis of the Back Bay and State Senate President Harris S. Richardson of Winchester.

McLean was a candidate for Lieutenant Governor in the G.O.P. primary back in 1944, which was won by Robert F. Bradford. Our recollection is that he finished fourth, trailing behind Bradford, Rudolph F. King, then the Speaker of the House of Representatives, and Jarvis Hunt, at that time the president of the Senate.

Curtis has become well known to Republican voters not only through the term he served as State Treasurer but also because of his work in the party ranks and the number of primary campaigns he has waged. He's both able and popular, and he should have a good deal of strength in a contest of this kind.

Richardson will be making his first State-wide run. Technically he's an unknown quantity outside his own senatorial district. But he has received wide publicity as president of the Senate and as the top Republican leader in the Legislature, and he probably will get a helping hand from many of his Senate colleagues.

Obviously, Richardson would not be relinquishing his place as head of the Senate unless he himself were convinced that he had a good chance of winning the primary. Usually a Senate President or House Speaker advances up the political escalator without too much primary opposition, but from a Republican standpoint this is an unusual political year.

* * * *

Republican politicians are waiting with great interest to learn what stand Senator Leverett Saltonstall will take on the important contest for the right to run as the G.O.P. candidate for Governor.

It is known that Saltonstall is very friendly with General Daniel Needham, and it is believed that he is privately and personally disposed to look with favor upon Needham's candidacy.

There is a good deal of speculation, however as to whether Saltonstall will take an open and public stand in support of Needham. Such a move, of course, would have widespread political effect.

* * * *

The six gentlemen engaged in the hottest gubernatorial primary fight the Republican party has seen in many years were all advancing their campaigns this week wherever they could find an audience ready to listen to them.

It was noteworthy, however, that they were going in more for the informal, personal type of campaign than for the formal public addresses which presumably will come later.

At several of the outings where Republicans have been gathered Messrs. Needham, Barnes, Coolidge, Miles, Denfeld and Rowe have concentrated in mingling through the crowds, chatting with the voters, meeting them personally and striving to build good will for themselves.

So far the G.O.P. contenders have talked more about Governor Dever and his administration than they have about their present opponents, though by inference and indirection they have slapped occasionally at their current adversaries.

Former Lieutenant Governor Coolidge in one address made reference to anti-labor candidates, and he obviously was referring to Barnes and the fact that the latter is considered a foe of organized labor even though Barnes himself disputes such a claim.

General Needham and Judge Miles have placed great stress on the need for nominating a new face and for offering a new name at the head of the Republican ticket in November.

The tone and temper of the gubernatorial primary probably will be sharpened in another few weeks for as the candidates near the decisive stages of their campaign they are less likely to be so considerate of each other's feelings. They're still only in the warm-up stages now.

Favors Lottery

This is a declaration that I will advocate most strongly the legalization of the state lottery, not because of any love for the act, but rather for the great source of revenue it can give our Commonwealth. Not only will it give us funds to work with, but also it will tend to level off much of the crime that would continue to exist under the present code of law.

I think that this would indeed be a great step in overcoming crime, plus the fact that it would render a great reservoir of plentiful return for the use and benefit of all our public institutions; more especially our public educational system. The educational system which for the most part is entirely operated and supported by local allocated funds is sorrowfully neglected in some communities because of this situation. The local funds afford some localities little chance to give our future American citizens the educational opportunities and benefits that would be theirs if only we had decent systems in every financially poor school district in our state. That is one of the prime motives for my advocation of the lottery legalization act as a step in the advancement of progressive measures in the Bay State.

Fitzpatrick Cites Record of Office

Sheriff Howard W. Fitzpatrick's administration of the many duties of his office have marked him as one of the most capable men ever to occupy this important county position. His desire to be of service to the citizens of Middlesex County was apparent soon after he took over the Sheriff's duties following the death of the late Sheriff Louis E. Boutwell.

Realizing that the House of Correction could be either a school of crime, leading the youth deeper into the mire of lawlessness, Sheriff Fitzpatrick was fired with the ambition to impress those unfortunates in his custody with the determination to obey the law and become good citizens. This policy has been proven sound and is daily becoming more manifest as many who served sentences in the House of Correction have resumed their jobs and returned to their homes to once again take up the task of earning an honest living and providing for their families.

In the House of Correction are first offenders, sons of men and women from most communities in Middlesex County, many of whom have made but one false step. Upon the Sheriff and his treatment of these young men depends their reaction to imprisonment, in many cases to their entire future.

Sheriff Fitzpatrick's interest in dealing with the first offender is to try to return him to society as a better citizen. He is a firm believer and an energetic worker for all civic enterprises for young men and young women. Clubs and organizations for the youth of Massachusetts have always met with his generous response and cooperation. His interest lies in the character building of the youth of tender years.

Daily Sheriff Fitzpatrick receives in his office at Cambridge and Billerica the families of those unfortunates in his institutions, a most trying duty. He is ever on the alert to help and advise in the many problems brought to him for solution. The inmate body, members of his staff, the public, the attorneys and all persons calling at the Sheriff's office can well testify to the considerate treatment that is accorded to everyone.

Wednesday evening testimony meeting at 8

"Soul" is the lesson-sermon subject for Sunday, August 13. Golden text: "The Lord is my portion, saith my soul; therefore will I hope in him" (Lamentations 3:24).

"O bless our God, ye people, and make the voice of his praise to be heard; which holdeth our soul in life, and suffereth not our feet to be moved" (Psalms 66:8, 9). Correlative passages from "Science and Health with Key to the Scriptures" by Mary Baker Eddy include:

"Soul and Spirit being one, God and Soul are one, and this one never included in a limited mind or a limited body. Spirit is eternal, divine. Nothing but Spirit, Soul, can evolve life for Spirit is more than all else because Soul is immortal, it does not exist in mortality. Soul must be incorporeal to be Spirit, or Spirit is not finite. Only by losing the false sense of Soul can we gain the eternal unfolding of Life as immortality brought to light" (p. 335).

NEW ENGLAND ELECTRICITY IS

Awake AT THE SWITCH!

National emergency arises. Expanding industrial production emphasizes anew the importance of electricity. How do we stand on electricity in New England? Let's look at the record and —

COMPARE!

NATIONALLY, the reserve, or spare, margin* is 15.6%. In the Southeastern Atlantic region (including the federally-developed TVA) it is only 8.2%. In the Pacific Northwest (including the federally-developed Bonneville and Grand Coulee) it is a mere 5.9%. But IN NEW ENGLAND our reserve margin is a whopping 23.5% — which means —

50% MORE RESERVE MARGIN THAN THE NATIONAL AVERAGE

There's a reason for this, of course. Since V-J Day the privately operated electric utilities of New England have spent over $500,000,000.00 for new facilities for the production and distribution of electricity.

Thanks to the planning and foresight of New England's business-managed electric companies there is plenty of electricity in this area. You may use and enjoy all you want. The industry's slogan now, as in World War II, is "Never too little, Never too late."!

*Reserve margin of electric power is the amount of electricity-making facilities we have over and above what we now need and use.

Lawrence Regards Being Sheriff As Full Time Job

Waging an active "doorbell" campaign, Hon. Walter E. Lawrence, three terms mayor of Medford and former member of the General Court, is basing his claim to the office of Sheriff of Middlesex County on many items but basically on the fact that he regards the job of Sheriff as an "all time, 24 hour a day job."

He takes the position that one cannot be a successful Sheriff and at the same time devote time to practice a profession or to the conducting of a bakery. Lawrence says that when elected Sheriff he will name only the most competent and most experienced men as his aides and deputies and that he will give a careful accounting at all times to the people of Middlesex County. He directs attention to the fact that the office of Seriff is one that demands the regulaion of a huge budget running into several hundreds of thousands of dollars; that in order to successfully handle this, one must understand the business end, the art of criminology and be appreciative of the fact that the Sheriff must be on call every moment.

Mayor Lawrence also regards the job of Sheriff as one of humanitarian aspects and advocates the reformation and development of law violators whenever and wherever possible.

Water-

The cities and towns will reimburse the M.D.C. for the water at the rate of $10 per million gallons as follows: Newton, 22 per cent; Boston, 19 per cent; Cambridge, 16 per cent; Waltham, 15 per cent; Watertown, 13 per cent; Wellesley, 8 per cent, and Weston, 7 per cent.

Sterling sad the division of sanitary engineering is receiving many complaints as a result of the objectonable conditions of the Charles River and the possible danger to fish life.

The State Legislature authorized discharge of not more than 500 million gallons of water into the Charles River annually in cases of severe drought in a law passed several weeks ago.

Water stored in M.D.C. reservoirs is more than adequate, said Sterling, to meet water supply needs of Newton and other areas even in cases of extreme drought.

World Premier to Be Given Next Week at Wellesley

—o—

The Wellesley Summer Theatre will present the world premiere of a new play entitled "The Big Deal" starring Guy Kibbee, lovable star of stage and screen, in Alumnae Hall on the Wellesley College campus starting August 15. This is Mr. Kibbee's second appearance at the Wellesley Summer Theatre, having starred in the role of Gramps in "On Borrowed Time" last summer which was the first time that play had ever been presented in the Boston area. Plans are underway to take "The Big Deal," a witty comedy written by Jack Levin, a prominent Baltimore advertising man, to Broadway in the fall.

Featured with Mr. Kibbee in "The Big Deal" are Douglas Rutherford, Johanna Douglas, and Fay Roope, members of the Summer Theatre resident company, and Herbert Ellison, whose performance in this season's production of "The Silver Whistle" starring John Carradine was received with acclaim. Supporting players include William Countryman, Hollis Dworken, Jimmy Ellison, and Bobby Cornell.

Eldon Winkler, executive director of the Wellesley Summer Theatre, has staged this pre-Broadway production which will be the last of the current season. George W. Hendrickson is the designer.

Crummett's On Way to Alaska

—o—

Word has been received from Mr. and Mrs. Carl S. Crummett, formerly of Walnut street, Newtonville, of their travels since leaving here in 1948. Mrs Crummett (Polly de Steiguer Crummett) is the author of "Button Collecting" and was the first to publish her research on this every day article which has its roots in antiquity. Since her book came out in 1940, there have been many published on this subject, but her book is considered as much a collector's item as an antique button.

Mr. and Mrs. Crummett are now in Seattle, Washington. Mr. Crummett retired from the American Mutual Liability Insurance Company in 1943. After selling their Newtonville home, they purchased a 27 foot house trailer and have been touring the United States ever since. The first winter they spent in Florida and from there went to Wisconsin, then to the Canadian Rockies to Banff and Lake Louise. The second year they spent in Phoenix, Arizona. Since that time they have been roaming up the Pacific Coast and they state that "if the Russians don't get too much interested, we are going up the inland water way to Alaska" shortly.

A Proclamation

WHEREAS, the American way of life and system of government are being seriously challenged at home and abroad; and

WHEREAS, these times call for loyalty to the ideals, rights and responsibilities of American citizenship; and

WHEREAS, the last date for registration for the State Primary is August 18, 1950; and

WHEREAS, it is fitting and laudable that all eligible citizens should be registered for the forthcoming elections;

NOW, THEREFORE, I, Theodore R. Lockwood, Mayor of the City of Newton, do hereby proclaim Registration Week to begin on August 14th and to end on August 18th and to be known as the "City of Newton Week of Registration," and I do hereby urge all citizens to use their influence to encourage others to avail themselves of this traditional privilege.

IN WITNESS WHEREOF, I have hereunto set my hand and caused the Seal of the City of Newton to be affixed, this Tenth Day of August, 1950.

THEODORE R. LOCKWOOD
Mayor, City of Newton.

Former Resident Dies at Home of Son in Norwalk, Ct.

—o—

Mrs. Lovina Hopkinson Griffin, a resident of West Newton from 1889 to 1916, died Friday, August 4, at the residence of her son, Harold H. Griffin, in Norwalk, Connecticut. She celebrated her 95th birthday August 1.

Mrs. Griffin was born in Ontario, Canada, the daughter of George and Matilda Taylor Hopkinson. After considerable study of music as a young woman, she became a professional pianist and organist. She married Edwin Colver Griffin of Waterdown, Ontario, in 1879. Six years later the Griffins moved to Brooklyn, New York, and in 1889 to West Newton. Mr. Griffin was an inventor and chief enginer of the Bradley Pulverizer Co., of Boston up to the time of his death in 1911. After his death, Mrs. Griffin moved to Ridgewood, New Jersey, where she made her home with her daughter, Mrs. Arthur H. Burns. While living in West Newton, she was for many years a member of the Second Congregational Church and of the West Newton Women's Club. The Griffin residence was at 130 Temple street.

Funeral services were held in Norwalk, Saturday, August 5. Burial took place in Newton cemetery last Monday.

Military Funeral Held for Newton Highlands Vet

—o—

A military funeral was held Tuesday at the home of Mr. and Mrs. Guiseppe Ferro, 11 Harvard street, Winchester, for their son, Joseph, 33, an employee of the town of Winchester, who died last Saturday in a tractor accident at a construction job on Rich street, Winchester.

He had been driving a tractor which was loading rocks on a truck. The rear wheel of the tractor caught on a rock, causing the vehicle to tip over on its side; and as Ferro tried to jump out, part of the machine struck him in the head and he landed under the rear of the tractor. Under the leadership of Highway Supt. James Holwartz, other workers used another tractor to remove his body. He was pronounced dead at the scene by Medical Examiner Harry L. Benson.

Ferro, who had served with the Yankee Division for five and a half years during World War II, had received the Purple Heart with an Oak Leaf Cluster, the Bronze Star Medal for heroism, and three Battle Stars.

He and his wife, the former Angeline DeSantis of Newton Highlands, lived at 845 Boylston street, Newton Highlands. Also surviving him are six brothers, Peter and Charles of Malden; Salvatore of Somerville; and Francis, Christopher, and Angelo, all of Winchester.

A solemn mass of requiem was held in St. Mary's Church, and interment was in Wildwood Cemetery, Winchester.

John P. Cochrane to Again Head Newton Corner In Red Feather Campaign

Newton Corner will have a strong district organization in the coming Red Feather Campaign with John P. Cochrane as chairman for the second year. He has built around him an efficent group of leaders who will endeavor to keep Newton Corner high among the leaders in campaign results.

Assisting him will be Philip A. Segal, L. H. Bonney and Ashley D. Burt as assistant chairmen, and Miss Margaret S. Ball, Jesse Stam, Ralph Wheeler, Edmond LeFevre, George E. Rawson, and Walter E. Brown, as majors.

In charge of teams will be Miss Helen Finnerty, Francis C. Dovovan, Miss Esther Tashjian, William J. Ford, Frank R. Wasson, Willett Howard, Mrs. Ray Johns, Eldred M. Peterson, Dwight P. Merrill, Dr. Hyman Naterman, Bernard Marglin, Leo Freedman, Alexander Kantor, Joseph A. Callahan, Bert Lowenberg, Wilbur M. Hayes, Francis Beal, Miss Moira Sullivan, James F. Barnes and Mrs. Christina Trundle.

At the June meeting of the chairmen, assistant chairmen and majors planning for the 1951 campaign, Chairman Cochrane accepted the challenge from C. E. Gould Capon, Newton Centre chairman, that the loser of the two villages in money results at the end of the campaign would pay a substantial panalty. The nature of this penalty will be decided later. Chairman Cochrane is looking forward to the contest and is confident that his group will see that he wins it.

tive service, the first rally of the campaign, held in the Portland Stadium, with 2500 people present, including Maine Senators Margaret Chase Smith and Owen Brewster, and Governor Frederick G. Payne, got under way. City Manager Lyman Moore called upon the audience to fulfill the pledge written upon cards they could obtain all this week at theaters, stores, and banks. The pledge is as follows:

"As a patriotic American, I wish to be counted as one of the Home Defenders of Freedom. I pledge that I will not buy more than my normal needs during this war emergency. I make this pledge because I know that in doing so, I am making a very real contribution to the cause of freedom and the security of my country."

Governor Payne, in his speech called hoarding "Communistic," after previously stating that hoarding attempts are "attempts to undermine our economy by removing from our shops and stores those commodities which are still in abundance and which must be shared equally by all."

Senator Smith urged the rest of the country to follow Portland's example and establish "Home Defenders of Freedom" in the various cities and towns everywhere.

She did her practice teaching in Ballston Spa and Potsdam during the past semester.

Many Attend Hartshorn Services

—o—

Funeral services for Alfred P. Hartshorn, 60, president and treasurer of the Garden City Print, Inc., of Newton, who died following a heart attack, were held last Thursday afternoon at the First Methodist Church of Newton, Newton Upper Falls.

Members of the Newton Rotary Club, of which organization Mr. Hartshorn was president last year, served as bearers.

Mr. Hartshorn had served the First Church as chairman of the board of trustees and as chairman of the finance committee. Rev. Francis D. Taylor officiated at the services and offered prayers at the interment in Needham Cemetery.

A large delegation from the Newton Rotary Club was present in the church, as were many of Mr. Hartshorn's friends and associates in business, social and civic organizations.

He was a member of Tiot Lodge, I.O.O.F., of Norwood; a past member of the Needham School Committee, in which town he resided; the Needham Finance Committee, and the Needham Junior High School Building Committee.

Bearers were Rotary President Frank P. Simmons, Fred A. Hawkins, Dwight Colburn, Herbert N. McGill, Joseph B. Davis and Albert J. Savage.

Mr. Hartshorn is survived by two sons, Arthur N., and Theodore J. Hartshorn, both of Needham; and three daughters, Mrs. Dorothy Stewart, Mrs. Margaret L. Remond, both of Needham, and Mrs. Ruth N. Denson of Montpelier, Vt.

LAND COURT

Middlesex, ss.

TO THE HONORABLE THE JUDGES OF THE LAND COURT FOR THE COMMONWEALTH OF MASSACHUSETTS.

Respectfully represents William F. Lamb and Edith V. Lamb, of Newton, in the County of Middlesex and said Commonwealth; that they are owners of certain lots of land with the buildings thereon, situate in Newton, in the County of Middlesex and said Commonwealth, bounded and described as follows:

1. A certain parcel of land, with the buildings thereon, situated in that part of said Newton called Waban and comprising the greater part of Lot numbered 394 and the whole of lot numbered 396 as shown on a plan made by Ernest W. Bowditch, dated 1890, and recorded with Middlesex South District Deeds, Book of Plans 63, Plan 39, and bounded as follows:
   SOUTHERLY by Mossfield Road, two hundred ten and 36/100ths (210.36) feet;
   EASTERLY by Lots numbered 393, 397 and 395 on said plan, two hundred thirteen and 72/100ths (213.72) feet;
   NORTHERLY by the parcel of land hereinafter described, being registered land, eighty-four and 97/100ths, (84.97) feet; and NORTHWESTERLY by the remaining part of said lot numbered 394, and being land now or formerly of Ruth B. Bourne, seventy-three and 94/100ths (73.94) feet.
2. Also a certain other parcel of land comprising lot numbered 392B as shown on a plan filed with a Certificate of Title numbered 5223 in the Middlesex South Registry District of the Land Court and bounded as follows:
   SOUTHEASTERLY by the parcel above described, eighty-four and 97/100ths (84.97) feet;
   NORTHEASTERLY by land now or formerly of George B. Loring thirty-five and 7/100th (35.07) feet, and NORTHWESTERLY by lot numbered 392A on said plan, ninety-nine and 23/100ths (99.23) feet.

Being the same premises conveyed to said William F. Lamb and Edith V. Lamb by deed of Bertha I. Davis, recorded with Middlesex South District Deeds in Book 4324, Page 33, the registered title being derived from Certificate of Title No. 10783.

That the record title to said lot of land is clouded by a mortgage given by said William F. Lamb and Edith V. Lamb, to Dora White, dated June 16, 1925, and duly recorded with Middlesex South District Deeds in Book 4584 Page 401, and also being Document numbered 59773, registered June 18, 1925 on Certificate of Title No. 10783, in Land Court Case No. 1394, purporting to secure a note for Two Thousand Dollars ($2,000), payable in or within one year with interest semi-annually at six (6) per cent per annum, which mortgage was assigned to B. L. Tim-Manson Co. by instrument dated October 13, 1928, and recorded with said Middlesex South District Deeds in Book 5288, Page 521, and being Document numbered 91887, registered October 16, 1928 on said Certificate of Title No. 10783, also

By a mortgage given by said William F. Lamb and Edith V. Lamb to Timothy J. Desmond, dated August 31, 1928, and duly recorded in Book 5272, Page 224, and also being Document numbered 90566, registered Sept. 1, 1928 on said Certificate of Title No. 10783, purporting to secure a note for Fifteen Hundred Dollars ($1500), payable in one year with interest quarterly at six (6) per cent per annum; and

By a mortgage given by said William F. Lamb and Edith V. Lamb to Tim-Manson Huckins Co., dated Sept. 7, 1929 and duly recorded with Middlesex South District Deeds in Book 5398, Page 329, and also being Document numbered 100761, registered Sept. 19, 1929 on said Certificate of Title No. 10783, purporting to secure a note for Two Hundred Fifty Dollars ($250) with interest at six (6) per cent per annum, payable as provided in note, all of which mortgages appear to be undischarged, unassigned —except in the case of the mortgage to said Dora White—and unforeclosed on and by the record.

That for more than twenty years after the expiration of the time limited for the full performance of said condition no payment has been made and no other act done in recognition of said mortgage; and

That the mortgagors named in said mortgages and those claiming under them have been in uninterrupted possession of said land for more than twenty years after the expiration of time limited in said mortgage for the full performance of the condition thereof.

WHEREFORE our petitioners pray that after appropriate notices a decree may be entered on the foregoing allegations as authorized by Section 15, Chapter 240 of the General Laws as amended by Chapter 20, of the Acts of 1924.

WILLIAM F. LAMB and
EDITH V. LAMB.

Deputy Recorder.

COMMONWEALTH OF MASSACHUSETTS
Case No. 13628, Misc.
Middlesex, ss. LAND COURT
(SEAL)

Upon the foregoing petition, it is ordered that the petitioner give notice to all persons interested in said petition to appear before the Land Court, at Cambridge, within and for our said County of Middlesex (where appearances and answers may be filed with Albert T. Gutheim, Esquire, Register of Deeds for the South Registry District of said Middlesex County, as Assistant Recorder of said Court) on the fifth day of September next by causing a true and attested copy of said petition and this order to be published forthwith once a week, for three successive weeks, in the Newton Graphic, a newspaper published in Newton, in said County of Middlesex, the last publication to be fourteen days at least before said fifth day of September next; by serving each known respondent by registered mail with a like attested copy of said petition and order as soon as may be and in any event fourteen days at least before said fifth day of September next; that all respondents may then and there show cause why the prayer of said petition should not be granted.

By the Court.

LEGALS

Case No. 13675 Misc.
THE COMMONWEALTH OF MASSACHUSETTS
(SEAL) LAND COURT
In Equity

To George W. Davis, Karolyn Davis, of Newton, in the County of Middlesex and said Commonwealth; and to all whom it may concern:

Wildey Savings Bank, a duly existing corporation having an usual place of business in Boston, in the County of Suffolk and said Commonwealth, claiming to be the holder of a mortgage covering real property in said Newton, and numbered 41 Windermere Road, given by George H. Davis and Karolyn Davis to Wildey Savings Bank, by instrument dated June 30, 1942, recorded with Middlesex South District Registry of Deeds, Book 6611, Page 460, has filed with said court a bill in equity for authority to foreclose said mortgage in the manner following: by entry and possession and exercise of power of sale.

If you are entitled to the benefits of the Soldiers' and Sailors' Civil Relief Act of 1940 as amended and you object to such foreclosure you or your attorney should file a written appearance and answer in said court at Boston on or before the eleventh day of September 1950, or you may be forever barred from claiming that such foreclosure is invalid under said act.

Witness, John E. Fenton, Esquire, Judge of said Court this third day of August 1950.

SYBIL H. HOLMES,
Recorder.

Mayor Lockwood Urges All Citizens to Exercise Their Voting Privilege

In a statement issued this week by Mayor Theodore R. Lockwood, he remarked that "good citizenship 's everybody's job" and urged everyone to exercise their American privilege by voting in the primaries and at the November election.

In this connection, Mayor Lockwood stated:

"The most important way of translating good citizenship into positive action is to exercise the right to vote, an inherent right and a golden privilege of American citizenship. America, from the tiniest unit of community life up to the big White House on Pennsylvania avenue, is built on the ballot and bossed by it. The right to vote, to vote in secret and to have your vote count, is a distinctive working tool of good citizenship.

"It is grounded in the faith that the average judgment of all of us together in the long run will be right, that "you can't fool all the people all the time." It has many flaws. It has been corrupted, abused and neglected, but by means of it the American people over more than a century and a half have done pretty well for themselves.

"Through officials chosen by Mr. and Mrs. Citizen all laws are made. No man or woman, regardless of his station in life, wields more power than you in the voting booth.

"You can also vote by not voting, for by staying away from the polls you can help a self-seeking minority make a wrong decision.

"Don't be afraid to have your candidate lose out. The vote that doesn't elect a man still influences what he does. A candidate who just squeaks through knows that you and others like you can repudiate him next time.

"In this atom-spiitting age you are voting on the gravest issues in the history of mankind. When you reach voting age, you become a member of the "ruling class" — the one and only ruling class of this country.

"You should use this power to vote, at all elections and keep yourself informed on candidates and issues, and use your greatest influence to see that honest and capable officials are elected. Also, you should accept public office when you can serve your community and your country thereby."

Institute Search for Newton Boy

Daniel Pietrowsky, 12, a Polish regufee whose parents were killed during the recent war and who has been residing at 65 Circuit avenue, Newton Highlands, was the object of a wide search last Saturday afternoon by the Maine State Police after he had been reported missing from a children's camp in Bridgton, Me.

His description was broadcast by police teletype and Newton police were informed to be on the lookout for the boy who was said to have a substantial sum of money on his person. He was brought to this country by a children's aid society, which placed him in a home in Newton.

He is blond and gray-eyed, and is believed to be wearing a brown jacket and either corduroy trousers or blue jeans.

Seeks Democratic Nomination for Sheriff

Thomas J. Keating of Somerville, prominent throughout the Commonwealth in veteran and civic circles, has officially announced his candidacy for the Democratic nomination for Sheriff of Middlesex County.

Keating, who is married and the father of a ten-year old son, is commander of the Somerville Chapter, Disabled American Veterans, and serves at the State House, Boston, as Department Adjutant of the DAV. He is also a member of the Logan Post No. 6800, VFW, and the Somerville American Legion, Post No. 19. As Department Adjutant, his duties also called for his constant activity on legislative matters affecting veterans, and it was through his untiring efforts at committee hearings that scores of beneficial laws were enacted in behalf of veterans and their families in Middlesex County and the State.

In seeking the Democratic nomination for Sheriff, he points out that personal knowledge of the problems confronting those who have violated the law and paid their debt to society is extremely vital in rehabilitating these persons to a return to normal life. His own experience, he cites, fully qualifies him to direct such a program in Middlesex County, which, he points out, is a mandatory duty to be performed by the office of Sheriff. Humane, dignified, and honest direction and service is what Keating offers to the Democratic voters of the Country, plus years of administrative experience in rehabilitation and human relations.

Keating is a veteran of World War II. He served with the armed forces in the major battles in the Pacific areas and was hospitalized for nearly a year because of injuries sustained in action. Prior to entering the service, he attended Brown University, where he was prominent in baseball and football. He recently served as Chairman of the Warren Spahn Night baseball game at Braves Field, which raised a considerable sum of money for the hospital and welfare work among disabled veterans. Keating resides at 34 Ware street, Somerville.

Fourteen Nurse's Aides Grad. from Special Polio Emergeny Advanced Training Course

The graduation of 14 nurse's aides from the special polio emergency advanced training course was held Wednesday evening, August 2, at the Nurses Home at Newton-Wellesley Hospital. Miss Margaret Keeler, Assistant State Representative for the National Foundation for Infantile Paralysis spoke to the graduaing group on preparedness in the event of a polio epidemic; and Mrs. Marie Sherer Andrews, R.N., State Nurse Advisor for the Foundation for Infantile Paralysis spoke. Mrs. Andrews said that undoubtedly they would be used locally too in the Wellesley Convalescent Home which will open as a polio center in the fall, equipped with 10 respirators.

Guests for the occasion included Dr. T. Stewart Hamilton, Director of the Newton-Wellesley Hospital; Miss Gertrude O'Brien, Clinical instructor at the Newton-Wellesley School of Nursing; Mrs. Robert W. Moore, Jr., Volunteer Services Chairman for the Newton Red Cross Chapter; Mrs. H. B. Rising, Volunteer Services Chairman for the Wellesley Red Cross Chapter and Mrs. Theodore Clark, Chairman of Nursing Services, Newton Chapter, Red Cross.

The course has been taught by Miss Katherine Murphy, R.N., Red Cross Volunteer Nurse, who did polio nursing in Portsmouth, Virginia, at the Maryview Hospital two summers ago. Those presented by Miss Murphy to Miss Keeler for certificates and insignia were Mrs. Elizabeth Baldwin, Wellesley Hills; Mrs. George R. Brett, Waban; Mrs. Gardner C. Brooks, Wellesley; Mrs. Gwen Clemence, Wellesley Hills; Miss Catherine Connington, Auburndale; Mrs. Kenneth Crafts, Newton Centre; Mrs. Charles Henley, Newtonville; Mrs. Walter A. Hood, Newtonville; Mrs. Helen A. Hope, Wellesley Hills; Miss Jean McMahan, Auburndale; Mrs. Kenneth Nugent, Waban; Mrs. Marella Pratt, Wellesley Hills; Mrs. Ruth Rigby, Wellesley; Mrs. John C. Taylor, Wellesley Hills.

Refreshments were served by the Newton Wellesley Hospital after the graduating program.

Maj. Frank A. Metz At Squantum For Training Period

Major Frank A. Metz, Jr., of West Newton, a radar scientist at the Air Force laboratories in Cambridge, who was recently named the "Scientist of the Year" by the Air Force technical unit, is commander of one of three Marine Air Reserve Squadrons who reported last Saturday at the Squantum Naval Air Station for a 15-day training period.

To date no orders have been received alerting these squadrons, but the possibility is not being overlooked and the squadrons are preparing to be ready for call.

Major Metz is a veteran of the last war and served in the South Pacific.

File Papers For Incorporation

Natalie C. Kabler, Merrill H. Kabbler and Leonard L. Kabbler, all of Newton have filed papers with State Secretary Edward J. Cronin seeking a charter to incorporate under the laws of this Commonwealth as Chiswick Cleaners, Inc., at 97 Langdon street, Newton.

George Neitlich, of 404 Ward street, Newton Centre, who is associated as manager of the Everett office of the Metropolitan Life Insurance Company, is attending the Fifth Chartered Life Underwriter Institute which is being held on the campus of the University of Connecticut.

Lack of Rainfall Necessitates Reduction in Amount of Water Supply from Charles River

Due to the lack of adequate rainfall, it was necessary for the Department of Public Health to reduce the amount of water supply that Newton and Brookline pump from the valley of the Charles River from 7 million gallons per day each for the month of July to 6 million gallons per day for the month of August.

The amount of water supply which these two municipalities can obtain from the valley of the Charles River is determined monthly by the Department of Public Health based upon the average rainfall for the previous 6 months.

John W. Whittemore Named Chairman of Blood Program

JOHN F. FINNERTY, Newton attorney with law offices in Boston, has filed papers for the Democratic nomination to the office of District Attorney of Middlesex County. Mr. Finnerty, a veteran of World War II and a graduate of Boston College and Boston College Law School, is a member of the Executive Committee of the Middlesex County Young Democrats' Club and a well-known debater on civic issues.

Maxwell P. Gaddis, Chairman of the Newton Chapter, American Red Cross, announced today the appointment of John Ward Whittemore, Chairman of the Blood Program, and Mrs. Cecil Clark, Vice-Chairman of the Committee.

Mr. Whittemore has worked with Red Cross on drives and has been a blood donor many times. He is working on the Community Chest Drive for 1950 and has worked on the Newton-Wellesley Hospital drive.

Mrs. Clark was acting secretary of Home Service for Red Cross in 1941-1942 and later served as a volunteer in Home Service. She has been a member of the Hospital Aid Board and President of Pomeroy House.

Both Mr. Whittemore and Mrs. Clark attended the recent regional meeting of the advisory council to the Massachusetts Blood Center in Taunton.

William Patterson, Jr., 9, of 294 Cerry street, was taken to the Newton-Wellesley Hospital in a police cruising car last week after falling from a tree, and suffered a fractured wrist bone.

Will Give Voters Primers To All New Registrants

The League of Women Voters of Newton in line with Mayor Lockwood's proclamation on registration urges all citizens to register to vote in the primaries September 19th. The deadline is August 18 for registration, and the City Clerk's office will be open daily from 8:30 A. M. to 5:00 P. M. and from August 15 through August 18 they will open every evening from 7:30 to 9:00.

The League of Women Voters have made available at the City Clerk's Office at the time of register a pamphlet "Voter's Primer.' This pamphlet demonstrates that "voting is not only one of their democratic rights, but also one of their chief responsibilities." The primer includes information on qualification for voting and registration, political parties, nominations, the primary and general elections.

In the foreword to the primer the statement reads: "The League of Women Voters is a non-partisan organization interested in encouraging intelligent participation in government. The League of Women Voters hopes that this primer will prove useful to all citizens who realize that voting is not only one of their democratic rights, but also one of their chief responsibilities. By voting, you uphold your belief in a 'government of the people, by the people and for the people.'

"The promer is in no sense a complete presentation of the subject, but we hope that it may prove to be a useful tool."

Thirty Day Stay Gives Werner Fahrenhold New Hope

HEARING ON PETITION WEDNESDAY

Plans Being Made

Friends of German Youth Rally In Effort To Save Him From Deportation

Plans are now being formulated to effect some method whereby Werner Fahrenhold, 16-year old German refugee from the Reds, can legally enter this country, so that as he puts it, "become a good American citizen." Already there is a movement on foot to bring this about and those in charge of the matter are hopeful that it can be brought about shortly.

Werner Says Thanks For Aid

—o—

Werner Fahrenhold, 16 year old German refugee from the Reds, who Monday was granted a 30 day extension of his stay in this country pending further developments, came to The Graphic office Tuesday and said that as a result of the extension, he was "the happiest kid in the world."

He asked to convey through this paper, the following statement to the people of Newton:

"I would like to express my hearty appreciation to all the people of Newton for all they have done for me to receive this 30 day stay from deportation. The minute I received the news, I was in Chef's Restaurant saying good-bye to everyone and believe me I was the happiest boy in the world. Thanks a lot, again, everyone for your kindness to me."

Werner, who has been residing with his American guardians, Mr. and Mrs. Jaime Fornos of 32 Cabot street, Newton, was saved Monday night two hours before he was to be turned over to the immigration officials for deportation back to Russian authorities.

The 11th hour decision, climaxing dramatic meetings in Newton and Greater Boston, came just in the nick of time. The 30-day deportation stay gave Werner and his American guardians and his friends until September 15 to work some kind of a solution to the problem. The 30-day stay was forwarded to the youth by Henry Nicolls, district director of the Immigration and Naturalization Service.

"We're continuing his permission to stay here for 30 days in an effort to help the boy and those interested in him, allowing them time to make arrangements to send him to a country other than Germany, from where he

Son Named To Post Held By Father

—o—

Captain Frederick A. Perkins of the Fire Department retired Monday after 45 years of service and his son, Lt. Frederick A. Perkins, Jr., was promoted to the rank of Captain, it was announced by acting Chief Francis J. Linnehan.

Retiring Capt. Perkins was first appointed to the department January 1, 1905 and was promoted to the rank of Lieutenandt April 1, 1923. He became captain October 23, 1932. His son, who succeeds him, joined the department April 25, 1937 and was promoted to lieutenant March 24, 1941. He joined the Navy fire control forces November 27, 1942 and participated in the invasion of Europe, returning to the department October 28, 1945.

The new captain was transferred from Engine 4 to take charge of Ladder 2 in Newton Highlands.

Acting Chief Linnehan also announced the transfer of Capt Timothy D. Herlihy, from Ladder 2 to Engine 4, and Lt. Alfred B. Lawson, from Engine 1 to Engine 2.

Also announced was the permanent appointment as members of the department of Americo DiRusso of 406 Lexington street, Auburndale, assigned to Engine 6, and Henry D. Mullen of 497 Auburn street, Auburndale, assigned to Engine 1.

No Polio Cases Reported Here

—o—

The Newton Health Department has stated that no new cases of polio have been reported in Newton during the week ending August 5. During that week, there were 9 cases reported in Massachusetts; during the corresponding week in 1949, however, there were 82 cases. During the weeks ending July 28 and July 21, 1950, 7 and 6 cases were reported respectively. 33 and 30 cases were reported during the same two-week period in 1949. In Massachusetts, to date for August, there have been 9 cases; at the same time last year, 32 cases were reported. The total to date for the 1950 disease year is 34 cases; last year at this time the disaster year total was 212. The seven-

Formerly a field representative, Mr. Parkinson will assist Mr. Waggoner in the supervision of the company's field organization in the counties of Middlesex, Norfolk, Plymouth, and Suffolk.

Mr. Parkinson joined the Boston agency as a field representative and he has qualified for membership in the National Field Club, an honor organization composed of the company's leading underwriters throughout the country. He was educated at Harvard University and served with the U. S. Army during World War II.

President L. Johnson Callas

Takes Issue With "Whispering Campaign" About Republican Club

—o—

Stating that "I have been apprised of a whispering campaign by one of our local candidates, seeking to discredit the Newton Republican Club" and that "the substance of this cowardly maneuver is the charge that the club's executive board is composed of non-Republican elements," L. Johnson Callas, president of that organization this week issued a release refuting such charges. Continuing, Mr. Callas stated:

"Dignity should not be lent this sort of thing, but since the terrible part of anonymous innuendo is the suspicion it plants in people's minds, I take this opportunity to discuss the matter, so that anyone confronted by rumor of this sort may know its precise value.

"Without qualification, I would like to stress that every elected and appointed member of the Newton Republican Club's executive board is an enrolled Republican. Not a single officer has been anything but a Republican. The organization itself has often proclaimed its in-

No Pay Increase For Firemen Now

—o—

"No action necessary" was voted by the board of aldermen Monday night at its meeting on the petition of the members of the Fire Department for increases in salaries.

Alderman Clyde S. Casady said that the action of the firemen in coming to the Board, which has no authority to act on the matter, was a "political maneuver."

Alderman Paul S. Rich said that the matter required additional study and that action should not be taken Monday night.

Car Thieves are Busy Sunday

—o—

Three thefts, one of a car radio, one of a $15 radiator ornament, and the other of eight quarts of oil from Edward Weiss' Esso station, 776 Beacon street, Newton Centre, were reported as having occurred Sunday.

Carl Hauer of 117 Cleveland street, West Newton, reported that his auto radio, worth $86.75, was stolen from his car when it was parked on Peabody street, Newton. The glove compartment of the car was ransacked, he said. The thief gained entrance to the car by breaking the ventilation window on the left side of the car.

Ernest Landolfi, 478 Waltham street, West Newton, reported the theft of a radiator ornament when his garage was broken into some time between 7 p.m. Saturday and 11 a.m. Sunday.

Francis Named Chairman

Appropriate $10,000 For Civil Defense Expenses

An appropriation of $10,000 for preliminary expenses for a Department of Civilian Defense was made by the Board of Aldermen at its meeting Monday night. This action followed the recommendation of Mayor Theodore R. Lockwood who also asked and obtained approval of the appointment of a director and members of a commission as well as setting a public hearing on the proposal to take a building on Walnut street for municipal purposes.

Douglas B. Francis was named director of the new department and the following were named members of the commission: Arthur J. Swett, Robert A. Whidden, Riley J. Hampton, Loomis Patrick and John F. Wheelock. Under suspension of rules the board adopted an ordinance creating the Department of Civil Defense and authorized the formation of unpaid auxiliary police and fire departments.

Monday, September 11, was set as the date of the hearing on the proposed taking of the land and buildings at 430 Walnut street, Newtonville, for municipal purposes. This building was formerly occupied by th Newton Lutheran Church and is owned by the Atlantic District of the Evangelical Lutheran Synod.

Auction This Saturday At Seeley Bros.

Enthusiasts will have the opportunity this Saturday of attending an auction right in Newton when promptly at 10 o'clock the first article will be put on the block at Seeley Brothers, one of Newton's oldest and best known concerns which will conduct an all day auction. It will be held at the showroom of the company located at 757 Washington street, Newtonville.

This is the first auction staged by Seeley Brothers in forty years, the last one having been held in 1910. The purpose of this auction will be to sell out everything in this well-stocked showroom to the highest bidder. Included among the many articles to be put up will be spool beds, chairs, lamps, bric-a-brac, utensils, rugs, in fact everything one can imagine. Actually it's a real country auction right in the Garden City.

Seeley Brothers, the oldest upholstering concern in Newton, was originally established in 1890 and was taken over by the Seeley Brothers in 1904. The concern has been operating continuously ever since. It is well known to thousands of people and some homes have been furnished completely from its warehouse.

Stork Beats Newton Police; Baby Boy Born in Ambulance

Mrs. Elizabeth L. Badger of Colebrook, N. H. gave birth to a five pound, fourteen ounce baby boy Sunday, in a police ambulance bound for the Chester Hospital in Cambridge. The baby having made his appearance near the Newton City Hall, the mother and child were taken instead to the Newton-Wellesley Hospital.

Mrs. Badger's mother, Mrs. Margaret Lamont, and Patrolman William T. Mahoney of Newton assisted in the birth.

Mrs. Badger and her mother had been visiting at the home of Mrs. Marion F. Cole, 31 Tarleton road, Newton Centre, Mrs. Badger's grandmother, before the birth of the child, who, incidentally, was named Michael.

When Mrs. Badger decided it was time to make a trip to the hospital, her mother called Newton police, who rushed an ambulance and cruiser to the Cole home. A short while after the ambulance had started, Mrs. Lamont yelled to the driver to stop. He stopped, near the city hall, and the baby was delivered.

Rezoning Of Walnut St. to Be Argued

What has been one of the most controversial zoning issues to come before the Newton aldermen this year will come to a head again next Wednesday night when the Planning Board and the Claims and Rules Committee of the Board of Aldermen conduct a hearing on a petition filed on behalf of a large group of residents to rezone a portion of Walnut Street, near the intersection of Beacon Street in Newton Centre.

Last March, a group of more than 300 residents vigorously opposed and defeated a zoning petition which would have made possible the erection of a supermarket at this location. The board of aldermen, however, refused the residents' petition to change the land in question from a business to a private residence district. The residents immediate-filed a new petition asking for a rezoning of the land to a general residence district.

The tract of land in the residents' petition (known as the petition of Mrs. Charles E. Downing, Jr. and others) is on the easterly side of Walnut Street extending from the Sudbury Aqueduct and the existing private residence zone to the northerly side of the Cochituate Aqueduct. The residents feel that as long as this area remains a business zone it will always be a threat to the value and privacy of their homes. They are overwhelmingly opposed to further

Files Claim Against City

Alexander Giglio, 172 Pine street, West Newton, has filed a claim for damages against the city, on the grounds that he had permitted an underground sewer to be constructed on his property, but gave no permission to build a brick building, containing pumping equipment, which the city went ahead and did. The attorney for Mr. Giglio, is William E. Halliday.

Advertisers Use Newspapers Most

The nation's 100 leading advertisers last year spent $208,548,999 in newspaper advertising, an increase of 45.1 per cent over the 1948 figure.

They spent only 2.1 per cent more on magazines than in the previous year and 2.7 per cent less on network radio.

The figures were reported last week by the Bureau of Advertising of the American Newspaper Publishers Association.

These 100 leading advertisers spent $528,620,793 in newspaper, magazine and network radio advertising last year, an increase of 13.8 per cent over the $464,478,483 of 1948

In total national revenue, the bureau said, newspapers gained $55,000,000 while magazines and network radio combined lost $30,000,000.

Questionnaires Sent To Candidates

All Newton candidates for the General Court have received a questionnaire sent out by the League of Women Voters of Newton.

The questionnaire asks for biographical information, party affiliation and the answers to the following questions:

1. What, in your opinion, has prepared you for the public office you now seek, by way of: Education, Civic Activities, Public Service?
2. This (showing graphs) is a picture of state expenditures in Massachusetts for 1949. Would you increase the share for education? If so, how?

League members are following up the questionnaires with personal interviews with the candidates. The information obtained by the League will be made available to voters of Newton.

This voters' service activity is part of the League program to promote "political responsibility through informed and active participation of citizens in government" and is part of their campaign to get qualified citizens of Newton to exercise their right to vote in the primaries September 19.

Information about candidates and election issues will be provided so that voters may make their choices as intelligently as possible. An opportunity to discuss questions with candidates at a candidates' meeting will afford a further opportunity to secure information before the primary.

Citizens are urged to register before tomorrow (August 18).

Main Cause of Overweight Is Overeating

Did you know that overweight is the most frequent health problem in this country? Did you know that most authorities agree that the main cause of overweight is overeating? No doubt you have all seen an overweight woman or man consuming a large heavy meal in a restaurant. Why do we overeat? Overeating may be due to habit or example; it may be due to "time on our hands"; it may be due to emotional factors. Habit plays a big part in our everyday life as we all know if we have ever tried to break a habit. And eating habits are well established. For instance, we become accustomed to eating a lot when we are very active and growing and we fail to "cut down" when this "need" has past. What happens—we become overweight! What do we do when we are bored, when we can't get out to visit or window-shop?—we eat. Do we think of eating when we are busily occupied? No! But we shouldn't be so busy that we forget to eat—that is just as bad. Emotions play a most important part in our eating pattern, particularly in relation to overeating. When we are emotionally upset we nibble at foods, usually high calorie foods too, and we are quite unaware of the actual amount of food we consume. If we are lonely we obtain some solace in trips to the kitchen and the refrigerator. Haven't we all sometimes been guilty of buying ourselves a box of chocolates to lift our morale? Food may also provide a delightful escape from the problems of life. When decisions must be reached, food often offers a refreshing period of intermission.

When are you considered overweight? Your ideal weight is approximately 110 pounds for 5 feet of your height plus 3 to 5 pounds for each inch over 5 feet. If YOU are overweipht and wish to reduce, first consult your doctor and get his advice. Beware of drugs, fad diets, and "cures." Reducing is merely a matter of controlling your overeating, of sticking to a diet that is adequate in all respects, and one which is low in calorie value. On such a diet excess fat will be used to supply your energy requirements for work and play. An adequate diet for adults should include, daily: 2 glasses of milk, two servings of vegetables, 2 servings of fruit (one citrus), one egg, one serving of meat, cheese, fish, or poultry, at least 3 servings of bread or cereal, 3 teaspoons of butter or margarine. If you are going to cut calories, yet have other foods essential to health you might try:

1. Eating three meals a day but refusing to be tempted by between meal snacks.

2. Avoiding high-calorie foods like the fat on meat, cooking fat, salad oil, fried foods, gravies, rich sauces, nuts, pastries, cakes, cookies, rich desserts, candies, jellies and jams. And eating sparingly of bread or cereals.

3. Being generous about fruits and vegetables, but taking them straight — vegetables without cream sauce or fat, fruits without sugar or cream.

Most salad dressings are forbidden, as they are high in caloric value. The following dressings may be used as directed:

Low Calorie Salad Dressing
(12 calories per tablespoon)
2 teaspoons cornstarch
1½ teaspoons sugar
¾ teaspoon salt
½ teaspoon paprika
¾ cup water
1 tablespoon salad oil
½ teaspoon Worcestershire
¼ cup vinegar
2 tablespoons catsup

Mix together cornstarch, sugar, salt and paprika. Add ¼ cup of the water, stirring slowly until smooth. Add remaining water. Stir and cook over low heat for 5 minutes. Cool. Stir in remaining ingredients. Store, covered, in refrigerator, and use as needed, shaking well before each use. Makes 1 cup.

Mock French Dressing
(25 calories per tablespoon)
¼ cup oil
1 cup vinegar
½ teaspoon mustard
1 teaspoon salt
½ teaspoon paprika

Place ingredients in a jar and shake. Store, covered, in refrigerator, and use as needed, shaking well before each use. Makes 1¼ cups. Note: one tablespoon of mayonnaise contains 101 calories.—Newton Nutrition Center, 1357 Washington street, West Newton.

Mary Stoddard Bigelow Bride of Douglas Danner

Miss Mary Stoddard Bigelow, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. David H. Bigelow, 326 Highland street, West Newton, became the bride of Douglas Danner, son of Mr. and Mrs. Carl Frederick Danner, 119 Waban avenue, Waban, Sunday evening in the Second Church, West Newton. Dr. R. Clyde Yarbrough officiated at the ceremony for which the altar was decorated with white flowers and candles entwined with smilax. A reception followed at the Brae Burn Country Club.

The eight bridesmaids were dressed like the matron of honor. They had bouquets accented with baby's breath and matching blue delphinium sprays in their hair. They were Miss Marion Ayer Bigelow, sister of the bride; Miss Cynthia Cook, and Miss Sarah Danner, both of Waban; Miss Patricia Helms of West Newton; Miss Ann Learnard of Newton; Miss Elizabeth Spencer of Stockbridge; Miss Ethel VanDevanter and Miss Jane Walsh, both of Washington, D. C.

The best man was Robert F. Danner the bridegroom's brother. The head usher was Francis Faulkner of Keene, N. H., who was assisted by William M. Hale, Julian Crocker, and E. Raymond Corey, all of Boston; Frederick H. Hilton of Framingham; Robert Bunten of Duxbury; Warren C. Lane, Jr., of Leicester; Oliver H. Morton and Andrew P. Murphy, both of Marblehead, and James Taylor of Brookline.

The bride was graduated from Vassar College in June. Her husband is a graduate of Rivers Country Day School, Harvard University, Class of 1946, and the Boston University School of Law. He is associated with the firm of Peabody, Arnold, Batenelder, and Luther.

After a wedding trip to Bermuda, the couple will live in Boston after September 1.

Mr. Oliver of Newtonville Weds Portland, Oregon Girl

White gladiola and larkspur decorated the altar of the Westminster Presbyterian Church, in Portland, Oregon, Sunday, August 6, for the marriage of Miss Margaret Joan Bedwell, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Jesse L. Bedwell of Portland, Oregon, to Warren W. Oliver, Jr., son of Mr. and Mrs. Warren W. Oliver, 86 Prescott street, Newtonville. The 5 p. m. ceremony was performed by Rev. John E. Ransom, with Dr. William G. Eliot, Jr., assisting.

The bride, given in marriage by her father, wore traditional ivory satin, with a cap of Chantilly lace, and a fingertip length tulle veil. She carried a colonial nosegay of white roses and bouvardie Humboldti. Miss Mary Eleanor Bedwell, was her sister's Maid of Honor, and she wore embroidered white organdy over orchid taffeta. She had a colonial nosegay and bandeau of sweetheart roses, bouvardia, and Fleurs d'Amour.

The bridesmaids were the Misses Esther Heston, Eve MacVeagh, Mary Youngman, and Kathleen Zaayer, the first two of which wore embroidered white organdy over blue taffeta, and the last two of which wore embroidered white organdy over yellow taffeta. They are all from Portland.

The best man was George I. Oliver of Wakefield, Massachusetts, a cousin of the groom. The ushers were William E. Prentiss, Roger A. Bachman, James L. Holland, and Lawrence H. Portwood, all of Portland.

Fololwing a reception at the church attended by 150 guests, the couple left for their wedding trip to the Oregon coast. After September 1, they will live in New York City.

The bride prepared at the Catlin School in Portland and graduated Mount Holyoke College in 1948. Mr. Oliver is a graduate of the Webb Institute of Naval Architecture.

Successful Season Held at Day Camp

Miss Florence Quigley, new executive director of the West Newton Community Center, reports a very successful summer for the day camp which her center runs in co-operation with the Rebecca Pomeroy House of Newton.

The West Newton girls who attended the camp were:

Eleanor Nelson, Shelia O'Loughlin, Mary Vahey, Jill Cooper, Jane Kilty, Mary McGray, Betty Ann Vose, Barbara Keefe, Jean Cooper, Shirley Cooper, Marcia Cooper, Janice Favel, Dorothy Monforte, Marilyn Brochesly, Joan Coroley, Janice Cowley, Marget Ererd, Sandra Gibbs, Marie Paul, Terry Marlin, Judy Bracken, Jane Gilligan, Denise Crosette, Jean Murello, and Louise Huntington.

Campers met at the Rebecca Pomeroy House for crafts, making such articles as bill folds, door stops, felt beanies, pocketbooks, bracelets, and pictures. Then they would go swimming in Walden Pond, in the mornings at the spots which would be crowded later in the day. This would be followed by a picnic lunch on a nearby hill and a story-hour, as well as games and talent shows. It would then be time for second swim, this time far along the shore. The beaches at Walden Pond are vastly improved and extended, and can now take care of more crowds than before, and there are several experienced lifeguards there.

Recruitment Committee Urges Blood Donations

The Blood Recruitment Committee met at the Chapter House of Newton Red Cross at 7:30 Wednesday evening, August 9, to make plans for the Bloodmobile visits September 11 and September 27 at The Eliot Church of Newton, 474 Centre street, Newton.

Dr. Thomas Morton Gallagher, Medical Examiner for Middlesex County spoke. He felt that the world situation demanded our wholehearted support of the Red Cross Blood Program. He cited several examples in his own medical experience of emergency civilian needs where lives otherwise lost were saved by available blood.

Mrs. Duncan Edmands, who has been named Chairman for Newton and Nonantum by the Newton Chapter, emphasized the need for available blood and blood products both for civilians and the armed forces, and hoped that all citizens living in Newton and Nonantum who are able to donate blood, would do so on the above dates.

Mrs. Hannah Levensohn, Director of the Newton Blood Program, said that at this time Red Cross has a greater responsibility than during World War II, in that we are responsible for supplying blood for civilian needs, armed forces and national defense, whereas in World War II we were only responsible for the Armed Forces.

All Are Welcome

Perfect Reward for Achievement!

WHEN A MAN PLANS and dares and endeavors until he achieves something out of the ordinary—few would deny him some taste of the fruits of his labor.

"Tis toil's reward that sweetens industry."
"As you have sown, so also shall you reap."
"According to the labour, so is the reward."

And we believe sincerely that—for the average man—there is no sweeter personal reward for achievement than a Cadillac car.

First of all, it is the perfect symbol of attainment. In almost every community where adequate highways exist, Cadillac is known and recognized as the overwhelming favorite of the world's distinguished people.

And few possessions, indeed, can give so much personal happiness to their owners—during so many days in the year.

A Cadillac car is a constant joy to drive. You can sit at the wheel, for hour after hour, completely at ease. Many owners say they drive hundreds of miles each week—just for pleasure and relaxation.

And it adds so much to your satisfaction to know that economy goes with you—each mile you drive.

It actually costs less to buy the lower-priced Cadillacs than certain models of numerous other makes of cars. A single tankful of gasoline will usually suffice for a full day's drive. And the full lifespan of a Cadillac has never yet been measured.

If you are one who has planned and labored until you've earned something special for yourself—come in and see us.

We know you'd enjoy a Cadillac—and even your severest critic would have to admit that it's a practical car to buy.

P.S.: Perhaps you know some modest man who ought to read this message. If so, we think you'd be doing right if you brought it to his attention.

Teen-Agers Escape From Police

Patrolmen John J. Regan and David H. Kerr, Jr., last Friday night chased a truck belonging to the Coca-Cola Company of Allston for some distance, after they noticed it proceeding down Washington street without lights. The boy who was driving the vehicle and his companion, both presumably of teen age, escaped, after having parked the stolen truck in a driveway at 87-89 Crafts street. Though police, under the leadership of Lt. George W. O'Neil, searched the vicinity, the boys were nowhere to be found.

Harold B. Gores to Address Teachers Of Mathematics

The second annual Institute for Teachers of Mathematics, sponsored by the Association of Teachers of Mathematics in New England will be held at Tufts College, Aug. 22 to 29, preceding the International Congress of Mathematicians which opens at Harvard University August 30.

Teachers of mathematics from all over the world will come to discuss the teaching of mathematics from the elementary school through secondary school and college. Such elementary subjects will be discussed as "Taking the 'Numb' out of Number," explained by Harold B. Gores, superintendent of the Newton schools, and "Beginner's Algebra with Fewer Rules and Better Reasons," explained by Prof. William R. Ransom, senior banking member of the Tufts faculty who is about to retire.

More advance subjects will range from non-Euclidean geometry, discussed by Prof. Garrett Birkhoff of Harvard University, and "Substitution Ciphers, or a Method of Cryptanalysis," described by Prof. Ruth G. Simond of the University of Vermont.

"Logarithms and Ivory Towers, or Thoughts on Art, Mathematics and Life," will be discussed by Helen C. Miles of the Newton public schools.

Also on the program will be Mr. Charles H. Mergandahl of Newton High School. Mr. Mergendahl is also a member of the Council.

Action Is Needed Now

Parking facilities at the Newton Centre business area continue to remain in a chaotic condition despite the fact that $50,000 was appropriated some weeks ago to create an off-street parking area in that section.

The matter of parking problems, not only at the Centre but throughout other business areas of Newton, has long been apparent and it has resulted in much talk but little action.

We realize that the taking of private property for public purposes is sometimes a slow legal process yet when a vital need exists, as it does today, for ample parking facilities near or adjacent to business areas, no effort should be spared to bring about a solution.

Recently a new business area has been opened up at Chestnut Hill on the Newton-Brookline line. Here new stores with ample parking facilities are available to the shopping public. No doubt these facilities appeal.

Certainly then, city authorities should make every attempt to facilitate the creation of parking areas in the business district of Newton Centre and other sections here.

This should be undertaken immediately even though clear title to all land in question has not been effected. Surely a part of the area to be taken for parking facilities must now be legally available and if so, a partial section should be made ready until such time as the entire area comes into the possession of the city.

Merchants in all areas of Newton are now coming into a busier time and the need for ample parking facilities should be apparent. These merchants, at least many of them, are property owners in Newton, they pay taxes and have a sincere desire to serve the citizens of this city.

They are rightfully entitled to all the consideration city officials can give them in their desire to serve the public efficiently and speedily. This can only be accomplished if proper and adequate parking facilities are available.

After months, yes years, of debate over the problem it does not appear unreasonable to urge, and urge strongly, that city officials do something about not only a perplexing matter but a matter which is of utmost importance to the merchants of Newton.

Current Comment

Coolidge Stands to Suffer Most From Denfield's Presence In Contest . . . Was Top Candidate Until Admiral Threw His "Four-And-After" Into Ring . . . Judge Miles a Potent Darkhorse . . .

It now seems evident that none of the other Republican candidates for the Governorship intends to go into court to challenge Admiral Denfeld's right to have his name on the September primary ballot. This may be due to one or two reasons:

1. That they believe Admiral Denfeld can qualify legally as an inhabitant of Massachusetts for the past seven years even though he paid no income taxes to the State during that time.

2. Or that they are convinced he cannot win the nomination, and they are uncertain what effect it would have on their own candidacies if he were thrown off the ballot.

In one sense it is surprising that former Lieutenant Governor Arthur W. Coolidge has not encouraged certain of his backers to move quietly against Denfeld because of all the candidates in the field he stands to suffer most from the admiral's presence in the contest.

As a matter of fact, Coolidge from all indications was the front-runner up to the time that Denfeld stepped into the race to be followed a short time later by General Daniel Needham, those two events seemingly stripping him of so much strength as to push him well back into the field.

Coolidge, however, is the old-line type of Republican politician who is apparently reluctant to stir up any fight within his own party and is content to attack communism, indulge in his homespun, cracker-barrel style of political philosophy and pin his hopes on the vote-getting power of the name, Coolidge.

The fact that his name is Coolidge and that he has a wide circle of friends as a result of his legislative associations makes him a figure who can't be counted out of the fight, but he doesn't loom as anywhere nearly as strong as he did six or seven weeks ago. His decline started with the opening of the Denfeld drive.

Former Attorney General Clarence A. Barnes, on the other hand, is probably quite happy to have Denfeld in the race because the admiral figures to split the primary vote and the wider it is split the better Barnes' prospects promise to be.

General Daniel Needham has been advancing his campaign so smoothly and effectively in the period he has been in the race that he is probably reluctant to do anything that might disturb the present setup. The support Needham has attracted and the potential strength he has shown have been one of the surprises of the contest so far.

If one were to analyze the lineup of candidates in the G.O.P. primary race at the present time, the guess of this observer would be that Needham either has taken over the leadership or is advancing steadily towards it, preliminary to challenging Barnes for it.

Judge Frankland W. L. Miles of the Roxbury court is a darkhorse and a rather potent one, with a sizeable following among certain groups of Republican women in the State. If Miles should succeed in winning this fight, he certainly would have the ladies to thank. Like Barnes, it will be to his advantage to have the primary vote divided as widely as possible, and he is presumably content to see Admiral Denfeld in the field.

Former State Senator Edward M. Rowe of Cambridge doesn't appear to have the G.O.P. strength to stand up with the other candidates when the political chips are on the table.

To many of the political observers Admiral Denfeld, the other contender to be considered, is something of an enigma. Reports have indicated that there is a good deal of sentiment for him throughout the Blackstone Valley. Yet, most of the experts don't believe that a man who has declined to pay an income tax to this State and whose eligibility for the Governorship is certainly doubtful, can make a serious bid for the right to head the Republican State ticket in November.

You may be very certain that if Admiral Denfeld should win his party's nomination for Governor the Democrats would have no qualms whatever about challenging his claim to residency in Massachusetts for the past seven years.

Some persons have asked what would happen if Admiral Denfeld were nominated by the Republican voters as their candidate for Governor and then were disqualified by the courts from running in the election. The answer is that in the event of such an extraordinary development, the G.O.P. State Committee would designate the man who would oppose Governor Dever.

* * * *

One of the striking aspects of the battle for the Republican gubernatorial endorsement has been the absence of any real live issues up to the present time.

Each of the six gentlemen who would like to be the G.O.P. standard-bearer next autumn has taken a turn at lambasting Governor Dever, but the present Governor is hardly a primary issue even though assailing him is at the moment the most widely used Republican method for winning friends and influencing people.

One might observe, incidentally, that when the G.O.P. candidates conclude their own party fight and train their guns on the Democrats there won't be much ammunition left to fire at Mr. Dever, and they'll have little alternative but to repeat the things they've already said.

Even Senate President Harris S. Richardson, a candidate for the Republican nomination for Lieutenant Governor, is centering his fire on Dever, and he employed some most intemperate language in his radio address the other day. His use of such epithets as "meanest sneak" made one think of small boys in a heated backyard argument.

You could hardly be blamed for wondering if some of the candidates for Republican nominations might not do better to acquaint the voters with their own qualifications and their ideas, if any, for improving the direction of the State government.

From the standpoint of the G.O.P. voters there really are only two major issues in their party's gubernatorial primary.

1. Which of the six candidates would make the best Governor?

2. Which of the six candidates would have the best chance of winning if nominated?

So far the gentlemen involved seem to give only passing attention to those two particular points which to this observer loom as the most pertinent.

There has been some vague and general talk about the need for a new face and a new political deal, and, of course, it has been directed against Coolidge and Barnes, both of whom went down with the Republican ticket in the 1948 Democratic landslide.

Reference also has been made to the fact that Mr. Barnes is regarded as a foe to organized labor even though he does not consider himself one, and there is a deep-seated conviction that to nominate him would be to invite a drive by labor for the Democratic ticket in November.

But to date there has been no open and sustained public discussion of the issues which the candidates and their lieutenants talk about privately. Perhaps the G.O.P. contenders are withholding their main arguments until the closing stages of the campaign, but the primary itself is only a little more than a month away. The voters will go to the polls four weeks from next Tuesday. The candidates will have to get down to hard, cold facts pretty soon.

Lawmakers Behind Rest of Nation

Governors and Mayors who have been impatient to set up civilian defense programs for the protection of the home-front populations in the event of Russian air attacks have discovered that the federal machinery in Washington is turning in its usual cumbersome, ponderous manner.

Federal plans to guide States, cities and towns are supposed to be ready some time in September, and as far as authorities in Washington are concerned the local officials can mark time until then.

You might expect that the authorities at the capitol would be prodding office-holders throughout the country to get going and do something. But just the reverse has been true. It is another example of Washington being behind the rest of the nation in both its thinking and acting.

To-morrow Last Day to Register

Friday of this week is the last day to register to vote in the September 19th primary election.

City and town clerks and election commissioners in the 351 cities and towns of the Commonwealth have been working overtime to register new voters and to re-register those who received "dropped notices."

The primary will be held Tuesday, Sept. 19, with Massachusetts voters choosing Democratic and Republican nominees who will compete in the November election for governor, constitutional offices, county and other state positions.

THE BREAKS

Sometime, you'll hear somebody say, "I wish the breaks would come my way." Yet, when he checks, he must confess that home and happiness, and friends such as he has, have what it takes to constitute the best of breaks. And, after that can he complain about not getting breaks again?

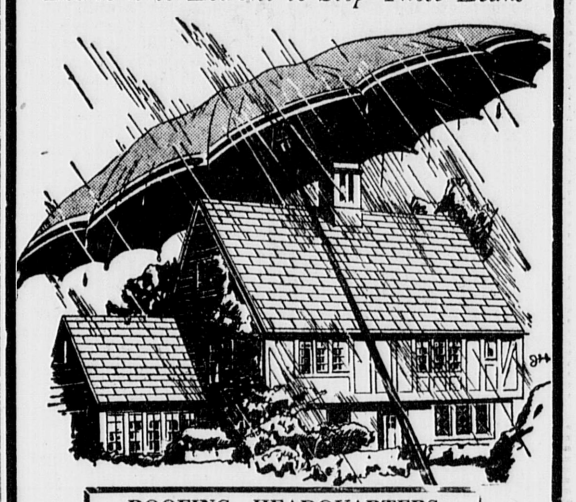

By the way, how about giving yourself a break? During the Summer when the weather gets you down and you don't feel like eating a hearty meal, drop in for a tasty sandwich or two. Or, one of our tasty salads that really pick you up.

Albemarle, Carr and Mann Playgrounds Hold Events

A costume and vehicle parade were the main attractions in the first of the annual field days, marking the climax of the summer recreation program in Newton. The youngsters of three playgrounds, Albemarle, Carr and Horace Mann, collaborated on the presentation, which was held at the Carr Playground and watched by approximately 500 people.

Activities began at 2 p.m. with the singing of "America the Beautiful," which was followed by the parade, competitive dashes, games, relay races, and a dancing demonstration. In a special exhibition, articles made in the handwork and woodworking classes were shown. The afternoon was terminated by the awarding of prizes to the winners by Newton Recreation Commissioner C. Evan Johnson.

Winners of the events were as follows:

In the costume parade, judges voted Patricia Gath as the "prettiest" entry, while second and third places were awarded to Judith Buell and Julia Govina. Other awards in this event in order of placement went to Judith Simonds, Lynn Sawyer and Mary Oliver, "most original;" Jerry Mead, Paul Winchell, and Suzanne Simonds, "most unique;" Paula Proia and Dana Panaggio, "funniest." Patricia O'Connell was voted the prettiest in the vehicle parade, with Jane McMillan, second. Jane Dorothy McKinney had the "most unique" vehicle while Judith and Kevin McManus took first and second prizes for their patriotic decorations.

The series of dashes resulted in the following winners:

For boys, 25-yard dash, 5 and 6-year-olds—Kevin Howe, first; Ernest Butler, second, and Guy Clemente, third. 35-yard dash, age 7 and 8—Kenneth Delgizzi, Joseph King, John Leone. 50-yard dash, age 9 and 10—Francis Magnanelli, John Connerney and Richard Kirlehan.

Fifty-yard dash, age 11 and 12—Russell Hollihan, William Hough, and Richard DeSantis. Over 12 years—Richard Sale, William Hamill and Robert Payson.

Winners in the dashes for girls, age 4 years and under—25-yards, were, in order of placement, Lois Mazzola, Diane McClellan and Judy Simonds. Other events were taken by Patricia Mazzola, Rita McClellan, and Joyce Cavelli, in the 25-yard dash for 5 and 6-year-olds—Suzanne Simonds, Loretta Mazzola and Dianne Drolet were winners in the 35-yard dash, age 7 and 8.

The 50-yard race for 9 and 10-year-olds was won by Betty Lou Farina, Mary Olivieri and Geraldine Panaggio. In the 11 and 12-year group, winners of a similar race were Alfreda Farina, Betty Jo Conover and Shirley Panaggio, and in the 13 and 14-year age group, Barbara Marini, Patricia Hood, and Jackie Panaggio were top sprinters.

William Hough and James Giroux combined forces to take first place in the three-legged race for boys. Second position was filled by Richard Sementilli and Kenneth DelGizzi. George Poirier and Raymond Cavetti were third.

A similar race for girls was won by Betty Jo Conover and Carol Hough, first; Janet Bartley and Rita Hough, second, and Geraldine Panaggio and Nancy Turner, third. In this same race, for older girls, Barbara Marini and Patricia Panaggio were first, with Joan Hough and Ruth York, second.

The dodge ball match brought victory to the Horace Mann team, which included Vincent Battista, James Giroux, Francis Maganelli, Robert Baxton, William Hough, Carol Hagaman, Betty Annese, Patricia Hough and Ruth York.

Girls participated in a paper bag relay. In this event, the winning team was composed of Joan Hough, Carol Hagaman, Patricia Hood, and Ruth York. In second place was the team including Patricia Panaggio, Jackie Panaggio, Barbara Marini, and Barbara Russo.

Both boys and girls competed in the tonic races. Carol Hagaman won in the girls' event, with Betty Annese, second, and Barbara Marini, third. First place for boys was taken by Daniel Vecchione, second by James Giroux, and third by Raymond Civetti.

Third place in this event was awarded to the team of Robert DelGizzi, Danny Vecchione, Louis Russo, Joseph Francione, and Gerry Vecchione.

Those who participated in the singing games were Loretta Mazzola, Patricia Mazzola, Lois Mazzola, Carol Mazzola, Annette Ratta, Loretta Piselli, Carolyn Colleia, Peggy Owen, Katherine Dirico, Mary Louise Melideo, Lynn Sawyer, Judy Landry, Joyce Cavelli, Patricia O'Connell, Betty Lou Farina, Patricia Scanlon, Judy McManus and Julia Gavini.

Suceeds Franklin K. Hoyt

Name V. Stoddard Bigelow To Board of Aldermen

V. Stoddard Bigelow, 45, of 4 Maple road, Auburndale, was elected alderman-at-large from Ward 4 at the meeting of the Board of Aldermen Monday night. He is an attorney and vice-president of a typewriter supply company.

He was unanimously elected to fill the vacancy resulting from the resignation of Franklin K. Hoyt, who now resires in Ward 3. The new alderman was sworn in by City Clerk Frank M. Grant following his election and he was assigned to the Franchises and Licenses, Claims and Rules, Public Buildings and Ward Line committees by President Wendell R. Bauckman.

Mr. Bigelow, a native of Lowell, attended Phillips Andover Academy and was graduated from Yale in 1927 and Yale Law School in 1929. He was admitted to the Massachusetts Bar in 1929 and is vice-president, assistant treasurer and director of the F. S. Webster Co., in Cambridge. He is also a trustee of Lasell Junior College and an assistant general chairman of the Newton 1951 Red Feather Campaign. He and his wife, Mrs. Mabel E. Bigelow, have two children, Nancy L., and Peter H.

President Bauckman appointed Alderman Hoyt on the Finance Committee, after Alderman Buse who would nominally be appointed to this post, asked that he be not named due to the possibility that he may be called to active duty in the Navy.

OBITUARIES

Services Held For Richard Hachey, Drowning Victim

Funeral services for Richard Hachey, age 8, son of Mr. and Mrs. Raymond Hachey of 52 Hatfield road, West Newton, who was drowned last Thursday in a city swimming pool in West Manchester, N. H., despite efforts of firemen to revive him, were held Saturday morning from the Walsh Funeral Home, 20 High street, Waltham, with a high mass of requiem in St. Charles' Church. Burial was in Calvary Cemetery, Waltham.

The boy was vacationing with his parents at Manchester and was found in the deep end of the Rock Rimmon Swimming Pool, in eight feet of water, after his sister, Cheryle, 6, reported to her parents that he was missing. The boy's mother was watching the children in the pool from outside a wire fence.

Officials expressed the belief that the boy went into the deep water by mistake and asserted that it was the first drowning in the pool since its opening 20 years ago. The body was recovered by the life guard, Robert Carty, and firemen worked over the victim for two hours in vain.

His father is a planning engineer in the Everett plant of the General Electric Co., and his mother is the former Roselle Paradise of Manchester, N. H.

Besides his parents and his sister, he leaves his grandparents, Mr. and Mrs. Alphe Hachey of 880 Moody street, Waltham, and Mr. and Mrs. Leo Paradise of Manchester, N. H., and a great-grandmother, also of Manchester.

Petition-

development of business in the neighborhood.

The position of the residents was made clear in a letter sent this week to each member of the Planning Board and to the Aldermen. The letter read in part as follows:

"As you know, a petition to rezone a portion of the easterly side of Walnut Street, near the intersection of Walnut and Beacon Streets, comes up for hearing on Wednesday night, August 23, before the Planning Board and the Claims and Rules Committee of the Board of Aldermen. This is the petition of Mrs. Charles E. Downing, Jr., and others.

"It has now been several months since zoning in relation to this area has been up for consideration. We feel it might be helpful in advance of the hearing to review the reasons this petition was filed and to assure you that our group of nearby residents is keenly interested in having your favorable action on our petition now before you so that our homes will be reasonably protected.

"The land we seek to have rezoned is on the easterly side of Walnut Street extending from existing private residence zone to the northerly side of Cochituate Aqueduct. This land has never had a business establishment on it. It has had nothing but residences on it. Its present zoning as a business district is contrary to the actual usage of the land. It is an area of homes and has been so for years.

"In the hearings which have been held, no valid reasons have been set for over-riding the wishes of these residents nor has any urgent necessity for converting this area for business use ever been shown. On the other hand, the residents have pointed to traffic, safety and other hazards and nuisances which further development of business in this area would produce.

"Immediately following the rejection of the Noonan petition last April, the residents filed a new petition modified to ask for a change of the land to general residence district instead of private residence. We did not press for a hearing because it was our understanding that a survey of the city's entire zoning problems was in progress, and that it was the desire of the Board to study the recommendations of this survey before taking action on further zoning matter of long-range importance.

"We too have interested ourselves in the recommendations of this study known as the 'Adams Report' and, as a result, have since withdrawn our petition filed in March and have replaced it with one which conforms exactly with the Report's recommendations for the area in question. Since this Report is the work of zoning experts retained by the City to help our city officials plan for the best interests of Newton, we believe there should be no reason to hesitate to grant our petition when the opinion of the experts and the wishes and welfare of the residents are in complete agreement.

"The Planning Board and the Board of Aldermen are fully aware of the numerous past attempts to further change the character of this neighborhood from a residential area to a business area. There is no need to list the occasions it has been necessary for the nearby residents to appear in hearings before the Planning Board and the Claims and Rules Committee to fight to preserve the privacy and values of our homes. This has been going on for several years. It is the hope of residents who own homes in this area, or those whose properties abutt or are near, that the Planning Board and the Board of Aldermen will now grant our petition so that we may at last feel our homes are secure and that we will no longer have to live continually under the threat of repeated attempts to convert this area to business use."

flexible policy of furthering Republicanism. It embraces no special cult. It exposes no favorite candidates. It treats all Republican aspirants for public office with fine impartiality. Its main purpose is to afford the people of Newton a glimpse of the Republican party so that they might come to know it and be induced to join its ranks. In furtherance of this policy it has presented panel discussions and debates on vital issues; it has staged rallies to which it has invited all candidates, not just a favored few, to participate. At present, it is cooperating with the Republican City Committee in registration.

It is through these activities that the cause of Republicanism will be served, not through the irresponsible utterings of a self-seeking candidate. I was going to suggest to Friend Candidate that he run on his own qualifications, but I discovered that he was at one time a Democrat. Perhaps the worthy gentleman cannot do much with his own record, therefore, I refer him to the Book of Saint Matthew, chapter 7, verse 5, sincerely hoping that he heeds the good advice therein contained: 'Thou hypocrite, first cast out the beam out of thine own eye; and then shalt thou see clearly to cast out the mote out of thy brother's eye'."

Youth-

can be re-admitted later to the United States," Nicolls said.

He admitted he wasn't sure whether or not he had overstepped his authority in making the decision, but said he had acted "in the interests of fair play."

Announcement of the stay came after a conference between Nicolls and U. S. Representative Christian A. Herter, who had taken the boy's case to heart and virtually ruined an anticipated quiet week-end with his family at Manchester. After working out the temporary solution, Herter flew back to Washington.

At a meeting at Newton Corner Sunday, Russell Joy, Jr., of Winchester, war veteran and cost accountant, sparked the appeal for Werner, whose plight had been brought to the public's attention.

The real drama in Monday's decision was enacted at the Fornos home, where Werner was packing his bags after having passed an examination Monday morning on business mathematics at the Newton High School summer school.

Mrs. Fornos, who has come to consider Werner almost as a son in the short time he has been here, cried with joy when she heard the news.

"I'm so happy, she said, "I could embrace the world. Everybody has been kind and wonderful. I wish I could thank them all. I do hope all the people who have helped us will keep working with us, for the end is not yet in sight."

The youth himself, who has stowed across the Atlantic four times since he was ten years old and first became a wartime mascot of Yank troops in Germany, could not contain his happiness and relief.

'I'm the happiest kid in the world," he exclaimed. "To everybody who has helped me on this first step, I want to give my heartiest thanks. I hope that later someday I can repay them. Even if it's cutting their lawns, I should be glad to do it."

The case of the youth, who in his short lifetime has survived a Nazi prison camp and forced labor in an East German uranium mine in addition to his stowaway trips to America, appealed to the public's humanitarian instincts because he is considered by Communist-dominated East Germany as an "orphan ward" of that state because he was born in Leipzig.

Born in that city, Werner's troubles started when some fireworks he innocently set off guided American bombers to his home city in the last war. The Nazis put him in a reform school from which he later escaped.

During the Battle of the Bulge, the 9-year-old orphan made his way to American lines and became mascot for the 116th Regiment of the 29th Infantry Division, where he learned English, which incidentally is perfect.

When the 116th returned to the states, he was turned over to the 82nd Airborne and, later, to the 389th M. P. battalion at La Harve.

He stowed away on a troop ship for the first of seven crossings of the Atlantic when the 389th was sent home. But at the Brooklyn Army base he was put on a German-bound vessel and sent back. Back he came on a private line ship and cut through the wire fence at the Army base with pliers.

He wandered to Boston and then West where Ohio police arrested him for loitering. He escaped, returned to New York and, sure the police were close behind, stowed away on a ship back to Germany.

He returned to the United States as a stowaway on a ship that docked at Galveston, Texas, but he couldn't get off until the vessel reached the Brooklyn Navy base. Arrested there by Shore Patrolmen, he escaped, but had to hide on a boat going back to Germany.

This time, friends in Germany appealed to UNRRA for legal entry to the United States. But UNRRA ruled he must be sent to the Russian zone. The Reds promptly accused him of being an American spy and sent him to the mine.

Again he slipped away, this time to the British zone where he got a job as interpreter. Finally, he made his way back to the American zone where an Army sergeant cared for him near an air base at Frankfurt. When the sergeant's tour of duty was over, Werner stowed away on a plane, landing last January at Westover Field.

He was picked up by Immigration authorities five days later, brought to the East Boston detention station, and released on bond June 22 to Jaime G. Fornos of Newton, who said he will gladly adopt the boy if the immigration department will permit him to remain here.

Werner fears, and with justification, that the Communists will try to seize him again, even if he were returned to West Germany. Now, at least, he has 30 days to find a temporary home in this hemisphere until he can come back to this country, Newton and "Mother" Fornos.

In the meantime those interested in his case are working diligently to find some way so that the boy will not be returned to Germany.

Two Hundred Attend Annual Field Day

Approximately 200 people were present last Friday at the annual field day of the Cold Spring Playground, Newton Highlands, a day of events in which the youngsters in the summer recreation program participated, which marked the end of the season.

In the doll carriage parade which opened the festivities, the carriage of Anne O'Connor won first prize; while Cathy and Elizabeth Perkins tied for second place.

A three-legged race, dodge ball competition, dashes, baseball throw, handcraft exhibitions, and a horseshoe and checker tournament were included in the program.

The checker tournament was won by Crosby Bassett with Alan Keith second.

Combined winners of the three-legged race follow: Ages 7 to 9 years, Peter Langan and Jack Fleming, first; Richard Holman and David Looney, second, and Paul and Robert McLaughlin, third.

In the age group 10 to 11 years, William Keith and Richard Moore placed first, with Charles Fitzsimmons and Crosby Bassett, second, and James Collentro and Daniel Lanagan, third.

Edward MacDonald and Paul Gould were first in the race for 12-year-old boys and up. Second place was taken by Scott Keith and Roger Seymour. Joe Collentro and Kevin Kearney, third.

Both boys and girls participated in the various dashes. In the 9 to 11-year-old group at a distance of 30 yards, the winner was JoAnn Brosnan, with John Looney, second, and Roland McEldowney, third.

Alfred Huard won the 50-yard dash for ages 12 to 14 years. Beverly Smith was second and Annarae Tong, third. Paul Gould, Edward MacDonald, and Joseph Collentro were winners, in order of placement, of the 100-yard dash for age 15 years and up.

In the baseball throw for distance Paul Gould for the boys, and Beverly Smith, for the girls, made the long shots in the 14 years and older competition. Under aged 14, Howard Whitmore III, and Annarae Tong, were able to throw the farthest distance.

First in the accuracy shot for those over 14 years of age, was Alfred Huard, and among those under 14, Michael Capello took top honors.

JoAnn and Brenda Brosnan had the most original bicycles while Marilyn Crowley's was judged as the most "patriotic".

In the boys' handcraft exhibition of woodworking articles, a girl took third prize. She was JoAnn Brosnan. Paul Michael Fitzsimmons won first prize with Howard Whitmore, second.

Supervisors of the field day were Mrs. Ragna Hovgaard; Thomas Cutler, woodwork; and Miss Gladys Forbush and Miss Martha Pate, girls' handcraft. Instructors at the playground who also directed activities, were Robert Jackson, Richard Hebbard, Nancy Moran and Patricia Morrison.

Jimmy Finds a Real Friend

Although the Scoutmaster of one of the Newton Troops had noticed that Jimmy, the new Boy Scout seemed indifferent and took little interest in the Troop's activities he felt that perhaps later when he became better acquainted he might show more enthusiasm. At least he hoped so. To the Scoutmaster each boy was an individual and Scouting work was more than a display of badges.

However, he was surprised when one of the neighborhood storekeepers drew him aside one evening and told him that Jimmy had been stealing candy and chewing gum from the store over quite a period of time. This pilfering had been brought to the attention of the parents who were horrified, and perfectly willing to make restitution. Nevertheless, Jimmy had continued in his career of petty thievery.

Learning that the boy belonged to a Scout Troop the troubled storekeeper decided to appeal to the Scoutmaster for help since he saw the unpleasant prospects awaiting Jimmy should this tendency go unchecked. Furthermore, he was loathe to turn the youth over to the necessarily inflexible routine of a law enforcement agency.

With sympathy and understanding the Scoutmaster set out to meet the challenge. Beside the cheery flames of a campfire or during rest periods on a day hike the Scoutmaster quietly demonstrated to the boy that he was his friend. Thus, at the end of one long and busy, but happy, day the floodgates were loosed, and the formerly indifferent, uninterested boy poured out his story to this kindly companion.

From the table the Scoutmaster learned that his show of understanding had been the first that the unhappy lad had ever experienced. His home, although replete with material comforts, held no love or even a semblance of family life. Mother and Father were continually at odds and Jimmy's emotions were torn and strained perpetually. In his adolescent bewilderment he felt he was not needed, that he was important to no one.

Although he always had plenty of money for sweets this very fact seemed to make it more exciting to see what he could get away with at the nearby store. One day the proprietor had caught him red-handed. Even Jimmy was puzzled that this experience exhilirated rather than shamed him. However, the sympathetic Scoutmaster understood. For the first time in his remembrance Jimmy's parents were united to help him and he felt the security he had always unconsciously missed.

However, with the storekeeper reimbursed for his losses and Jimmy seemingly under restraint the parents soon drifted into their irresponsible way of life. Again their son was denied a normal emotional and social contact with family and friends. The overwhelming urge to regain parental attention lured Jimmy on the only path which had ever afforded him this precious sense of belonging.

At the end of the story Jimmy looked miserably at his friend, the Scoutmaster. In man to man fashion the latter showed him the dififculties he must overcome. By facing the facts and profiting from the advice of this experienced older friend Jimmy soon entered spiritedly into youthful activities. He shouldered more and more responsibilities in the Scout Troop and derived much satisfaction from successfully completing each assignment. He eventually became a Star Scout. His school work, formerly so poor that even thoughts of a higher education were useless, improved and remained satisfactory enough for him to enter college where he is now a well-adjusted student.

"Jimmp" is, of course, not the boy's real name. The rest of the story is true, but fictionalized to the extent that no one except possibly the principals would recognize this little drama of real life. For any Red Feather Agency such as the Norumbega Council of the Boy Scouts must be discreet about these human interest stories knowing that Newton citizens will recognize merit badges as symbols of personal triumphs over odds. The latter, fortunately, are not generally as serious as Jimmy's. Nevertheless, as Jimmy's Scoutmaster felt, each boy is an individual and any help a leader is able to offer is a contribution to a high standard of community living.

GEORGE D. FITZPATRICK

Fitzpatrick to Be Member of Marine Leaders Class

George D. Fitzpatrick, son of Mrs. M. L. Fitzpatrick, 44 Woodland road, Newton, is one of the 1500 men who were selected from colleges and universities throughout the United States to become members of the Platoon Leaders Class at Marine Corps School, at Quantico, Va.

Designed to train college students during their vacations, the Platoon Leaders Class gives two training periods of six weeks each. Their reserve commissions are awarded to them upon graduation from college.

Fitzpatrick and his classmates are given intensive instruction in drill; tactics and weapons. A student at Boston College, his time will be divided between classroom lectures, problems, field demonstrations and maneuvers. Several days are spent on the rifle range where weapons such as the rifle, carbine and pistol are fired. For the final three weeks, the students move from their modern barracks to the camps of the Quantico reservation for training under field conditions.

Newton Red Cross Is Represented

—o—

125 students from Eastern Area of Red Cross and 25 leaders attended the two-week conference.

Newton Duo Win On Teen Talent Time

—o—

Two young tap dancers from Newton were winners last week on the WCRB Talent Time broadcast from the stage of the Embassy Theatre.

Janice and Beverly Toher, who live at 36 Blake street and are aged 13 and 16 respectively, won the plaudits of the crowd at the theatre and the air audience to make their win. They will now be eligible to compete in the final broadcast of the WCRB series, with a grand prize of a trip to New York by Northeast Airlines, a stay at the Hotel Taft and visits to the city's attractions.

I Met Werner Fahrenhold

By JANET QUINN

This morning a nice-looking boy ambled leisurely into the Graphic office, with his pants leg rolled up, as if just having been riding a bicycle, and licking an ice cream cone. I, of course, thought it was one of the neighborhood kids that come in every so often. Quite amazed was I, you can be sure, at learning that this was Werner Fahrenhold, the 16 year old German refugee, who, the authorities say, must be deported to the Russian sector of Germany, because he did not enter this country legally. He has been granted a 30-day extension of his stay here to try to effect a transfer to a neighboring country in order that he might gain legal entrance to the United States.

I chatted for a while with Werner, and found it very difficult to believe that this unassuming boy was foreign born and a resident of this country for such a short period. His speech is almost entirely free from accent, and his mode of speaking, as well as his actions, belie anything but the typical American youth.

Werner would enter his sophomore year at Newton High School this fall if allowed to stay, and to be allowed to stay is naturally the fervent desire of his existence. The whole situation affected me very peculiarly. In my eyes, it seemed not the question of deporting a refugee to his homeland, but rather that of taking any one of a thousand American kids,—the kind who play baseball and football, love the movies and ice cream, and just passed his math exams—to a foreign country, simply because he wanted to live in freedom, to quote a hackneyed phrase, and have the things every youngster deserves, but which only American youngsters have.

I sincerely hope Werner will be allowed to realize his dreams.

Children Perform

Gala 32 Act Talent Show Staged at Upper Falls

Approximately 250 friends and relatives watched 57 children from the Emerson Playground, Newton Upper Falls, perform in a gala 32 act talent show on the stage of the Emerson School auditorium last week.

Emceed by Bill Sherman of Station WCRB, the program featured singing, dancing, duets, and solos. Costumed by the mothers of the performers, the entire show was under the direction of Miss Beverly Boardman, playground instructor. Prizes, donated by the Emerson Parent-Teacher Association, were given the winners by Newton Recreation Commissioner C. Evan Johnson.

Katherine Marino, vocal, "Chewin' Gum."

Anne Tocci, dance, "Boogie Woogie Tap."

Betty Eames, dance, "Drum Tap."

Carol Wallace, vocal, "My Foolish Heart."

Marjorie Freeman, piano solo, "Valse."

Lynn Sawyer, dance, "Ballet."

Richard DeGoff, vocal, "Baby Face."

Celia Roach, vocal, "I Want a Girl."

Janet DeMichele, vocal, "Enjoy Yourself."

Mary Lou Lynch, vocal, "An Old Sombrero."

Robert, Richard and Edward DeGoff, vocal, "Now is the Hour."

Miss Boardman was presented a cosage by the children, who also gave Bill Sherman a necktie.

Mrs. Robert D. Holt was the piano accompanist. Mrs. Lawrence Anzivino was in charge of costumes. Assisting Miss Boardman in the production was William Kingston of Newton Centre.

Completes Course In Sales Methods

—o—

Donald B. Eden, son of Mr. and Mrs. P. Edward Eden, 156 Elgin street, Newton Center, has recently completed an intensive three week refresher course in sales methods and techniques given by Liberty Mutual Insurance Company at its Boston home office.

One of 13 salesmen candidates chosen on a nationwide basis to study latest developments in the mutual insurance field, Eden now lives in Syracuse, N. Y., and represents the company from its office in that city.

A 1950 graduate of Syracuse University, during the war he served for two years with the U. S. Army Signal Corps.

To Retire As B & A RR. Counsel

George H. Fernald, counsel for the Boston and Albany Railroad, who resides at 61 Winthrop street, West Newton, will retire September 1 after 43 years service, the railroad has announced. He entered the employ of the road in 1907 and has been counsel since 1916. In this capacity he represented the railroad in legal matters and at various rate hearings and is generally regarded as one of the leading railroad lawyers of New England.

He graduated from Harvard College in 1903 and from the Harvard Law School in 1905. He was admitted to the Massachusetts bar in 1904 while a student. At law school he was one of the editors of the Harvard Law Review.

Mr. Fernald retires under the pension rules of the New York Central System, of which the Boston and Albany is a part. He has been active for many years in Newton city affairs.

He will be succeeded as counsel by William L. Parsons, of Winchester, who has been in the legal department of the road for many years.

Police Play Cupid To Sailor and His Gal In Real Style

On a piano, slightly off-key, and in the presence of several other husky policemen, a Newton police officer played Mendelssohn's wedding march, and with a police lieutenant, acting as "best man" Miss Anna G. Anderson, 23, of 27 Cushing street, Waltham, and Chief Boatswain's Mate Lewis F. Wilson, 28, of Kansas City, were married in the local police headquarters last Friday night in one of the most unusual weddings in the history of the Garden City.

It all came about this way. Lieutenant William J. Burke and other police officers played Cupid for the couple when the couple explained their predicament, shortly before 10:30 p.m. The sailor, who was due to go to Korea in three days, had obtained a five-day waiver of the usual waiting period at Waltham District Court where the license was granted late that afternoon.

Sympathetic and understanding the problem facing the romantic couple, police went in search of a justice of the peace to perform the ceremony and in less than 15 minutes the assistant clerk of the Newton Court, David C. Lombard, had been awakened from a sound sleep and was standing in the vestibule of the police station.

After rubbing his eyes to make certain he was not dreaming, he inspected the marriage license held by the prospective bridegroom who stood beside an attractive blond young woman wearing a pale blue chiffon dress with a beautiful bouquet of flowers.

Just before the service began, Officer James McManus hurried into the police guard-room and recreation quarters just off the lobby of the headquarters and played a few bars of Mendelssohn's famous wedding march.

Lieutenant Burke stepped out from behind the police desk and walked up beside the bridegroom and played the role of "best man." Patrolman John McGaughney, Lieut. George O'Neil and Paul Donahue joined John Totten, a Newton friend of the couple as witnesses.

The couple left the headquarters arm-in-arm to a waiting automobile.

The new Mrs. Wilson said she is employed by a cleansing company in Watertown and she had been granted time off for the honeymoon, Lieutenant Burke said.

Annual Appeal for Funds To Start September 12

The Newton Division of the Salvation Army's Greater Boston Appeal for Funds, which will get under way next month, is spearheaded by Kenneth E. Prior, of West Newton, as General Chairman.

KENNETH E. PRIOR

Mr. Prior states the 1950 drive will open about September 12, and that the city-wide organization of chairmen, team captains and workers is fast rounding into shape and will be ready for a quick start when the exact date for the opening is settled.

"I'm delighted with the splendid organizational work already done by the chairmen of the Executive, Residential and Industrial committees," said Mr. Prior. "And one thing that particularly impresses me is the chairmen's reports of enthusiastic response from the men and women who are asked to serve on the many front-line teams being set up throughout the city. That definitely indicates what a very warm place the Salvation Army occupies in the hearts of Newton people. Of course, that's understandable. The 'Army' does an amazing amount of good with every dollar donated, and doesn't waste a penny on needless expense. And it goes about its work earnestly, quietly and efficiently, bringing emergency relief without delay or red tape to families desperately in need of assistance. Since at least twenty per cent of Newton's quota will remain here to help our own unfortunates, I'm convinced Newton's good-neighbor spirit will manifest itself, as it always has, in a generous outpouring of contributions to this very worthy cause."

Besides Kenneth E. Prior, as General Chairman, the Newton Executive Committee includes the following: Mrs. Edward G. Huber, Overall Residential Chairman, assisted by Mrs. Philip S. Jamieson and Mrs. David Black, Vice-Chairmen; William M. Cahill, Treasurer; Archie R. Whitman, Special Gifts Chairman; Edmund T. Dungan, Municipal Chairman; E. F. Haberstroh, Publicity Chair-

To Become a Franciscan Sister

—o—

Miss Arlene Ann O'Reilly, daughter of Mr and Mrs. Raymond A. O'Reilly of 19 Gambier street, Auburndale, was recently honored at a garden party at the home of her cousins, Miss Jacqueline F. Percy and Mrs. Dinah Maher, 34 Curtis street, Waltham, which was attended by 75 friends and relatives.

Miss O'Reilly will leave September 7 for Garrison, New York, where she will enter the order of the Franciscan Sisters of the Atonement at Graymoor.

Investigation Results Revealed

Needs Do Not Justify Establishment Of P.O. There Now, or In The Future

Word has been received from Washington that following an investigation of the needs for the establishment of a post-office in the Nonantum section of the city, that "due to the usual number of other postal units already established in this area, they do not justify the establishment of an individual post office" in Nonantum "at this time or any other time."

This matter has been under consideration for many months and was brought about by citizens of that area who felt a branch post-office should be established in Nonantum.

Reasons given for the refusal to consider a Nonantum post-office was that Contract Branch, No. 157, of the Boston post-office is located one block from the Nonantum business area or center, and is open for the transaction of postal business daily, including Saturdays, from 8 a. m. to 6 p. m. and that the Newton branch of the post-office is less than one mile southeast of Branch 157; the Newtonville branch is less than one mile to the southwest, and the Watertown branch is only one mile away to the northeast.

Further reasons given, according to Gordon L. Hawes, who received word of the decision of the postal authorities from Congressman John W. McCormack, are that "Newton is a peculiar city in that there is not a large business center in the community such as is found in cities of similar size. The population is spread over the city in a large number of small communities, one of which in Nonantum. Because of the unusual conditions, ten classified branches and one contract branch have been established to serve Newton, a disproportionate number of postal units in a city this size."

Further the inspector making the investigation "claims that if a postoffice were established at Nonantum, efficiency would require that it be only a financial unit, no transfer of carriers would be involved, and such carriers would continue to work out of the Newton Branch" and that "due to the salary increases it is believed that it would cost well over $8,000 annually to establish an individual post-office."

After consideration of this report made by the inspector who inquired at the Newton Branch and Contract Branch No. 157, and did not quiz the individual patrons in Nonantum, the Post-office department is of the opinion that the present contract branch at Nonantum is adequate to meet the needs of the public, regardless of the public protest that it was not adequate.

The investigating report further concludes "that the reasons furnished by the patrons for the establishment of an individual post office are considered insufficient, regardless how many petitions are sent asking for one" and "that the needs of the area should not warrant the expense of such a unit, and the usual number of other postal units already established in this area do not justify the establishment of an individual post-office like the ones at Newtonville, West Newton, and Newton at this time or any other time."

No Drastic Curtailment

Says Enough Materials Should Be Available for Building Construction

Roy S. Edwards, well known local building materials dealer and member of the Public Affairs Committee of the National Retail Lumber Dealers' Association, is of the opinion that "the defense production program now under way will not require any such drastic curtailment of home building and other civilian construction as was put into effect during World War II." Continuing he said:

"Although the supply of steel, copper, lumber, and other stratetic materials used in housing and other building will be lower than in the last few years, because of the allocations program, there should be enough of all materials to permit a considerable amount of private construction, including repair and modernization work, unless defense production is stepped considerably beyond the levels now being contemplated in Washington.

"The latest information indicates that the partial war mobilization program now under way will require construction of relatively few large war plants and far fewer barracks and war housing developments than were put up during the second World War, because most of these facilities remain available for use in this emergency. Thus, the demand for building materials for defense purposes promises to be considerably less than it was then.

"The government is endeavoring to hold down construction of homes and other new buildings through tightening of mortgage

Safety Patrol Members Go To Ball Game

—o—

Over 250 children attended the second School Safety Patrol get-together Saturday by attending the Boston Red Sox and Washington Senators game held at Fenway Park. This affair was given by Chief Philip Purcell in recognition of the time spent by the Safety Patrol during the school season in assisting the Police and the other children at school crossings.

Notices were sent to all the members of the patrol by Frank Simmons, Supervisor of Physical Education and Safety of the public schools of Newton, and his assistant Warren Huston notifying them of the game which were arranged by the management of Fenway Park. The children meet at city hall at 12:30 p. m., where Deputy Chief Patrick King,

Urge Pet Owners Care for Animals

—o—

An appeal to vacationing pet owners not to neglect their animals was made by Carlton E. Buttrick, President of the Animal Rescue League of Boston. Mr. Buttrick urged that those people who have taken a pet with them to their summer homes or who have acquired a pet during the vacation period make arrangements far enough in advance so that the animal will not be left behind when the summer home is closed.

Suspend All Tonsil Operations

Tonsillectomies were suspended at the Newton-Wellesley Hospital due to the three new cases of polio reported in Newton. The new cases bring to five the total number of cases in Newton so far this year, according to a report distributed to local physicians by City Health Officer Dr. Ernest W. Morris. None of the new cases was paralytic. One of them showed some muscular weakness. There is no reason to fear epidemic, since the three cases are widely scattered, one in West Newton, one in Newton, and the other in Newton Centre.

Head Fire Lieut. Civil Service List for Promotion

—o—

The names of two Newton men and a Watertown man appeared as the first three on the Civil Service list for promotion to the rank of lieutenant in the Newton Fire Department.

Out of 38 men examined, 24 were named eligible for promotion, and two vacancies exist in the ranks of lieutenant.

The three top men are: Edward J. McDade, 10 Indiana court, Newton Upper Falls; Raymond F. Hodgdon, 77 Waltham street, West Newton; and Louis A. Colella, 264 Warren street, Watertown.

"Star" By Name; A Star By Deeds

Recently a ten-month Golden Retriever pup called "Star", swam to the aid of a panicky swimmer at Chatham Bars Inn Beach. A fifteen-year-old girl over-estimated her swimming ability, and becoming frightened called, "Help, Help, Help me!"

"Star" shot out from the shore and swam directly to her whereupon the girl caught hold of "Star's" neck. The lifeguard arrived a moment later to take over the situation, and he later said the girl, who was a poor swimmer and didn't realize the depth of the water, had the dog to thank for her life for had he not answered her call so promptly she would have gone under.

Not letting such a heroic episode deter him in the least, "Star", who belongs to Kathie Cantor of Waban, competed in the Coonamessett Dog Show and won first prize in the Puppy Class.

Warns Citizens About Solicitors

—o—

Maxwell P. Gaddis, Chairman of Newton Chapter, American Red Cross stated today, ". . . . that the Red Cross has no part in any telephone solicitation of people asking for money for disabled veterans of Newton. It has come to our attention that representation has been made in soliciting that the Newton Red Cross would get a percent of funds so collected. We wish to warn the public that this is not a fact. The Newton Red Cross makes no solicitation for funds other than their drive in March."

Mr. Gaddis asks anyone who receives such a call to secure the name and place from which the call is made and report such information to Newton Red Cross at LA 7-6000.

"Unbelievably Brazen"

Democratic Action Called Unprecedented Maneuver

Characterizing as "unbelievably brazen" the Democratic action in forcing through the House of Representatives last Saturday night just before prorogation, legislation which permits the Commissioner of Public Works to have sole authority over the leasing of facilities to be erected on limited access highways in Massachusetts, Representatives Howard Whitmore, Jr., this week issued a statement assailing the tactics of the Democratic party. He stated:

"During the session of the General Court which has just ended, I have been amazed at some of the legislation which has been pushed through by the Democratic majority in the House. Some of this unsound and irresponsible legislation was killed in the Senate where the membership was equally divided between the two parties. Last Saturday night, however, just a few hours before prorogation, the Democratic leadership in an unbelievably brazen action, forced through the House legislation which violates the fundamental and cardinal principles of awarding contracts and leases.

"The legislation which was en-

Kiwanians Vote To Aid Youth

—o—

The Newton Kiwanis Club has voted to stand behind 16 year-old Werner Fahrenhold in his efforts to get into a neighboring country and then legally re-enter this country. Harold T. Pilsbury, past president and chairman of public affairs, urged the members at a meeting last week to send telegrams to Rep. Christian A. Herter, Massachusetts congressman, and any other people of influence who might be able to aid Werner's cause.

Newton Ranks Second In Building

The Massachusetts Division of Statistics announced that, of the 146 cities and towns reporting to the Department of Labor and Industries, Newton was second, with Boston first, in the total cost of construction planned during the first half of 1950.

Boston's total was $21,933,827; Newton's total was $6,243,045; third place was Worcester with $6,220,709.

In new residential construction planned, Newton was third in the state with a total of $4,056,400, compared to $10,079,150 in Boston and $4,299,950 in Worcester. In non-residential construction, Newton was third to Boston and Cambridge with a total of $1,740,629. Boston's non-residential total was $5,931,085 and in Cambridge it was $2,247,082.

Miss Ellen Theresa Logue Weds Lt. Alexander Tedesco

Last Sunday afternoon at 3 o'clock in St. Thomas Aquinas Church, Jamaica Plain, Rev. Wm. Keenan officiated at the double ring ceremony which united Lt. Alexander N. Tedesco, son of Mr. and Mrs. Alexander Tedesco of 249 Auburn street, Auburndale, and Miss Ellen Theresa Logue, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Edward Logue of 149 South street, Jamaica Plain, in marriage.

After a wedding trip to the South, Lt. and Mrs. Tedesco plan to reside at Fort Eustis, Va., where Lt. Tedesco has been assigned by the U. S. Army.

acted gives to the Commissioner of Public Works sole power and authority over the selection of sites and the leasing of all facilities to be constructed on the limited access highways in Massachusetts. Under the provisions of the act, only gas stations, eating places and comfort stations may be erected on State owned land on either side of these highways. When the bill was passed to be engrossed some few months ago, an amendment was adopted providing that the leases for these facilities be awarded to the highest responsible bidder and that there should be public bids. This procedure is basic in the laws which the General Court passes and is considered necessary in cities and towns as well as in the Commonwealth. In its final action in the enactment stage, the amendment previously adopted was stricken from the bill.

"There can be only one answer to such unprecedented and unscrupulous action which will involve hundreds of thousands of dollars, if not more. It is another in a long series of maneuvers to perpetuate the Democrats in power and to provide the sinews of war for the coming campaign. Regardless of party affiliation, the voters of the Commonwealth must repudiate those who sponsor and promote such political grabs if they are to enjoy honest and responsible government in Massachusetts."

Roger Cohen, son of Dr. and Mrs. Sidney Slater Cohen of Montvale road, Newton Centre, entered his third year at Camp Zakelo, Harrison, Maine, where he won distinction in the out-of-camp rifle matches with a high score; played on the first baseball team as pitcher and left fielder, also in out of camp games; earned a place on the camp newspaper, the Zakelog; passed his novice canoe tests to enable him to go on the real camping trip to the Saco River and the Legendary Frye's Leap on Lake Sebago; enjoyed aqua-planing after passing severe tests on the camp's Chriscraft; won his tennis matches; took the sightseeing trip to Boaes and Bowdoin College and the boat ride to historic Monhegan Island; entered his pictures in the photography contests in the especially outfitted photography shop; was a swim meet winner in out of camp meets. While younger brother Richard won his marksman first class; yeoman archery badge; and junior bowman recognition; received the highest honors in his division honor brave and mugwump of the Pow Tribe; passed his 880 yd. swim test; is paper boy on the Zakelog camp newspaper weekly; did well in photography, and printed a gift for his mother.

The children were under the supervision of Mrs. Alice J. Akerman, Mrs. Alberta S. Morrison, Mrs. Caroline M. Blake and Mrs. Ann Maxcey members of the Newton Police Auxiliary Safety Patrol.

The children enjoyed themselves at the game and were returned by bus to city hall where they were met by members of their family.

The busses were donated for the trip by the Newton Rotary Club, Bonner Foundry Co., and Norman Moore, a member of the Newton Lodge of Elks.

Dorothy Steele Pettengill Weds Wadsworth Webber

The marriage of Miss Dorothy Steele Pettengill, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Heman Judson Pettengill of Waban and Falmouth, to Mr. Wadsworth Huntington Webber, Jr., son of Mr. and Mrs. W. H. Webber, also of Waban, took place last Saturday afternoon in the First Congregational Church in Falmouth.

Mrs. Robert J. Wagner of Cleveland, Ohio, was matron of honor for her sister. The bridesmaids were Mrs. George B. Pettengill of Zanesville, Ohio, sister-in-law of the bride, and Miss Pamela Webber, sister of the groom. Mr. George B. Pettengill of Zanesville, Ohio, brother of the bride, was best man. The ushers were Mr. Richard Wells of Waban, Mr. David Holdridge of Cosaxie, New York, Mr. George Seifert of Brooklyn, New York, and Mr. Lester Moses of Harrisville, Pennsylvania.

Mrs. Webber was given away by her father and wore a Swiss organdy gown over taffeta having off-the-shoulder neckline with a deep bertha of rosepoint lace from her mother's wedding gown. The gown had a fitted bodice with a full skirt and short train. Her finger-tip veil was caught to a cap of rosepoint lace and orange blossoms. She carried an old-fashioned bouquet of white roses.

The matron of honor wore a gown of yellow organdy over matching taffeta with off-the-shoulder neckline and pleated organdy bertha. She carried a bouquet of mixed garden flowers and wore a hair-band of matching flowers. The bridesmaids wore gowns similar to that of the matron of honor, one in blue and the other in pink, with flowers in their hair and bouquets like those of the honor attendant.

The bride's mother wore a dusty rose chiffon gown with a hat of matching rose and violet, and a corsage of violet gladiolus The bridegroom's mother wore a navy blue chiffon gown with a matching hat and a corsage of coral gladiolus.

A garden reception followed the ceremony at Hillside, summer home of the bride's grandmother, Mr. Frederick Steele Blackall, Sr., in Falmouth.

After a wedding trip to Lake Winnepesaukee, New Hampshire, Mr. and Mrs. Webber will live in Yellow Springs, Ohio, where Mr. Webber is attending Antioch College. Mrs. Webber was graduated from Tenacre and Dana Hall Schools in Wellesley, and has just finished her junior year at Mount Holyoke College

Candlelight Service Held At Holman-Smith Nuptials

With candles lighting the Newton Highlands Congregational Church last Saturday evening, Miss Inez Holman of 72 Clyde street, Newtonville, daughter of the late Mr. and Mrs. J. H. Holman, became the bride of Delwin Frank Smith, son of Mr. and Mrs. G. Frank Smith of 228 Mill street, Newtonville.

A fitted bodice with long pointed sleeves formed the upper portion of the bride's white embroidered organdy gown. The full skirt terminated in a full train, and in the front, panels were raised to show ruffles at the hemline. Her fitted cap was fashioned of embroidered organdy flowers and pearls. To it was caught her fingertip veil of French illusion, and she carried a bouquet of white glamelias.

G. Harrison Holman gave his sister in marriage before an altar decorated with white gladioli. The double ring ceremony was performed by Dr. Robert Wood Coe of Brookline.

Mrs. Frank Barbour of Cochituate, sister of Miss Holman, was the matron of honor, and the bridesmaids were Mrs. Mark McKay of Newton Centre and Miss Margaret Morrison of Brighton.

The three attendants were gowned alike in pink marquisette, with which they carried blue delphinium and pink carnations combined in colonial bouquets. Their matching pink hats were designed like that of the bride.

Mr. Smith served his son as best man. The ushers were William J. Oakes, Jr., of San Diego, Calif., brother-in-law of the bridegroom; Douglas Holman of Natick, the bride's brother; Frank Ogilvie of Newtonville, and Mark McKay of Newton Centre.

Rev. Dr. Herbert J. Gezork Elected President of the Newton Andover Theological School

The Rev. Dr. Herbert Johannes Gezork, Ph.D., D.D., associated with the 143-year-old Andover Newton Theological School since 1939 and a native of Germany, will become president of the institution September 1, it was announced by Mr. Howard W. Cole of Beverly, a layman who is president of the board of trustees of Newton Theological Institution and chairman of the nominating committee to select a new president.

Dr. Gezork will succeed the Rev. Dr. Harold W. Tribble who has accepted the presidency of the Wake Forest College at Wake Forest, North Carolina.

Formal induction ceremonies for the new president will be held in a few months.

The two historic seminaries, the Newton Theological Institution and the Andover Theological School, oldest Baptist and Congregational respectively in the United States, have been affiliated since 1931 to form the Andover Newton Theological School.

The nominating committee was composed of members of the boards of trustees of both Andover Theological Seminary and the Newton Theological Institution.

Members of the nominating committee comprised, in addition to Mr. Cole as chairman, Atty. Jay B. Angevine of Belmont; the Rev. Dr. Morrison R. Boynton, pastor of the First Church Congregational, Newton Centre; the Rev. Dr. Vaughan Dabney, dean of the school; the Rev. Everett C. Herrick, formerly president of the school; the Rev. Dr. Isaac Higginbotham, general secretary of the Massachusetts Baptist Convention; Dr. Alton L. Miller (a layman) of Wellesley; Walter L. VanKleeck of Brookline; the Rev. Roy M. Pearson of the Lexington Congregational Church; Dr. J. Edgar Park, formerly president of Wheaton College at Norton, Mass.; and Blake Johnson of Boston, treasurer of the school.

Dr. Gezork has been teaching at Andover Newton since 1939 as the professor of Christian Sociology and World Relations on the Helen Barrett Montgomery Foundation. During this period he has been a stated lecturer on Social Ethics at Wellesley College. He received his honorary degree of doctor of divinity from Colby College in 1941.

Born and educated in Germany, he graduated from the University of Berlin and the Baptist Theological Seminary in Hamburg. He was an exchange student to America from 1926 to 1930 and during this period received the doctor of philosophy degree from the Southern Baptist Seminary in Louisville, Ky., his dissertation being on the subject "Christianity and Communism."

Returning to Germany, he became general secretary of the German Baptist Youth Movement until it was dissolved under the Hitler government. He traveled and lectured in most European countries and wrote two books in German, both of which were banned by the Nazi government.

In 1936, he came to this country as a voluntary exile, becoming an American citizen in 1943.

Dr. Gezork is now in Germany at the request of the U. S. State Department on a three months' mission, where he is making a study of the teaching of social ethics at state universities. He will return toward the end of September to assume his new duties at Andover Newton. This is the third mission of Dr. Gezork to Europe since the close of the last war. In 1945 he was under assignment of the war department studying the effects of the war on the civilian population in Germany. In 1946 he accepted another appointment of the war department and spent 16 months as chief of the Protestant Affairs section in the U. S. Military Government for Germany.

Dr. Gezork is known across the country as a forceful and eloquent speaker, for his vigorous personality and gracious spirit. He is in great demand for conferences and conventions, particularly with youth groups.

Mrs. Gezork is the former Ellen Markus, also born and educated in Germany. They were married in this country and have four children, Peter, 11; Thomas, 10; James, 8; and Janet, 4.

Collection Of Taxes Fall Off

Collections of taxes in Newton for the first seven months of the year fell far behind the amount collected in 1949, according to the comparative cash receipts and expenditure statement issued by Collector Archie R. Whitman. The slowness of collections resulted from the delay of tax bills as a result of the increase of precincts from 26 to 30 this year, Mr. Whitman announced.

A total of $341,036 was paid in real estate taxes through July 31, compared to $1,112,903 through July, 1949. However, collections from motor vehicle excise taxes and water charges this year exceeded those in 1949, as $346,213 was collected by the Water Department, compared to $281,095 last year, and $423,575 was paid by motorists, compared with $377,968 in the corresponding seven months of last year.

Newton's share of the corporation tax received from the Commonwealth of Massachusetts this year totaled $63,923, compared to $462,757 last year. The city's share in the income tax this year totaled $79,757, while the 1949 total was $72,437.

The increase in the number of precincts caused changes in the addresses of a large number of taxpayers, requiring new I.B.M. cards to be punched. This procedure delayed the mailing of tax bills by over a month, with the final bills being mailed out during the past week.

Put Them Away

Too long, in our opinion, have those with Communistic tendencies and leanings, been allowed to get away literally, with murder, in this country. They have made no pretense of loyalty, they have no intention of adopting it.

Yet under the guise of free-speech, they have been permitted to preach their subsersive ideology.

We believe in free speech, be believe in the right of discussion, we believe in the right of others to express their opinions but not when that freedom of speech is used for the purpose of undermining our system of democracy, not when it is used to instill into minds weaker than their own the theory of a foreign power, not when they use our halls, yes even our police protection, to carry on their subversive activities.

We concur most heartily with Bill Cunningham when he recently stated, "We don't even put them in jail."

We might add, ship them back to the country they profess to love so well.

Current Comment

Legislature Passed Most of Dever's Bills . . . Dever's Two Opponents Ruled Off Ballot . . . Wallace Misled by "Progressive" Communists . . .

The record of this Legislature which finally concluded its deliberations and prorogued after a session of near-record length, merited neither the glowing Democratic praise or the bitter Republican criticism which it received.

It took some sound steps and others that weren't so sound, and it demonstrated a heavy handed generosity in granting raises to high State officials and in spending the people's money generally.

But while the legislative record undoubtedly will be one of the big issues of the fall campaign, it should not be overlooked that the Republicans and Democrats were evenly divided in the State Senate and that the G.O.P. had the strength to block any unsound measure in the upper chamber if its members stood together.

Governor Dever was reasonably successful in persuading the Legislature to follow his leadership and do his bidding. For each of his proposals that were killed in the Legislature about four others were adopted, a rather remarkable record in view of the makeup of the Senate.

He was blocked in his attempts to enlarge the State division of necessaries of life to launch a $150,000 probe of electric light and power rates and to increase the State's minimum wage from 65 to 75 cents an hour.

But the Governor had his way on by far a majority of the matters acted upon by the Legislature, and to a very substantial degree its record reflects the policies of his administration.

A second $100,000,000 bond issue for the improvement of highways throughout Massachusetts was authorized. The 10 per cent tax on cigars and tobacco was repealed. A civilian defense organization was set up.

The abandoned property tax bill was approved as was a program for reconditioning State hospitals. The old age assistance law was liberalized. Bills were enacted providing for the establishment of State clinics for the treatment of tubercular patients and chronic alcoholics.

The main criticism that will be directed against this Legislature will be that it spent and authorized the spending of too much money, and that undoubtedly will be the keynote of the Republican campaign this autumn.

It is little short of astonishing that a Legislature which in a period of two years voted two $100,000,000 bond issues for highway purposes throughout the State balked at allowing Boston to undertake another $5,000,000 off-street parking program particularly since there was good reason to believe that program would be self-supporting.

There was more than met the eye to the defeat of that bill in the upper chamber. As Senator Charles J. Innes of the Back Bay declared, the action was "mysterious." It was a mystery that some of the Senators who voted against the off-street parking bill probably will be called upon to explain when they stand for renomination and reelection.

Governor Dever Unopposed in Primary

Governor Dever rid himself of a minor annoyance and nuisance when his two prospective primary adversaries were thrown off the ballot the other day, leaving him unopposed for renomination.

He also prevented a so-called "anti-vote" which Republican strategists would have been quick to seize upon for propaganda purposes in the fall campaign.

Mr. Dever, of course, was assured of renomination even before the two politically unknown gents who had filed nomination signatures as candidates against him were given the heave-ho by the State Ballot Law Commission.

But if they had remained in the contest they would have polled some votes, not because they possessed any strength in their own right but because Mr. Dever in one way or another has displeased some members of his own party.

It's impossible for any man, Democrat or Republican, to satisfy all the members of his party while serving as Governor. Mr. Dever hasn't done so, and neither did Robert F. Bradford, Maurice J. Tobin or Leverett Saltonstall before him. It just can't be done.

While the primary vote against Mr. Dever would not have had too much political significance, his opponents would have pictured it as a sign of weakness in his own political party.

That was what Dever's strategy-planners obviously had in mind when they moved against his two primary opponents. The Republican high command unquestionably is disappointed that the Governor is without primary opposition, and Mr. Dever himself is in a somewhat better position for the battle ahead.

Reds Dominated Progressive Convention

Henry A. Wallace must be a difficult man to convince if he really means his recent statement that he could not positively say that any member of the Progressive Party, to which he was so long attached, is a Communist.

To newspaper observers who covered the convention of the Progressive Party at Philadelphia in August, 1948, when Wallace was nominated as the Presidential candidate of the so-called liberals, free-thinkers, pinks, reds and fellow travelers, it was obvious that the Communists not only were well spread throughout the party but that actually they were running things.

If Wallace was really so gullible and had so much dew in his eyes that he didn't recognize that, it's a good thing he is back on the farm experimenting in the raising of chickens and strawberries.

Some of the delegates who swarmed into Philadelphia's convention hall and Shibe Park were misguided zealots who meant it when they said they wanted no truck with the Communists. But Wallace was a professional politician who had served as a cabinet member, as Vice President, who aspired to be President and who certainly should have known what it was all about if he didn't.

A memory of that convention which stands out in our minds was an event which occurred on the last day of the proceedings. It was a hot, steaming Sunday afternoon. The main business of the conclave had been transacted, and the delegates were gradually straggling away, headed back to their home communities.

Most of the resolutions introduced had a strong Soviet tinge until three members from Vermont arose and asked the gathering to adopt an order and go on record as stating that nothing done or said at the convention was to be construed as meaning that they were siding with Soviet Russia against the United States.

Well, you would have thought that they made about the most outrageous and preposterous proposal imaginable. They were hooted and howled down. The indignation aroused by that suggestion was tremendous, and the resolution was overwhelmingly rejected, with the three sponsors slinking back to their seats in red-faced embarrassment.

That was enough to indicate to most observers the tinge and tone of the Progressive Party, though there was also other evidence in abundance that the Communists were pulling the strings from behind the scenes. It took Mr. Wallace a long time to decide where his sympathies rested.

About 100 parents and friends watched the annual play day last week at the Upper Falls Playground, in which 200 children from that playground and the Emerson playground took part in activities starting at 2:15 and lasting a good part of the afternoon. The feature event of the day was a pie-eating contest, in which both boys and girls competed, but which was won by one of the latter, Ann Byrne. Second went to Thomas Murphy. Prizes were awarded by C. Evan Johnson, Recreation Commissioner of Newton.

The list of those who received awards follows:

In the bicycle race for boys, Fred Lewis won top honors, with Alan Hutchinson, second, and Thomas Lynch, third. A similar event for girls, ages 10 years and under, found Bonnie Murphy, first; Sandra D'Angelo, second, and Blanche Feeley, third.

A series of dashes for boys and girls in different age divisions resulted as follows, in order of placement: Age 10 and under, boys, Richard Murphy, Robert Burns, and Alfred Calanan; girls, Ann Byrne, Ada Babson, and Carol Quinn; Age 12 and under, boys, Thomas Lynch, David Brahms, and Richard Gattiker; girls, Mary Springham, Margaret Kerivan, and Janet DeMichele.

Fred Lewis and Thomas Lynch combined appendages to win the three-legged race for boys. Runners-up were Thomas Murphy and Paul Brahms, second, and Paul Ravinski and Edward Roach, third.

In the same event for girls, Barbara MacDonald and Mary Beth Ryan came in first, with Margaret Kerivan and Katherine Marino, second, and Joanne Murphy and Carol Griffin, third.

A "coke" race was won by Thomas McClellan with Richard Lempitsky, second, in the boys' competition. Among the girls, Ada Babson came in first, followed by Blanche Williams, second.

Adding a touch of color to the scene was a balloon race for girls, which resulted in a first prize for Margaret Kerivan, with Carol Griffin, and Ada Babson, second and third, respectively.

Girls had a chance to demonstrate their prowess with a baseball in a competitive throw for distance. Star pitcher in the junior division was Margaret Kerivan, with Joanne Murphy, second.

In the senior division, winners were Mary Falvey, first, and Mary Springham, second.

The boys were judged on the basis of accuracy in their baseball throwing. Thomas McClellan was first, Michael Vassalotti, second, and Fred Lewis, third.

An exhibition of articles made in the woodworking and handcraft classes attracted many of the spectators. The woodworking division was not limited to boys alone, as special awards were made to several girls who demonstrated equal skill.

From the Upper Falls group, Stephen Lempitsky was awarded first prize for his project, with Marjorie Freeman and Robert E. Sonier, second and third, respectively. Special mention was made to Margaret Kerivan and Betty Anne Passarini.

Of the Emerson Playground woodwork entries, the work of Theodore Williams, won first prize, Thomas Lynch was second and Richard Murphy, third.

Judges awarded prizes in the girls' handwork exhibition to the following: Upper Falls Playground, Marjorie Freeman, first; Katherine Marino, second, and Jane Hartwick, third.

The outstanding Emerson entries, in order of placement, were Alice Roach, Jean Precious and Ann Anzivino.

Top positions in the bicycle race were taken by Fred Lewis, Alan Hutchinson, and Thomas Lynch. Bonnie Murphy won the race for girls, ages 10 and under, followed by Sandra D'Angelo and Blanche Feeley.

In charge of the play day were the following instructors: Ross Humphrey, Edward Foley, Patricia Kellner, and Elaine Vassalotti, Upper Falls, and from the Emerson Playground, Beverly Boardman and William Kingston.

They were assisted by the supervisors, John Donahue and Nicholas Tedesco, and instructors, Guy Baker and Catherine E. Harney. Also present was John B. Dacey, district supervisor.

Twenty-one year old Marjorie Jennings, who, in falling from a load of hay in 1946, suffered a crippling spinal cord injury, is now president of the group for physically handicapped people in Framingham and surrounding towns, and she announces the opening meeting of the Fall season, to be held Saturday, September 9 at 7:45 p. m. in the ground floor hall of the community building, formerly known as Pilgrim Church, on Route 27 in Sherborn.

The group have held regular bi-monthly meetings at the Jennings home for those of the rug hooking class to enable them to proceed with work started in June. New activities will be taught with the opening of these regular meetings. Dues are $1 annually. Mrs. Allen Edson is in charge of the entertainment, which will follow a short business meeting and welcome to new members. These evenings close after refreshments are served by the Sherborn Grange Home and Community Service committee, sponsors of the group.

Any one knowing of any person with a physical disability, is asked to urge them to join this group or contact either Mrs. Allen Edson, Main street, or Mrs. Thomas Jennings, Farm road, both of Sherborn.

To Broadcast Big Ten Football at Movie Theatres

The Big Ten Conference has approved a combination program whereby its member institutions may make their 1950 football games available via large screen theatre television and at the same time guarantee that the post game films of the games will be aired locally by regular television broadcasts, Conference Commissioner Kenneth L. (Tug) Wilson has announced.

The announcement was made at Big Ten Headquarters, Chicago, and United Paramount representatives were present including Robert H. O'Brien of New York City, Secretary-Treasurer of United Paramount Theatres, Inc. In pointing out the advantages to be developed through theatre televisions, O'Brien said it was his opinion that theatre television strikes a middle ground between live television and no television and that it might well prove satisfactory to all concerned.

Letters

Editor, Newton Graphic:

I wish to state emphatically that I have not endorsed nor will I endorse any other candidate for the Republican nomination for Representative in the Fifth Middlesex District. Several weeks ago I made my position of independence in the contest unmistakably clear to each of the other candidates. I wish to assure each and all of them, as well as the voters of the District that I shall maintain this independent position. Any statement or implication to the contrary is without my sanction or consent."

Committee Meets To Outline Plans

—o—

An enthusiastic and largely attended meeting was held at the home of Ernest Angevine, Prince street, West Newton, Tuesday evening for completing organization plans of General Needham's candidacy for the Republican nomination for Governor in the coming primaries.

The aim and spirit of the meeting was to get out 90 per cent of Republican voters of Newton and have 90 per cent of them for Dan Needham.

With representatives from all parts of the city present, a central committee was organized with C. R. Cabot as general chairman and Kenneth E. Prior and Arthur G. Healey as associate chairmen.

The Ward Committee will have as chairmen and co-chairmen, the following: Ward 1, C. Frederick McGill and Mrs. Frank Lombardi. Ward 2, Carl Brock and Harold L. Stillman. Ward 3, Ralph Tabor and Courtney S. Bird. Ward 4, Harry Ham. Ward 5, Richard Feakes. Ward 6, Parker Pond. Ward 7, Philip S. Jamieson.

Publicity for release to voters was approved with every effort made to bring home to the Republican voters of Newton the opportunity and necessity of nominating Daniel Needham the Republican candidate for Governor and as the one available who can and will defeat the present incumbent.

Services Held for William A. Leighton, Burr School Head

William A. Leighton, 67, of 23 Williston road, Auburndale, dean of Newton school principals, died Sunday at the Newton-Wellesley Hospital. He had been principal of the C. C. Burr district in Auburndale for 34 years.

Born in Lawrence, he was a graduate of Lawrence High School and Colorado College. He taught at a private school in Hartford, Ct., for a year, then taught for a year each at the Waban School for Boys and the New England College of Languages.

He became sub-master at North Attleboro High School in 1907, where he taught for four years. He taught Latin at Fitchburg High School from 1911 to 1915.

He was principal of the Academy school district of Fitchburg for a year and then became principal of C. C. Burr district here in 1916. He held that position until his death.

Mr. Leighton was a life member of Bethesda Lodge of Masons, Brighton.

He leaves his wife, Mrs. Clara (Lincoln) Leighton; a son, William Jr., of Winchester; two daughters, Mrs. Tillson Thomas, principal of the Dover, Foxcroft School, Maine, and Mrs. Bernard Carr of Auburndale, and seven grandchildren.

Funeral services were held at the Newton cemetery chapel Tuesday at 1 o'clock.

DACEY—A solemn high mass of requiem for Miss Catherine F. Dacey, age 101, was celebrated Monday morning at 9 o'clock in the Sacred Heart Church, Newton. Miss Dacey died suddenly last Thursday night at her home, 92 Langley road, Newton Centre.

Born in County Cork, Ireland, she came to this country at the age of four on a sailing vessel which required three months to make the passage. She remembered the early days of the Civil War in Boston, one of her most vivid recollections being the long lines of Confederate soldiers marching through the streets to prisons in Boston Harbor.

Miss Dacey spent most of her adult life in Arlington until the last few years when she made her home with her niece, Mary R. Connelly of Newton. She leaves several nieces and nephews.

Interment was in Calvary Cemetery, Waltham.

PETERSON—Mrs. Ellen E. (Carlson) Peterson, wife of John L. Peterson of 15 Ricker terrace, Newton, passed away Wednesday, August 16.

Funeral services were held at the Berglund Funeral Home, 292 Massachusetts avenue, Arlington, last Friday afternoon at 1 o'clock.

Mrs. Peterson was a late member of Einar Lodge, I.O.V., and Sofia Lodge, V. O.

McCARTHY—Helen G. McCarthy, daughter of the late Michael and Sarah A. (Conley) McCarthy and sister of Mary M., Catherine C., Elizabeth A., S. Theresa and M. Bernard McCarthy, died Tuesday, August 15, at her home.

Funeral services were held from her late home, 20 Auburndale avenue, last Friday morning with a High Mass of Requiem at St. Bernard's Church at 10 o'clock.

CORBETT—Linda Allen Corbett, 7-day-old daughter of Edward J. and Ardrith A. (Cossaboom) Corbett, 20 Westview terrace, West Newton, died late last Thursday. Burial services were conducted by Rev. Robert Brennan, of St. Bernard's Parish, West Newton, Saturday. Interment was at the Newton Cemetery.

The baby is survived, besides her parents, by her grandmother, Mrs. Charles O. Cossaboom, 20 Westview terrace; two aunts, Evelyn E. and Irene R. Cossaboom, of the same address, and an uncle, Charles B. Cossaboom, of Farrington road, West Newton.

Services were held last Saturday afternoon at 3 o'clock at the Newton Cemetery Chapel.

Mr. Ellis is survived by his wife, Mrs. Olive (Blake) Ellis, and a daughter, Mrs. Phyllis E. Whitehead.

MULHALL—Funeral services for William Appia Mulhall, who died in New York City Wednesday, August 16, were held from 101 Union street, Newton Centre last Saturday morning, with a Requiem Mass at the Sacred Heart Church at 9 o'clock.

He is survived by his wife, Mrs. Hortense (deCoen) Mulhall.

WARNER—Services for Ernest P. Warner Sr., 57, of 563 North avenue, Weston, organizing extension instructor in the Division of University Extension, State Department of Education, were held Monday afternoon at 2 o'clock.

Mr. Warner, who was born in Newton, lived in Needham Heights before moving to Weston two years ago. He is survived by his wife, Mrs. Helen (Harrington) Warner; a son, Ernest P. Warner Jr., of Watertown; two daughters, Mrs. Paul McManus and Miss Irene Warner of Needham Heights; four grandchildren; three brothers, Charles Warner of Hopkinton, John Warner of Worcester and Joseph Warner of Watertown, and a sister, Mrs. Mary Perry, Norwood.

Burial was in Linwood Cemetery, Weston.

Funeral services will be held from the Martin E. Conroy Funeral Home, 439 Washington street, Newton, Friday, with a Solemn High Mass in the Church of Our Lady at 9 a.m.

WHITE—Funeral services for Miss Elisabeth White, sister of William L. White of 30 Pelham street, Newton Centre, who died last Saturday, were held at the Rich & Bellinger Chapel, 30 Centre avenue, Newton, Tuesday afternoon at 2 o'clock.

Named to Lesley College Staff

—o—

President Trentwell Mason White has announced the appointment of Miss Roberta C. Brennan of Auburndale to the Lesley College staff. Miss Brennan, who will head Lesley's physical education department, is a graduate of Boston University and for the past three years has been physical education instructor for girls in the public schools of Attleboro.

2 Waltham Men Injured In Car Crash

—o—

Paul Cormier and Edward White, both of Waltham, were taken to the Newton-Wellesley Hospital by Patrolman J. Bell in the police ambulance, after their car went over the curb and hit a post on Route 128 after having made the turn from the Worcester Turnpike. Cormier suffered a laceration over his right eye, and White had a cut lip and broken tooth.

According to a report, Cormier, the operator of the vehicle, tried to light a cigarette as he was making the turn, losing control of the car.

Boy Scouts Relate Trip to Jamboree

—o—

Monday was Boy Scout day at the Rotary Club meeting. The principal speakers were two boys, George Higgins, and Arthur Veinott, Jr., who, as members of the Norumbega Council Boy Scouts attended the National Boy Scout Jamboree at Valley Forge, Penn.

Before the boys spoke, Jack Starkweather told of the importance of the Boy Scout movement, and said that Norumbega Council handles Boy Scout activities for Newton, Wellesley, and Weston, with 3,000 Cubs, Scouts, and Explorers, 950 adult leaders, and 3 full-time executives.

Leigh Nesbit, Norumbega Council Executive, also spoke, pointing out that the Scouts are one of the Red Feather services of the Newton Community Chest.

When George and Arthur spoke, they told how the boys had been meeting since April as a provisional troop No. 23 for the Jamboree, with Edward Ross, Scout Master, and Sal DeFazio, and F. C. William, Assistant Scout Masters. They told how they learned to live with other boys, and described the various trades that were made there, i.e. Horn toads from Texas boys, Yuca wood from California boys. The scouts of many states came representing some feature of their state for example, the Wisconsin boys came as Indians; the Massachusetts boys were represented by a lighthouse.

Arthur Veinott, Sr., Chairman of the Community Chest, Committee on Public Relations was introduced to the group. President Frank Simmons presided over the meeting.

Dr. Lynn to Give Talk at Plant Science Seminar

—o—

Dr. Eldin V. Lynn, of 34 Kingswood road, Auburndale, Chairman of the Department of Chemistry of the Massachusetts College of Pharmacy, will present a talk entitled "Steroids in Plants" to the members of the Plant Science Seminar who are holding their 27th annual meeting in Boston from Aug. 24 to 30.

First Church of Christ, Scientist, Newton
391 Walnut Street, Newtonville
Sunday morning service 1045
Sunday School at the same hour
Wednesday evening testimony meeting at 8

—o—

"Christ Jesus" is the Lesson-Sermon subject for Sunday, August 27.

Golden Text: "Behold, the days come, saith the Lord, that I will raise unto David a righteous Branch, and a King shall reign and prosper, and shall execute judgment and justice in the earth . . . And this is his name whereby he shall be called, The Lord Our Righteousness" (Jeremiah 23:5,6).

"How beautiful upon the mountains are the feet of him that bringeth good tidings, that publisheth peace; that bringeth good tidings of good, that publisheth salvation; that saith unto Zion, Thy God reigneth!" (Isaiah 52:7). Correlative passages from "Science and Health with Key to the Scriptures" by Mary Baker Eddy include:

"God is everywhere, and nothing apart from Him is present or has power. Christ is the ideal Truth, that comes to heal sickness and sin through Christian Science, and attributes all power to God . . . The supremacy of Spirit was the foundation on which Jesus built" (pp. 473, 138).

To Join Platoon Leaders Class

Walter T. Healy, son of Mrs. Alice K. Healy, 231 Tremont street, Newton, is one of the 270 men who were selected from colleges and universities throughout the country to become members of the Platoon Leaders Class at Marine Corps Schools in Quantico, Virginia.

Healy and his classmates are given intensive instruction in drill, tactics, and weapons. A student at Boston College, his time will be divided between classroom and lectures, problems, field demonstrations and maneuvers. Several days are spent on the rifle range where weapons such as the rifle, carbine and pistol are fired. For the final three weeks, the students move from their barracks to the camps of the Quantico reservation for training under field conditions.

WCRB Says "Stop The Housework"

WCRB has a new program on Mondays, Wednesdays and Fridays at 10:05 a. m. which is supposed to give the busy housewife a brief rest period. — Stop the Housework!

During the 25-minutes of the show, Ned Pumphrey will call out to listeners by telephone and give them a chance to identify a mystery tune. If they can name the tune, they win a merchandise prize worth from $2.00 to $5.00, and more important, get a chance to identify the Mystery Voice.

Whoever identified the Mystery Voice wins a growing jackpot which currently is worth about $50.00, and it will keep increasing until it is cracked.

Richard Goldman, son of Mr. and Mrs. Charles Goldman of Bishopgate road, Newton Centre, is spending his third summer at Camp Zakelo, Harrison, Me., in which he has forged to the top of the tennis tournament both in camp and out of camp matches; was awarded the highest honor of honor brave for the senior division; is leading scorer in the basketball games, playing in the huge indoor recreation hall (the only indoor full-sized court in an eastern camp, as top scorer; holds down the 2nd baseball position as an outstanding player on the baseball team "making" the position over heavier and older players. Director Zarakov, former Harvard 8 letter star, reports: "Young Goldman as soon as he puts on the weight which comes with growth will reach the heights, he is a natural and takes orders like a veteran."

Charles Levin, son of Mr. and Mrs. Ben Levin of Waverly avenue, Newton Centre, returned for his fourth season at Camp Zakelo, Harrison, Maine, to enjoy his many favorite activities. Charles made the out of camp rifle team and archery team; won his tennis matches; passed his 880 yd. swim; novice canoe tests; aquaplane tests; was chosen for the classic Mt. Washington trip; won the Zakelog contest, the camp weekly newspaper, and elected to be sports editor, developing and printing his photography in the Zakelo photo shop equipped for professional quality work. While older brother Ira was selected "a special senior" has won first place in the free style and breast stroke swim meet events; won his tennis doubles in out of camp contests; "made" the swim team; specializing in functional swimming; joined the production board of the Zakelog; camped out in old-fashioned style on the Mt. Washington camping trip, as well as participating in inter,camp dances. Younger brother John passed his 880 yd. swim; elected to the Zakelog group of the weekly camp newspaper; member of the riding club; won his tennis match; accomplished much in photography; enjoys fencing; helped his cabin be chosen as an honor cabin in inspection; tried out for the fencing team; displayed skill in handcraft.

The Stanley Steamer-Remnant of the Past - Still a Model of Perfection

By JANET QUINN

Very seldom does one encounter a book concerning something mechanical which proves to be interesting as well as informative; but I have recently read one which does just that. George Woodbury, a retired professor of archaeology, has written his second book, the first being "John Goffe's Mill," and from its title, "The Story of a Stanley Steamer," you can fairly accurately gather its content.

CHIEF RANDLETT and Fireman Fogwell of the Newton Fire Dept., in a 2903 Stanley. This was the first municipally-owned motor car in the United States.

Having made his home, following his retirement, in New Hampshire, where he "reactivated an ancestral sawmill" Mr. Woodbury very often met older men who gave boundless praise to the merits of steam power, and more exactly, the merits of that practically extinct car, the Stanley Steamer. Mr. Woodbury decided one memorable day to get himself one of these outdated curios known as Stanley Steamers, and learn exactly what extraordinary qualities it possessed that had led to the forming of this virtually fanatical cult of Stanley owners who swear by steam engines, as by a religion.

Thereafter ensued a most delightful account of the trials, first of obtaining one of the obsolete vehicles (for though many lauded its virtues, few knew how to go about finding one); and then after finally procuring a 1917 model, restoring it to usable condition. The author inserts bits of humor and satire into his story, and his completely refreshing style of writing (somewhat surprising — aren't archeologists supposed to be staid?), makes his story as fascinating to the reader as doubtless his experience was to himself.

He points out the falseness of the time-honored theory that gas engines are superior to those run by steam, and that the latter are dangerous. He shows that even now, more than forty years after the construction of this steamer, it is as well-behaved, if not more so, than any 1950 model on the road.

Not only can the driver enjoy more of the scenery from his lofty perch in the seat; but if anyone doubts the ability of the Stanley to speed, Mr. Woodbury describes how careful he had to be in driving, because if care was not exerted, the car would go too fast. In fact, the speedometer of the Stanley Racing Car, termed "The Fastest Car in the World," driven by Fred Marriott in January, 1907, indicated 190 mph before it was wrecked.

The book is well-worth reading for all who might be curious about this illustrious vehicle of by-gone days, but especially to Newtonians.

Not many of us know that the Stanley Brothers, the inventors of the steamer, were themselves Newton men, and the only Stanley Steamer factory, from which emerged the comparatively few steamers ever to be built, still stands in Newton. The aforementioned Fred Marriott, and his assistant, to both of whom Mr. Woodbury extends the thanks for helping to get the old machine once more into condition, have their garage in nearby Watertown, on Galen street; and it is probably the only garage in existence today that specializes in the servicing of Stanley Steamers.

Newton does not have a great number of events or names to its credit for which the world will remember it, but among the few which it does have, the Stanley Steamer is a leader. The Stanley was, and still is, actually, a bright name in the pioneer automotive industry. It ranked in its day with the Rolls-Royce and Cadillac; and perhaps, as Mr. Woodbury states it would today be extant if the brothers had gone in for mass production (while there were 650 Stanleys being turned out in a year, Ford built the same number in one day). Another salient reason for its death, was the stubbornness of the brothers Stanley in refusing to "modernize" their vehicle with each year; they clung to the belief that it was perfect as it stood. The author, now a full-fledged member of the Stanley Admiration Society, seems to feel that perhaps the brothers were right, that here is perfection in a vehicle.

Newtonites Win On WCRB Win-It

Newton residents gathered three of the possible ten wins this past week on WCRB's Win-It, each thereby winning $50.00 in prizes.

Miss Estelle Perry, of 15 Woodward street, Newton Highlands, came through with a winning Win-It card on Monday. On Wednesday, Mrs. Charles W. Johnson, of 15 Leland road, Chestnut Hill, correctly identified the musical colors. She stated she had been playing Win-It since the program started in May. On Friday, Mrs. Mary K. Norton, 14 Lyman street, Newton Centre, closed the week with another win for Newton.

Since the first broadcast, Win-It has given away $7000.00 in prizes to area listeners, at the rate of $500.00 a week. It is heard Mondays through Fridays on WCRB, at 11:05 a. m. and 6.05 p. m. John Milton Grubbs handles the morning session, and Ned Pumphrey the evening.

MORTGAGEE'S SALE OF REAL ESTATE
By virtue and in execution of the POWER OF SALE contained in a certain mortgage given by Philip J. McHugh to Charles A. Dooley dated April 17, 1950 and recorded with Middlesex South District Deeds, Book 7565, Page 102, of which mortgage the undersigned is the present holder, for breach of the conditions of said mortgage and for the purpose of foreclosing the same will be sold at Public Auction at two o'clock P.M. on the fifteenth day of September A.D. 1950; 400 Cherry Street, West Newton, Massachusetts, all and singular the premises described in said mortgage,
To wit: the land in that part of said Newton, known as West Newton, with the buildings thereon, and bounded and described as follows:—
WESTERLY by Cherry Street, 130.80 feet;
NORTHERLY by land now or formerly of Nelson, 193.34 feet;
EASTERLY by land now or formerly of Eddy, 74.74 feet;
SOUTHERLY by land now or formerly of heirs of Allen, 22.50 feet;
SOUTHEASTERLY by land now or late of heirs of Allen, 34.39 feet;
SOUTHEASTERLY again by land now or late of heirs of Allen, by a curved line, 53.22 feet; and SOUTHERLY by land now or formerly of heirs of Allen, 122.97 feet; containing 24698 square feet of land, more or less.
Being the same premises conveyed to me by deed of Joan A. Martorana to be recorded herewith, and are conveyed subject to a mortgage for $6,000.00 given by me to the Auburndale Co-operative Bank to be recorded herewith.
And as further security for the loan for which this mortgage is given, I hereby assign to said grantee, all my right and interest in the share of stock in said bank referred to in said prior mortgage.
The failure to comply with any of the conditions of this mortgage, or the conditions of said prior mortgage, or the failure to pay any of said installments within 30 days from the date when the same is due, notwithstanding any license or waiver of any prior breach of condition shall make the whole of the balance of the principal sum due hereunder, immediately due and payable at the option of the holder hereof.
Terms of Sale: Five hundred dollars will be required to be paid in cash by the purchaser at the time and place of sale and the balance to be paid in cash within ten (10) days thereafter at the Middlesex South District Registry of Deeds, East Cambridge, Mass.
Other terms to be announced at the sale.
Signed

The Challenge Is On

With C. E. Gould Capon serving as chairman for the second year, Newton Centre will be active again this year in the 1951 Red Feather Campaign. He will be ably assisted by a corps of aides, many of whom served in similar positions a year ago.

As assistant chairman, Mr. Capon has selected Abe L. Rothstein, LeRoy B. Gould and Harry J. Lovell, and as Majors, George L. Roberts, Edward E. Narcus, A. W. McGrath, John R. Roy, Everett W. Varney, and Henry G. Schafer.

Captains already appointed to assist these leaders are Stanley Rosoff, Herman Rogers, Mrs. Roslyn Jacobson, Irving J. Feldman, Mrs. John H. Hanks, Mrs. Charles M. Goldman, Philip Rubin, David Berkman, J. Frank McArdle, Herbert K. Salter, Clinton Hutchinson, Harry C. Gibson, Everett R. Martin, Arthur W. Pearson, and Charles Butler.

Also serving for a second year as chairman of his district, is John P. Cochrane of Newton. A friendly rivalry sprung up in the Campaign a year ago between Newton Centre and Newton, which brought about a challenge from Mr. Capon to Mr. Cochrane with respect to the money results in this year's Campaign. Mr. Capon is confident that when the Campaign is over, Newton Centre will be the winner of the contest and that the penalty which will befall the loser will be paid by Mr. Cochrane.

Graduated From Boston University

Friends and relatives of the largest graduating class in Boston University's 111-year history filled Symphony Hall last Saturday afternoon to see 947 students receive degrees from Dr. Daniel L. Marsh, president of the University, who urged them to "intelligent inquisitiveness", especially in the areas of "education, patriotism, and morality".

In making his first public address since his recent illness, President Marsh used the topic, "Why? Life's Most Interesting Question", and in the course of his speech, he did ask several of the most obvious "why's" of our present way of life; such as, why are we unprepared for war after $50 billion of the taxpayers' money has been spent for defense? why should the United States be the "policeman rather than the peaceman of the world?" and other thought provoking questions.

Dean Atlee L. Percy, Director of the University's 36th Annual Summer Session, which enrolled 5200 students this year, presented the candidates for degrees as they mounted the flower-bedecked platform decorated in the University's colors, Scarlet and White. The 947 students from seven of the University's 15 schools and colleges brought the 1950 graduation total to 4310, the largest in University history.

Local residents who received degrees Saturday were:

Newtonville

Daniel Packard MacDonald, 230 Walnut street, candidate for the degree Bachelor of Science in Business Administration, with a major in Marketing, at the College of Business Administration.

Charles Henry Mergendahl Jr., S.B., 75 Lowell avenue, candidate for the degree Master of Arts, with a major in English Language and Literature, at the Graduate School.

West Newton

'Sleeping Beauty' To Be Presented

The story of the "Sleeping Beauty" will be presented by the Fairy Tale Players this Sunday at eight-thirty on WCRB. Beauty as played by Carol Faber is put into an enchanted sleep by the Good Fairy, Leona (Ginny MacGinnes). The Wicked Fairy, Frytania as played by Barbara Boyle almost outwits the good fairies by the inhuman fear she seems to give the young and handsome, Prince Florid. When Beauty is put into her enchanted sleep the Queen (Martha O'Callahan), the King, and the Lady in Waiting, (Sally Bodge) are put to sleep with her. They are to awake at the end of a hundred years if the prince can overcome his fear of the wicked fairy. Prince Florid will be played by Dave Ferguson. Others in the cast are: Mary Ellen Gaffney, and Clara Hartigan.

Work Starts On Three Streets Here

Construction work on the first three streets of the 1950 program of the Public Works Department was scheduled to get under way this week, according to Willard S. Pratt, public works commissioner.

The first projects to be undertaken will be the reconstruction of Mt. Ida street, from Newtonville avenue to Centre street; Richardson street, from Centre street to beyond Meredith road, and Madison avenue, from Walnut street to Harvard street.

This work will be done by the Bonded Construction Company of Newtonville at a cost of $13,151.97.

Newtonville Man Promoted by Navy

Cmdr. Edward B. Flaherty, USNR, of Newtonville, training officer of the Naval Reserve Organized Battalion 1-1, has been promoted to captain.

He is director of the cooperative electrical course at Charlestown High School in civilian life.

Character is that which reveals moral purpose, exposing the class of things a man chooses or avoids. —Aristotle

To Present Blood Donor Programs

"Your Blood Saved My Life," a series of documentaries telling the dramatic stories of everyday folks whose lives were saved by blood donated through Red Cross, will be presented over station WCRB, the Charles River Broadcasting Station for the next six Sundays at 3:30 p.m.

Remember the dates, September 11 and September 27. The Bloodmobile will visit the Eliot Church in Newton Corner from 1 to 7 on those days. To make your appointment, call LA 7-6000.

Mt. Ida Street Contract Let

A contract for $13,151.97 for construction work on Mt. Ida street, Newton, was awarded to Bonded Construction Company, 40 Kensington street, Newtonville.

T. Gregory Sullivan, 320 Chestnut street, West Newton, has been reappointed as a Notary Public, it has been announced. The reappointment, made by Governor Paul A. Dever, was confirmed by his Executive Council this week. The term of the West Newton Notary Public will expire in 1957.

Completes Course With American Airlines

Miss Helen Vavoudes of 132 Beaumont avenue, Newton, has completed the American Airlines stewardess training course at Chicago and now is flying the regular Route of the Flagship Fleet throughout the nation.

A native of Winchester, Miss Vavoudes attended Brighton High School and Radcliffe College where she received her A.B. in Biochemistry. He spent two years doing research at Massachusetts General Hospital and one year at Massachusetts Institute of Technology doing cancer research.

Miss Vavoudes completed an intensive four-week training course in the fundamentals of personal grooming as well as all phases of aviation from radio, meteorology and flight operation to maintenance, passenger service and company policies. She is now qualified to fly aboard any type of equipment used by American Airlines in any of the 77 cities served by the company.

Fuller Terrace Contract Given

A contract of $5,871.50 for construction of sanitary sewers on Fuller terrace and Hatfield road, Newton, was awarded to DiTullio, 15 Laval street, Hyde Park.

Labor Day Week-End

Enforcement Officials to Patrol Highways in Effort To Keep Accident Rate Low

Vacations and leaves of absence have been cancelled by the State Police, M. D. C. Police and the Registry of Motor Vehicles and all enforcement men from these three agencies will be on the road to help regulate and control traffic over the long Labor Day week-end.

Extra personnel will be on duty around the clock manning the state-wide communication systems.

Commissioner Daniel I. Murphy, Commissioner William T. Morrisey, and Registrar Rudolph F. King stated, "Labor Day is different from any other holiday as it comes just before the close of the summer vacation period and the opening of school. Many entire families will be using the family car to enjoy this last summer holiday, and many families will be returning from their summer homes or from vacation resorts. Therefore, extra care must be exercised so as not to expose the whole family to highway tragedy. We urge as many as possible to travel back to their homes in daylight hours.

"Ninety-five thousand more cars registered than a year ago, one hundred forty-eight thousand and more licensed operators, with thousands of tourists traveling through our attractive State during this holiday period, should give us something to think about.

"Avoid haste; start early; and proceed carefully."

Helen Crowley of 98 Crofton road, Waban, was appointed associate director of meetings at a recent meeting of the board of directors, Boston Chapter of the National Association of Cost Accountants. Miss Crowley has been active in the affairs of the Boston Chapter for a number of years.

NEW RAY OF HOPE RAISED FOR GERMAN BOY

Is Largest Unit Of All Branches

BY ELAINE REED

Filene's ultra-modern branch store, the newest addition to the Chestnut Hill shopping area on the Worcester Turnpike, made it's fashionable debut this week. Mr. Harold D. Hodgkinson, Filene's general manager, presided at the Monday noon ceremony and introduced Mr. William H. Morton of Wellesley, the manager of the new branch.

Mrs. Robert Croan of Chestnut Hill and Miss Janet Pearlman of Newton Centre won the honor of being the first customers to enter the new store.

The hearts-and-flowers "daisy chain," featured in place of ribbon-cutting at the opening ceremony, characterizes the decor used throughout the smart interior. The world-famous Raymond Loewy is responsible for the many innovations in design that make shopping here so attractive and make it possible to locate at a glance any department or shop.

The most striking of the various shops on the street level is the Gown Shop suitably located in an elegant setting against a background of an antique door from Italy, and the necessary French touch given by twin wall clocks— one set at "Paris Time," the other at "Chestnut Hill Time." Most attractive in this

Anticipate Increase in Enrolment

—o—

School enrolment this year is estimated at 11,500, as compared with 11,270 in the 1949-1950 season. Since many late registrations come in after the opening of school, an increase in this number is expected before the end of October.

The new Oak Hill Park School will open this fall; and in Auburndale the new Williams School will go into session for the first time.

Also announced was the opening of the clinics for diphtheria immunization in the City Hall Thursday, September 21 at 2 p.m. They will continue through the year on the next to last Thursday of each month.

Start Work On Library

—o—

According to Harold Wooster, city librarian, blueprint plans for the addition to the Newton Free Library, Centre street, Newton Corner, are almost complete and will shortly be submitted to the building commissioner for approval. The architect of the new addition is W. Cornell Appleton of Newton.

Schools To Open Sept. 11

Placement Tests to Be Held September 7 and 8

Opening day for all public schools in Newton has been set for Monday, September 11.

For pupils transferring from private and parochial schools to the tenth grade of the Newton High School, placement tests will be given Thursday, September 7, and Friday, September 8 at 8:30 a.m.

Registration for these tests should be made Tuesday, September 5, or Wednesday, September 6, in the Guidance Office at the high school. Appointments may be made with Mr. Robert H. Mitchell, Head of Guidance Department, by telephoning LAsell 7-6267. A record of ninth grade work should be submitted at time of registration.

Other pupils transferring from schools outside of Newton may register September 5, 6, 7, or 8 in the Guidance Office. Appointments for conferences about programs of study may be made by telephoning LAsell 7-6267.

Rabbi Mandel To Preach

To Hold Inaugural Service Of Temple Shalom Sept 3

—o—

RABBI IRVING A. MANDEL

Temple Shalom of Newton, recently organized liberal Jewish congregation, will have its inaugural services Friday evening, September 8, at the Unitarian Church of West Newton, 1326 Washington street.

Rabbi Irving A. Mandel will preach on "Strangers Within The Gate." Rev. John Ogden Fisher, whose church is host to Congregation Shalom, will welcome congregants and guests.

Rabbi Albert Gordon of Temple Emanuel, Newton Centre, will deliver the invocation for the service, and Robert E. Segal, president of Temple Shalom, will speak for the congregation.

The traditional blessing of the Sabbath lights will be given by Mrs. Sidney J. Simons, president of the Temple Shalom Sisterhood.

The newly-formed Temple Shalom choir, conducted by Jay Sheldon, Temple organist, will provide the musical background. Following the services, a reception arranged by the Sisterhood, will be held in honor of Rabbi and Mrs. Mandel.

Plans are also being made for Temple Shalom's High Holy Day services in September. Details will be announced later.

To Carry On Nonantum PO Agitation

—o—

Carmen A. Vitti, chairman of the committee urging the establishment of a post-office in Nonantum, has announced that despite an adverse report on the proposal by post-office authorities, efforts will be increased to bring about a favorable decision.

According to Mr. Vitti, the Boston post-office inspector who made the investigation, did so without contacting the proponents of the project who contend that a branch post-office in Nonantum will save the government money since there is no request for a new building and that a store can be rented for less than the cost of the present sub-station.

Mr. Vitti also announced that the matter will be further taken up with Congressman Christian A. Herter and John W. McCormack who are expected to be in Nonantum October 19.

Plan Formation Of Democratic Club in Newton

—o—

Plans are under way for the formation of a Democratic Club of Newton.

Recently a meeting was held at 235 Adams street, at which time various aspects of the political situation in Newton was discussed and, it is understood, actual formation of the Democratic Club will take place.

Another meeting to further discuss plans is expected to be held this week.

Efforts Successful

Finally Find Army Sgt. Who Aided Him In Europe

Werner Fahrenhold, the German youth who faces deportation orders in two weeks unless some means can be found to save h' 1, yesterday (Wednesday noon) received a new, and perhaps vital, ray of hope in his fight. After weeks of searching, contact was finally established with Master Sergeant Loveland Becker of the Army Air Force with whom Werner lived in Germany for two months following the close of hostilities of World War II.

The telephone contact with Becker was made by Wilfred Chagnon, who has been one of those active in seeking to find some way to save the German youth from deportation because of illegal entry into this country.

Chagnon, through the co-operation of Police Chief Philip Purcell, on Tuesday of this week finally succeeded in locating Sgt. Becker at Freeburg, a small community in Illinois after Army authorities in Washington in response to a telegram sent by Chagnon stated it was "unable to identify a record of military service for the subject of your inquiry."

With only about two weeks of the deportation stay order remaining, the contact with Sgt. Becker, who confirms in every detail the facts which Fahrenhold as stated repeatedly, gives new hope that the boy may yet be permitted to remain in this country.

Chagnon, along with members of the Kiwanis Club and other citizens, have been working feverishly in an attempt to save the youth from deportation and an almost certain consignment to the slave labor policy of he Russian government, from whom the boy escaped to this country.

In his telephone conversation with Chagnon Wednesday noon, Sgt. Becker stated that Werner

Graphic Office To Be Open Sat; Closed Monday

—o—

Due to Labor Day, the office of The Graphic will be closed all day this Monday.

Advertisers and correspondents are urged to send their copy to The Graphic office, Friday and Saturday of this week if possible. In order to facilitate the handling of copy, together with the usual business routine, The Graphic office will be open all day this Saturday from 9 a.m. to 5 p.m.

Freed On Charge Of Driving to Endanger

—o—

Anthony Severino of Troy, New York, whose truck ran into a bicycling newsboy, pinning him under it, on Washington street some months ago, was freed from charges of operating to endanger last Thursday by Judge W. Lloyd Allen in the Newton District Court.

For Enlightenment

Old-Fashioned Political Rally to Be Held Sept. 15

Newton citizens are in for a pleasant evening Friday, September 15, the date set at a recent meeting of the Executive Board of the Newton Republican Club for a real bang-up, old-fashioned political rally.

Plans for the forthcoming rally were initiated by the appointment, by President Louis Johnson Callas, of James Chandler as chairman of the committee organizing this affair and of Monte G. Basbas as acting public relations counsel.

The purpose and idea of this rally, as pointed out by President Callas of the Newton Republican Club, is to afford citizens of Newton a chance to see, hear, and meet their favorite candidates for state offices. A heavy response from the various candidates for state offices, including gubernatorial candidates, is an indication of the interest that has been aroused in this event.

This will probably be the biggest rally of its kind ever held in Newton, a rally in the good old-fashioned political traditions.

Chairman Chandler will have the able assistance of Mrs. Mabel Mattson, Republican City Committee representative to the Executive Board, and Philip W. Carter, newly elected member of the Executive Board of the Newton Republican Club.

Is Appointed Director of Publicity

—o—

William C. Waugh, of 30 Orient avenue, Newton Centre, has been named Director of Publicity for General Dan Needham, of West Newton, who is seeking the Republican nomination for Governor.

Mr. Waugh will be remembered as a former resident of Watertown, and as managing director of the famous Baked Bean Supper held on Boston Common last May. He is director of Public Relations for the Colonial Provision Company.

Completes Specialized Course

Andrew W. Steinhope, head of the business department at Newton High School, has completed the special training course in the Muhlenberg College Economics Workshop in preparation for work in his home classroom starting next month.

Most of the Workshop student body are high school teachers from Allentown and eastern Pennsylvania with three from Baltimore and others from Ohio, Georgia, West Virginia and Michigan. All the Workshoppers were chosen upon recommendation by their principals or school boards for advanced study in economics in a two-weeks' term closing August 25.

Blood Now Being Flown To Korea

Starting last Friday, Red Cross began flying blood to the Armed Forces in Korea from the Boston Blood Centre. An estimated 1200 pints of fresh blood from centers all over the country will be included in this first air shipment to Japan for use in Korea. The Blood Supply is urgently needed for soldiers who are wounded and in shock.

Locally the need increases. During the past week two emergency cases were saved by blood available from the Red Cross Blood Bank. In one instance a total of 21 pints was used for one patient, while the other patient required 15 pints of a rare type.

Promote 2 In Fire Dept.

Two promotions have been announced by Chief John E. Corcoran of the Fire Department. Promoted to the rank of lieutenant were Pvt. Edward J. McDade, of Ladder 2, and Pvt. Raymond F. Hodgdon of Engine 1.

McDade was appointed to the department on September 28, 1938, and assigned to Ladder 2. He served at Engines 4 and 6, returning to Ladder 2, April 17, 1939. He was first on the recently established civil service list. He is married and resides with his wife and two children at 10 Indiana terrace, Upper Falls.

Children's Play Day Successful

Children of Oak Hill Park enjoyed themselves tremendously at the Children's Play Day held last Saturday in the Parking Area, Oak Hill Park.

There were so many cleverly decorated doll buggies, tricycles, bicycles, wagons and costumes that it was difficult for the judges to make their decisions. Ribbon awards were given to the winners of the various events. The winners of the decorated bicycle parade were Dickie Grimm, Diann Giracca, first prize, Diane Freeto and Jackie Knox, second prize. The decorated wagon prizes were taken by Lee Borkowitz, 1st prize and Jim Dodd, second prize. The doll buggie parade winners were Karen Chadbourne and Susan Hallett, first prize, Ginny and Pam Knight, second prize. Prizes for the most original costumes were given to Judy O'Brien and Danny Cassiane, first prize, Susan, Peggy Ann, and Judy Delaney, second prize, and Victor Reid, third prize.

Races were held for different age groups. Larry Bouchine, Christine Hagelstein, Susan Tarlin, and Donna Hoffman were winners of races for children under five. In the five to eight group Judy Gallagher, Martha Souci, Raymond DeMaio, and Danny Wood took top honors. In the race for children over eight, Richard Strassea and Donnie Marden were the winners. An unusual event was the Mother and Daughter Relays. The Gallagher and Giraccas were the speediest duos.

The children returned for more fun in the afternoon. They were entertained by Bob Munstedt's puppets, Elaine Mitchell's dance display and a host of sideshows including a fortune teller and a freak show.

Three Contracts Are Awarded Here

—o—

Contracts awarded for construction work on Beaumont avenue and Carleton street, and grading, loaming and seeding of the Wheeler school playground, Newton, have been announced.

For construction work on Carleton street, from Pearl street to Centre street, a contract of $9,360.42 was awarded to Bonded Construction Co., 40 Kensington street, Newtonville.

For grading, loaming, and seeding Wheeler school playground, Home Maintenance Service, Inc., 258 Linden street, Wellesley, was awarded a contract of $9,450.

Hospital Preparedness

Chief Corcoran Praises Fire Protection Measures Established at Hospital

Following a thorough inspection of hospital premises conducted by Assistant Chief Everett Seberit, Chief John E. Corcoran of the Newton Fire Department expressed satisfaction with the fire protection measures established at the Newton-Wellesley Hospital.

"Although no fire chief is ever completely satisfied with any fire protection set-up," Chief Corcoran said, "the hospital has improved at least 100 per cent in providing protection for its patients."

The chief's earlier recommendation of the installation of a supplementary auxiliary fire warning system, which would provide the fire department with immediate and automatic notification of the outbreak of fire anywhere on the hospital property is already being installed.

Dr. T. Stewart Hamilton, Director, in commenting on the Fire Chief's report said, "This auxiliary fire warning system is at the head of the list for added improvements to the hospital plant as additional funds become available. A complete study of existing fire warning facilities has been made and a series of proposals has been received from the leading authority in this field. It is estimated that provision of complete auxiliarization of the fire warning system would cost approximately 15,000 dollars."

Stressing the fact that over 90 per cent of the hospital's patients are now housed and cared

Shall We Await the Blow

The Communists always claim that theirs is a perfectly legal party, like the Democrats and the Republicans, and that they have a constitutional right to carry on their activities.

What that position actually means was well described recently by Judge Learned Hand of the Circuit Court of Appeals. He was speaking for a unanimous Court upholding the conviction of the 11 Communist leaders in New York last year. He said: "They claim the constitutional privilege of going on indoctrinating their pupils, preparing increasing numbers to pledge themselves to the crusade, and awaiting the moment when we may be so far extended by foreign engagements, so far divided in counsel, or so far in industrial or financial straits, that the chance (of successful revolution) seems worth trying. That position presupposes that the (First) Amendment assures them freedom for all preparatory steps and in the end the choice of the initiative, depending upon that moment when they believe us, who must await the blow, to be worst prepared to receive it."

Communism is not a political party. It is a revolutionary movement owing total allegiance to a foreign government. Its sole aim is to destroy us.

How To Become Intelligent

For individuals who want to become educated, it is interesting to read the views of those with whom they disagree and thus it is possible for them to learn something occasionally.

The man who is unable to justify his views, even to himself, against the argument of intelligent opponents, is in the bib and tucker stage and should not read. He ought to content himself with a bowl of mush and try to eat it without wasting it on his shirt front.

Of course, it is well, when listening to or reading any discussion, to understand the interests of those who partake in the proceedings. Human nature, being what it is, it is inevitable that most individuals are influenced by their monetary, social, political and other interests.

It is a waste of time to listen to any person whose only aim is to confuse your mind and befuddle your thinking by smart tricks of debate. There are many sources of sincere thought upon most subjects and it behooves you to seek them out.

It is well to remember that most arguments about human affairs revolve around conflicting definitions or inaccurate facts. Consequently, if you get into a discussion of any subject, be sure that what you mean by a key phrase or topic is the same thing that others mean. Seek, first of all, to secure the facts upon which there is agreement and approach the balance of the field with a desire to ascertain, rather than to prove, the facts.

Do-or-Die Period Now for Candidates . . . Denfeld Has Strength Despite His Status . . . Judge Miles Might Prove to Be Dark Horse

For the candidates battling for party nominations in the Democratic and Republican primaries the do-or-die period is just ahead, and the indications are that most of them will do more dying than doing.

So far there has been an almost good-natured informality to the campaigning as the office-seekers have strived to command what attention they could at summer outings, clambakes and moonlight sails.

But starting next Tuesday the chips will be down and the boys will be separated from the men, politically speaking. Just two weeks from next Tuesday, the voters will march on the polls to make their primary choices.

As the candidates move into the decisive stages of their fights, the battle that is getting top political billing and that will command the greatest attention the next 19 days is the contest for the Republican nomination for Governor.

Right now that shapes up as what the gambling gentry, who make book on political contests, would call "a rat race." By that they mean practically anyone of the candidates in it might win.

They have been very slow and reluctant to quote any betting odds on the contest, except those by which they themselves can't lose, but on the basis of what they have heard to date they're disposed to give a slight edge to General Daniel Needham.

The fact is, however, that as Labor Day nears Needham, Miles, Coolidge, Barnes and Denfeld all must be considered as contenders in the race.

Former State Senator Rowe Not Clicking

Former State Senator Edward M. Rowe hasn't seemed able to get going. He makes a fine appearance. He's a good, if not an electrifying, speaker. There is little to criticize in his legislative record. But he just hasn't clicked in this campaign, and the answer may be that he hurt himself politically when he ran against ex-Governor Bradford in the primary two years ago.

Admiral Louis E. Denfeld is a question mark because of the uncertainty as to his eligibility to serve as Governor under the State Constitution. The doubt as to his status was increased last week when he sought to clear up his State income taxes for the past 11 years and was allowed to pay them only for the past three years.

The admiral apparently is somewhat resentful about the news stories questioning his right to run for the Governorship. But he himself is largely responsible for the uncertainty that exists today in the minds of most people.

There has been plenty of time since the issue was first raised for him to meet it in head-on fashion. But he has not done so. He has skirted all around it. He has made no satisfactory explanation of why he did not file any State income tax return until last week if he considered himself a resident of Massachusetts.

Last week, Admiral Denfeld made public an opinion from a Boston law firm stating that under the terms of an act passed in 1946 he was not in arrears in his State income taxes. At the same time his attorneys presented Tax Commissioner Henry F. Long his returns for the years since 1939 and 11 checks to cover them.

Denfeld's Status Matter of Intent

Now the question of whether the admiral has or has not been a resident of Massachusetts for the past seven years, the period he must have been domiciled here to comply with the State Constitution, comes down largely to a matter of intent.

It doesn't seem that there was much intent on Denfeld's part to be a resident of Massachusetts when he didn't file a single income tax return until after he became a candidate for Governor. His attorneys may have found something in the 1946 law which justifies his position, but this observer can't see how a law enacted in 1946 has any bearing whatever on anything Denfeld did prior to 1946.

Admiral Denfeld presumably has no gift at looking into the future. He doesn't know now what laws will be passed next year, and back in 1944 and 1945 he didn't know that the law his attorneys are talking about was going to be passed.

Reports from the Blackstone Valley and from such cities as Northampton in Western Massachusetts indicate that the admiral has some strength despite the doubt as to his status, and if it were not for the question of whether he can serve as Governor his candidacy would be much more potent than it is.

The admiral's inexperience as a politician is understandable, but it is surprising that the professional politicos running his campaign have not clarified his status. They must know that a lot of legal double-talk isn't going to satisfy anyone outside their own camp and that it is hurting rather than helping their candidate.

The man who looms as the darkhorse in the closing stages of this race is Judge Frankland W. L. Miles. He's considerably stronger today than any of the political observers ever expected he would be.

That is partly due to the fact that there is little anyone can say against him. He has few vulnerable points at which his opponents can hit. He offers a new political face. He makes a commanding appearance on the stump, and of the six contenders he's probably the best orator. Rated a short ender at the start of the race, he has fought his way into the contention.

Coolidge's Greatest Asset Is His Name

Coolidge's greatest asset is the drawing power his name offers in a Republican primary. His biggest handicap is that he's nearly 70 years old. He has the support of such G.O.P. figures as Mayor Thomas L. Thistle of Melrose and House Republican Leader Charles Gibbons, and it is understood that ex-Governor Bradford is favorably disposed toward him. His campaign slogan on his cards is "Fed Up?" He's trying to revive the "Had Enough" idea on which the Republicans capitalized so effectively four years ago.

One of the points Coolidge also stresses on his card is that he is the only one of the six gubernatorial aspirants who ever defeated Governor Dever. Needless to say, he doesn't add that he's also the only one of the group who ever lost to Lieutenant Governor Charles F. Jeff Sullivan who scarcely rates as any political powerhouse.

That leaves General Needham and former Attorney General Clarence A. Barnes. Both are strong. Of that there's little doubt. Barnes has stood up very well in this campaign. His wife is probably his greatest campaign asset. She has accompanied him on his swings through the State, and it's quite possible that she has made as many votes for him as he has made for himself. Congressional Leader Joe Martin is supporting him, and that will mean something in Martin's district.

Needham has picked up strength steadily since he first announced his candidacy. He has the backing of the Weeks and Saltonstall elements in the party. Like Miles, he is a new political face, and unlike Coolidge and Barnes he didn't go down before the Democratic sweep that left the Republican campaign a shambles two years ago. With the support he is drawing it's likely that his campaign will continue to gather momentum.

Much will depend on how effectively the six candidates present their cases in the days just ahead. They will be getting an increasing amount of attention between now and primary day. All of them presumably have saved a good portion of their political ammunition for the final push. The one that makes the greatest spurt from here in will head the G.O.P. ticket in its November struggle.

Dr. Albert I. Gordon, Rabbi of Temple Emanuel, Newton Centre, will be assisted during the coming High Holy Days by Dr. Solomon Grayzel of Philadelphia.

Dr. Grayzel is the editor of the Jewish Publication Society of America and an historian of note. He is recognized as one of America's outstanding Jewish scholars and lectures. Dr. Grayzel was ordained as Rabbi by the Jewish Theological Seminary of America.

Cantor Gerald Cassen of New York City will join with Cantor Gabriel Hochberg of Temple Emanuel in officiating at the services. Cantor Casson received his musical training both in Europe and America and is recognized as a promising candidate for the Metropolitan Opera.

Dr. Grayzel will alternate with Dr. Gordon in conducting the High Holy Day services in the main synagogue and in the vestry. Cantor Hochberg will chant the service in the main synagogue, assisted by the Temple Choir, which is directed by Mr. Louis I. Shapiro. Cantor Gerald Cassen will officiate at the auxiliary service.

had lived with him and his wife in Germany for about two months, during which time they provided the youth with food, shelter and clothing and that the lad proved himself to be of the highest character. He further stated that a letter, confirming his telephone conversation, would be dispatched to Newton immediately and hoped that the efforts being made to save Werner from deportation, would bring successful results and that he stood ready to do all he could to help.

Following the receipt of the good news, Werner left to attend the weekly meeting of the Kiwanis Club and to thank the members for all they were doing in an effort to save him from deportation.

In school here, Werner has gained many youthful friends who, although unable to do much about helping the youth in his fight, have lent moral support and are pulling for a successful outcome as the boy is popular with all who know him.

Since coming to Newton, Werner has been residing with Mr. and Mrs. Jaime Fornos of 32 Cabot street, Newton, who have come to look upon him as a member of their family and who speak highly of the fine characteristics of the youth.

In addition to these latest developments other channles are being explored by Werner's friends, including an attempt to have him classified as a displaced person, in order to have the deportation order set aside permanently.

for in modern, fire-resistant construction, Dr. Hamilton added, "By mid-October we should have all of our patients housed in the brick, fire-resistant structures of the main building. At present, not over 12 patients are located in a wooden structure and are on the first floor from which they could easily be removed in the event of fire."

In discussing the hospital's present fire warning set-up, Wesley D. Sprague, Assistant Director, stated that the hospital switchboard, which is manned twenty-four hours a day, was equipped with a trip switch which automatically sounded the fire alarm for the hospital at fire department headquarters. In addition there are a number of fire boxes located at strategic points within the hospital, the nurses' home and the major outbuildings, which in the future are to become auxiliarized.

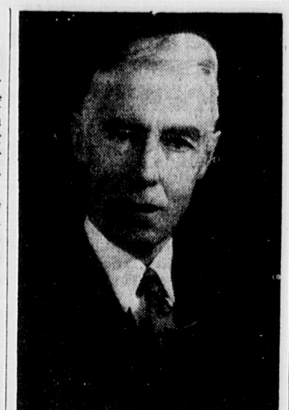

Mr. Sprague, in company with Assistant Chief Seberit, saw to the placing of additional fire extinguishers and complied with several other minor measures recommended by the assistant chief.

"Monthly fire drills are held in the hospital," said Mr. Sprague, "and each entering class of student nurses is given, a series of lectures about fire prevention and what to do in the event of fire."

"A special "Burn Cart' has been set up for use on the accident ward of the hospital," said Dr. Hamilton, "to provide the special types of dressings, sterile vaseline gauze, plasma and other medications useful in the treatment of burns. This puts us in a position of immediate preparedness for another disaster of the type of the Waltham explosion, which I sincerely hope the citizens of Newton and Wellesley will not have to experience again."

Summer Activities Brought to Close At Wellington and Eden Playgrounds

The summer's activities were brought to a close for the children of the Wellington and Eden avenue playgrounds last week when a playday was held at the Wellington playground, West Newton, in which 200 children participated.

Witnessed by about 100 people, the play day's events began with the pledge of allegiance and singing of the Star Spangled Banner, led by Paul Farara and David Sutter. Featured events were a doll carriage and bicycle parade, displays of handcraft made by the youngsters, dancing exhibitions, races, and a chorus of 16 boys and girls in costume, who called themselves the "Wellington Hawaiians." They sang several selections and strummed stringed instruments in accompaniment.

In the doll carriage parade, judges awarded Jane Gilligan the prize for the "most original" doll carriage. Alice Peterson's carriage was named "the prettiest," and Penny Cuniff's was the "cutest." In the bicycle parade Mary Ann Lawson received first prize; Donna Lawson was second, and Thomas Cuniff received third prize.

Doll carriages were also paraded by Marilyn Ahern, Jane Cowley, Bernadette McGaffigan, Beverly Vaccarello, Judy Melanson, Sue Lawson, Louise Harrington, Roseline Rizzi and Joan Cowley.

Providing close competition for Arthur Godfrey were the Wellington Hawaiians under the direction of Mrs. Mary Ciampa, playground director, who taught and coached the ukulele group.

Their program was as follows: "Found a Peanut," by the entire group.

"Wedding Day Song," solo by Justine Kelleher.

"The Way Sparkle Plenty Plays," James, Betty, Donald Quinn and David Sutter.

"Daddy's Little Girl," solo by Justine Kelleher.

"Making Love Ukulele Style," James Beatty, Carol Ciampa, Donald Quinn, Jane Anderson, David Sutter and Dorothy McGary.

"Little Brown Jug," the entire group.

As a finale, all the "Wellington Hawaiians" joined in a tribute to the inevitable aftermath of summer "School Days."

Three dances were presented by groups of girls. Participating in the Scotch dance were Jane Anderson, Justine Kelleher, Sally DeCastro, Dorothy McGary, Carol Shaughnessy and Bernadette McGaffigan.

The Tarantella was danced by Catherine Duffy, Judy Zagwyn, Carol Ciampa, Carol Shaughnessy, Maurine Irving, Peggy Eagan and Arleen Ring.

Races for all age groups were conducted with the following results: 50-yard dash for boys, Thomas Grinley, first; William Manning, second, and Donald Quinn, third; 35-yard dash for boys, Thomas Zoltek, David Sutter, second, and Jerry Brauninger, third.

Eileen Ring won the 35-yard dash for girls, with Catherine Rizza, second, and Carol Troy, third. First place in the 50-yard dash was taken by Peggy Milligan; Barbara Shaughnessy, second, and Catherine Rizza, third.

In the three-legged races, the combined efforts of Barbara Shaughnessy and Maureen Irving captured first prize in the girls' competition. Second and third places, respectively, were taken by Janice Farrell and Glenda Weiner, Catherine Duffy and Peggy Milligan.

A similar event for boys was won by J. Weiner and M. Maffola, with Thomas Holland and Jack Barrows, second, and Michael Grinley and Michael Fazio third.

First prize in the sack race for boys went to John Milligan, with Michael Grinley, second, and Donald Quinn, third. The same race for girls was won by Maureen Irving, with Catherine Duffy, second, and Patricia Percy third.

Following the races, "The Portland Fancy," a square dance, was performed by Noelle Kelleher, Justine Kelleher. Dorothy McGary, Sally DeCastro, Carol Ciampa, Paul Faraca, Jane Anderson, Carol Shaughnessy, June Zagwyn, Bernadette McGaffigan and Lyn Sawyer.

Members of the playground staff who assisted in the field day were Mrs. Mary Ciampa, Miss Cornelia Murphy, and William Barry from the Wellington Playground; Miss Geraldine Faraca and Miss Bernadette Murphy from Eden avenue; and Paul Moan and Robert Barry from West Newton.

In charge of girls' handcraft was Miss Gladys Forbush, and supervising handwork for boys was Thomas Cutler. Mrs. Dorothy Sawyer had charge of the dancing.

Prizes were awarded by C. Evan Johnson, Newton recreation commissioner, assisted by Kenneth E. Prior, alderman from Ward 3; Mrs. Worthing L. West, member of the Newton recreation commission, and John Donahue, playground supervisor.

LABOR DAY!

Ah, Labor Day, a time of ease to do exactly as you please! Or, so you think until you find your folks have other things in mind. Throughout the day they give to you a thousand little jobs to do and you won't rest 'til Tuesday when you're glad to get to work again.

On your way to work, stop at the Snak House Delicatessen, 346 Center St. Immediate service by pleasant, courteous counter girls. You'll get the tastiest sandwiches with generous portions of meat. Make it a habit to visit the Snak House Delicatessen daily. Aurburndale and Oakhill buses stop at the door.

Community Council Directory Enlarged; Holds Much Valuable Civic Information

The question often asked of the Newton Community Council, a Red Feather Agency, is "What do you do?" The concise general answer is, "The Council is the planning body for the betterment of Newton agencies activities while the Newton Community Chest is the money-raising body."

However, in its 1950-1951 edition of the annual Directory of Newton Agencies, Clubs and Organizations the Council enlarges upon this explanation with the description of itself as a body which "Promotes the general welfare of the community through cooperative study and the furtherance of health, welfare, and recreational programs. Composed of 77 member organizations. Conducts a Clearing House to eliminate duplicate giving at Christmas time. Maintains a date clearance calendar of community events."

If, as long-time resident of Newton, one is familiar with this handy directory he will note additions and new classifications in this latest edition which will greatly aid him. Telephone numbers of officers and executives and the grouping of clubs, associations and organizations are offered. To a new resident of Newton the directory should prove invaluable.

A look at the table of contents shows its reference value. All the member agencies are listed, and for example, should a newcomer need health services all he has to do is turn to that classification and information as to the particular type is quickly available. Or perhaps the Girl Scout member of the family wishes to become associated with a Troop in her new community. Here also is the information which will aid her in establishing herself in Newton's local council. These are but two examples which illustrate the value of the directory to Newton citizens.

As an older resident of Newton did you ever grope for the names of those who represent you in the city and state government? Two other headings in the directory assure the answer to those queries. City departments, libraries, school department, and school committee, public schools, parent-teacher associations, parochial schools, and private schools, colleges, academies are also listed. Newton churches are included and it is interesting to note that there are 47 of these with two new Jewish congregations.

With a count of 213 clubs and organizations not including church groups and parent-teacher associations each Newton citizen should be able to find an activity suited to his needs and desires. To enable one to find the particular type more easily each is listed under a special grouping including service, social, civic, federated women's clubs, etc., in the table of contents, while the council member organizations are also listed under convenient headings.

At the office of the Council at 93 Union street, Newton Centre, an information service is maintained with a master reference file of all clubs and organizations. Newton nursery schools and day camps not listed in the handy directory may be obtained here as well as general information needed.

Another service of the council is the weekly calendar published in the local newspapers. This is an attempt to eliminate the possibility of two large groups planning for some activity on the same day. The cooperation of organizations in clearing meeting dates and in notifying the Council whenever changes in officers occur is of great assistance in keeping information up to date and thereby serving the community to the best of the council's ability.

The following committee was responsible for the publication of this seventh edition of the Directory of Newton Agencies, Clubs and Organizations: Chairman, Mrs. Louis Billings; Mrs. P. Edward Eden, Mr. Oliver Smith, and Miss Ruth Brooks. Copies may be obtained at the small fee of 25 cents from the office of the Community Council at 93 Union street, Newton Centre, at the main library in Newton or at any of the branch libraries.

The Information Service of the Newton Community Council is only a small part of the activities of this organization, itself a member of the Newton Community Chest, whose purpose is set forth in its by-laws as "to promote the general welfare of Newton by providing:

1, a meeting ground for cooperation in social planning and united action on the part of all public and private health and welfare agencies and all other such groups, organizations and individuals who are interested in the welfare of Newton, and

2, a sounding board of public opinion in order that united action might be taken to improve both voluntary and tax-supported service."

Pay Tribute To Men Who Built Beautiful New Store

Filene's Give "Whodunnit" Party In Appreciation

Seldom, if ever, has there been staged a more democratic and sincere gesture of appreciation than that which was held last Thursday night at Filene's new Chestnut Hill store when everyone, plasterers, electricians, carpenters, metal workers, etc., were the honored guests at a sumptuous banquet and inspection tour of the new, ultra modern store which was opened to the public for business Monday.

Designed by Raymond Loewy, this suburban branch brings big-city storekeeping to the outer shopping areas. It is more than twice as big as any other Filene suburban store, and is the ninth Filene unit in Massachusetts.

The affair, originated and inspired by Harold D. Hodgkinson, Filene general manager, in appreciation to the men who completed the work on the building six weeks ahead of schedule, was a hospitable and enthusiastic occasion.

Filene's own talent, from H. D. Hodgkinson, general manager, in the role of a dynamic master of ceremonies, to four pretty members of the feminine staff who sang and danced in work attire, furnished most of the entertainment. All performers were greeted uproariously by the union guests, who represented fourteen crafts, and by a group of officials, "rival" merchants, and persons prominent in other walks of life.

The most popular man on the 11-month construction job, Joe Belli, superintendent for the engineering firm of Austin from Cleveland, shyly accepted an invitation to mount the platform under the canvas and take a bow.

In introducing him, General Manager Hodgkinson said, "He is a person who gets things done. He and his men sailed right along despite formidable surface obstacles to building in the form of pudding stone, peat and ledge.

"Any man who worked on this building ought to be proud because of the words that Joe told me," related Hodgkinson. 'He said that he had worked for 17 years on construction in 11 different states and that he had never seen a group of workers more interested in doing the job and doing it well."

At this, cheers went up from the assembly. The general manager of Filene's, considered one of the smartest merchandisers in the country, went on to show that he not only knows all about hats, dresses, suits and notions, but that pudding stone is no mystery to him and Thursday night one might well have thought him one of the boys, so enthusiastic was he in the accomplishments of the men who built the store.

Betraying his great interest and constant supervision of the growth of a modern and beautiful shopping unit at the Newton-Brookline line on the Worcester turnpike, he added that "stone is harder to cut than granite and water kept seeping in.'

Joe Belli didn't say much. He just smiled. But he grinned from ear to ear when Hodgkinson presented awards to representatives of each trade unions whose names were chosen from a hat.

The awards were in the form of books, titled "Whodunnit?" At a signal, each man opened his book and saw his own face in a mirror. This was one of Filene's ways of telling all workers that they did it.

"There never was a party like this for guys who worked on a building," was a common expression heard throughout the evening. Many of the workers completed their own individual jobs, foundations and the like, weeks or months ago.

They returned to the scene to marvel at the growth and perfection since they signed off. Now they are back at jobs as far afield as New York and Maine. Not one of them would have missed the Filene party.

When the dishes had been cleared away and cigars and cigarettes lighted, things took a feminine turn. Harriet Wilinsky, Filene's Sales Promotion Manager, introduced four painters whose overalls bulged in the wrong places. They turned out to be a quartet of girls from the fashion department, just as handy with an E flat above middle C as with a fourteen-inch hemline.

Guests who were accustomed to a quiet evening in front of a television set felt right at home. Sid Stone, hit performer as the pitchman of the top-rated Texaco Star Theater brought his gang of gadgets up from New York to entertain in person. His antics brought forth gales of laughter.

After the entertainment Hodgkinson and William Morton, manager of the Chestnut Hill branch, invited everybody in to see the store. Each department had its own individual decorating scheme worked out and painted as a characteristic finishing touch by Raymond Loewy's talented designers. They made use of all sorts of props for their effects, sometimes beautiful, sometimes bizare, always noteworthy. These ran all the way from branches of trees apparently growing out of the wall, even with birds perched on them, to free-standing antique door frames from an Italian Rennaissance palace.

Among notables invited to the Whodunnit Party were the business agents of many of the labor organizations involved. These included James Shea of the bricklayers, Angus McLean, carpenters; Rocco Alberto, hoisting engineers; Frank Burke, lathers; Charles Clougherty, plumbers; Alfred Ellis, sheet metal workers; Edward Hurley, roofers; Salvatore Pavone, laborers; Henry Hughes, ironworkers; John Broaphy, steamfitters; Andy Jasse, electrical workers; John McGrath, painters; Thomas Yard, glaziers; O. F. McGoldrick, elevator workers; F. A. MacKenzie, carpet layers, and Ernest Johnson, Secretary of the Building Trades Council.

Distinguished guests introduced by Hodgkinson included John DelMonte, Massachusetts Commissioner of Labor; Police Commissioner Thomas Sullivan; S. M. Seegal, Filene Vice-president; Arthur J. Shinners, Town Clerk, Brookline; Roy V. Collins, Chairman, License Commission, Newton; Joseph B. Lyons, Newton Police Department; Arthur Campbell, Building Commissioner, Newton; Francis J. Linnehan, Asst. Fire Chief, Newton; George H. Delano, Project Engineer, Mass. Dept. Public Works; Willard S. Pratt, Director of Public Works, Newton; Henry August, President, Chestnut Hill Liquors; Gordon Bryant, President, Lauriat's; Clarence Wells, Treasurer, Breck's; Harry Sandler, Star Markets; Lowel P. Clapp, President, Otis Clapp; Carroll Dwight, President, London Harness; Jack Seltzer, President, Photo Supplies; Arthur Schactman, Brookline Newton Realty Co.: Thomas Meehan, Sales Manager, WBZ; Craig Lawrence, President, WCOP; William McGrath, President, WHDH; Harold Kearn, President, Boston Record-American; Ernest Hoftyzer, Advertising Manager, Record-American; Erwin Canham, Editor, Christian Science Monitor; Henry Gillen, Editor, Boston Post; Davis Taylor, Treasurer, Boston Globe; Father Lally, Pilot; Manny Berman, Jewish Times; Samuel Gilette, Manager, Franklin Simon; Carl M. Schmalz, President, R. H. Stearns; Forrest Davidson, President, Long's; William T. Snaith, Vice-president, Raymond Loewy; H. A. Anderson, Vice-president, Austin Co.; George Acherson, Boston Herald; and Filene officials, William Lee, Branch stores manager; A. W. Fish, Merchandise Manager; H. K. Gross, Merchandise Manager; F. B. Gummere, Operations Manager; L. Margolis, Merchandise Manager; Jacob Goldberg, Basement Manager; J. S. Perkins, Controller; Harriet Wilinsky, Sales Promotion Manager.

setting is the beautiful French crystal antique chandelier hung over an unusual arrangement of imported orchids displayed in tropical foliage, an exotic and Parisienne background for the latest in French fashions.

The same decorative style is carried out in all the shops. The Sports Shop is distinguished by an extensive design of blue sky, branches, and flying or nesting birds, and old-fashioned bird cages. The Shoe Shop can be easily found by it's quaint ladies' boots display.

On the lower level, connected by an electric staircase, the Boys' Shop has that western element, of course, in its Bar F Ranch. The Pigtailers Shop has an interesting mural from "Alice in Wonderland." The Strawberry Room, as tasty looking as the name suggests, serves light lunches in a rural decorative theme atmosphere. Deserving of special note here are the huge strawberry light fixtures.

The decor extends to pink phone booths masquerading as bird cages, and a luxurious rest room, "The Powder Box." Tiny tots are made to feel right at home in "The Powder Box" with a special section set aside for them with all facilities scaled to midget size. Even the drinking fountain has a midget-sized 'twin.' Shopping for mothers is simplified with children's cruisers so that little ones can be wheeled on rounds of the store.

The over-all interior scheme of this spacious, air conditioned building is done in soft blues, pinks, and greens. Spot lighting and incandescent ceiling lighting effectively display its panorama decor. Nothing is spared to make shopping a pleasure.

Mr. Hodgkinson pointed out that the new Chestnut Hill branch is twice the size of Filene's other branches. Shopping hours at the new Chestnut Hill store will be from 9:15 a.m. to 5:30 p.m. Tuesdays, Wednesdays, Thursdays, and Saturdays, and from noon to 9:30 p.m. Mondays and Fridays.

Jewish Community Center to Hold Services at West Newton

The Jewish Community Center of West Newton will hold services on the Jewish New Year and Day of Atonement at the Odd Fellows Hall, 15 Southgate Park, West Newton. Rabbi Lester Segal, who comes from New York highly recommended, will conduct the Services. Dr. Reevan Levine, Chairman, and his committee, in cooperation with the Rabbi, have planned an attractive spiritual program. A Social, conforming with holiday tradition, is being arranged for Tuesday evening, September 12, where refreshments will be served, followed by participation in singing and discussions.

Children's Services will be conducted by Mr. Ira Hochberg, educational director of the Hebrew and Sunday School.

Membership in this Center includes participation in many activities in addition to the regular meetings, such as Bible, Literary, Dramatic and Choral Groups, Chess and Photography Clubs, and Sports. The men also enjoy very successful Brotherhood Breakfasts.

Children's groups ranging in age from six to sixteen, include Dancing, Dramatics, Arts and Crafts, Customs and Ceremonies, Socials and Club Work. The Young Adult Group, Sixteen to twenty-three, have planned a very interesting program for this coming season.

Newton Police to Join In Strict Enforcement Of Laws Over Week-end

Police Chief Philip Purcell has announced that the local police department will cooperate with the Massachusetts Safety Council in an intensive campaign to prevent needless traffic accidents over the coming Labor Day holiday.

Chief Purcell pointed out that, according to the Massachusetts Safety Council, holiday traffic deaths have been increasing throughout the nation at an alarming rate during the past few years. Each of the holiday periods have been reaching new heights in tragedy. The Labor Day week end total alone last year was 410 immediate traffic deaths, the highest Labor Day toll in history. The 1950 observance of the holiday threatens to be as tragic as 1949 unless enforcement agencies, individuals, and organizations interested in safety do everything possible to prevent a recurrence.

An extensive enforcement and educational campaign was carried on throughout Massachusetts over the recent Fourth of July holiday. All enforcement agencies did an extremely complete job of policing the Massachusetts highways during the holiday. The Massachusetts Safety Council, through the media of press, radio and distribution of promotional materials to its membership, conducted an extensive educational campaign. That all this paid off is now common knowledge, for the Commonwealth of Massachusetts had the best holiday safety record in the nation.

"We are determined to maintain this record over the coming Labor Day holiday," Chief Purcell stated. "It is generally agreed that rigid enforcement of traffic laws plays a big part in keeping down the toll of highway accidents. But to make enforcement possible, the public must be willing not only to accept it, but demand it. Traffic officers must know that their efforts will be supported and are, in fact, expected. The Newton Police Department will do everything in its power to make the streets of Newton safe. It is the responsibility of everyone to support our efforts in this campaign by observing the following: obey all traffic rules and regulations, obey traffic signs and signals, take it easy on the road and don't speed, be courteous to other drivers and pedestrians, and above all, don't drive while drinking.

"If we all work together, the Commonwealth of Massachusetts will maintain its good holiday record of traffic safety."

Sally L. Backman Weds William Martin Powers

There were candles along the aisle, and white flowers and ferns on the altar, of the Eliot Church in Newton last Saturday afternoon for the wedding of Miss Sally Louise Backman, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Kenneth Byron Backman of Newton, to Mr. William Martin Powers, son of Mrs. William James Powers, also of Newton. The Rev. Ray Eusden officiated and a reception followed in the church parlors.

Given in marriage by her father, the bride was gowned in white lace over ivory satin. Her finger-tip veil was caught to a lace headdress and she carried a bouquet of white gardenias. Mrs. Walter Hurley of Oak Hill, Mass., her sister, was the bride's matron of honor. Gowned in pale blue organdy, she carried spring flowers, as did the bridesmaids, Miss Judith Backman of Newton, Mrs. Richard Gleason of Norton, Mrs. John E. Dixey of Newton, all sisters of the bride, and Miss Carol Owens of Utica, New York. Two of the bridesmaids wore pale pink and two wore pale violet.

Mrs. Backman, mother of the bride wore a gown of pale pink crepe, and the groom's mother chose a dark blue lace. Both mothers had corsages of spring flowers.

The best man was Mr. James Powers of Needham, brother of the groom, and the ushers included Mr. Charles McGill and Mr. William Byrne of Newton, Mr. Leo Baldwin of Waban, Mr. Frank Robart of Needham, Mr. Richard Gleason of Norton, and Mr. Arthur Richards of Milton.

The bride was graduated in June from Vassar College. Mr. Powers is a graduate of Boston University. After a wedding trip to the Cape, Mr. and Mrs. Powers will make their home in Newton.

Shower Held For Miss DiCicco

A shower was held at the Newton Highlands workshop last week in honor of the approaching marriage of Miss Josephine A. DiCicco, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Thomas DiCicco of 1030 Chestnut street, Newton Upper Falls, to John Shklarevich Jr., son of Mr. and Mrs. John Shklarevich of 28 Hale street, also of the Upper Falls. The date set for the ceremony is September 24 in Mary Immaculate of Lourdes Church, Newton Upper Falls.

Miss Eleanor DiCicco, who is to be her sister's maid of honor, was the hostess for the shower. Another sister, Doris, is to be bridesmaid.

Assisting the bride's sisters in serving refreshments were the other bridal attendants: Miss Rose DiCicco, a cousin; Miss Anna Schiavone, and Miss Jane Buttare.

The guest of honor was seated beneath a large wedding bell, and the color scheme of pink and white was carried out in umbrellas attached to streamers. Miss DiCicco was showered with rose petals and confetti. Highlighting the refreshments was a white cake decorated with pink and white umbrellas.

Miss DiCicco is employed by the Gamewell Company, and her fiance is employed by Sherman Paper Products Company, both Upper Falls firms.

Hold Piantedosi-Capizzi Wedding At Watertown

In a 3:30 double ring ceremony August 20 at St. Patrick's Church in Watertown, Orlando Phillip Capizzi, son of Mr. and Mrs. Anthony Capizzi of 22 Pine street, West Newton, took as his bride Miss Rita Ann Piantedosi, daughter of Augustine Piantedosi of Watertown. After the ceremony, which was solemnized by Rev. Joseph W. Leahy, a reception was held at Nuttings-on-the-Charles.

The bride, given in marriage by her father, wore a princess-styled gown with an illusion neckline edged with seed pearls, and her fingertip illusion veil was caught to a crown of orange blossoms. She carried a cascade of gardenias and stephanotis.

The maid of honor was Miss Eleanor Piantedosi, sister of the bride, and the bridesmaids were Florence Hickey of Watertown, Carolyn Brown of Somerville, and Leona Astone of West Newton. They wore similar off-the-shoulder marquisette gowns, the maid of honor's in nile green, and the bridesmaids' in pale yellow, and matching picture hats. The honor maid carried yellow roses, and the bridesmaids, talisman roses.

Best man was Armand Ugolano, cousin of the groom, and the ushers were Rudolph Piantedosi, the bride's brother, and Michael Nicolazzo and Albert Gallo, both of West Newton. The organist was Miss Emma Roche.

The bride was graduated from Watertown High School with the class of 1947. The bridegroom, a graduate of Newton High School, class of 1946, is now attending the Stockbridge School of Agriculture of the University of Massachusetts. He served two years with the U. S. Marines.

Rites Held For Mrs. Grace R. Badger, Prominent Newton Club Woman

Funeral services were held last Friday at 12:30 p. m., in the Church of the Redeemer, Chestnut Hill, for Mrs. Grace Richardson Badger, 90, of 17 Lee road, Chestnut Hill, one of Newton's most prominent clubwomen, who died Tuesday, August 22.

Mrs. Badger, widow of Arthur C. Badger, founder of the Boston metal products concern bearing his name, was a native of Boston, but had made her home in Newton for the past 40 years.

She was the founder of two organizations in this city, the Mother's Rest Club, of which she was past president, and the Newton Fortnightly Club. She was very active in the Young Women's Christian Association of Boston, the Grenfell Medical Mission and, formerly, in the women's organization of Trinity Church, Newton Centre. She was also a participating member of the Church of the Redeemer.

She leaves her daughter, Mrs. Allan W. Clark, whose husband, pastor of Calvary Episcopal Church in Danvers, officiated at the funeral; and her son, Dr. Theodore Badger of Boston and Chestnut Hill.

She also leaves egiht grandchildren and three great-grandchildren.

O'DONNELL—Word was received Sunday of the death in San Francisco, of Lawrence A. O'Donnell, 49, a former member of the Newton police department. The announcement stated O'Donnell died following a short illness.

A native of Newton, O'Donnell attended the schools here before joining the force in 1924. During World War II, he served in the Coast Guard. His retirement came in 1949.

GOGAN—Nancy Ann Gogan, 6-months-old daughter of Richard J. A. Gogan and Elma (Kaski) Gogan of 70 Salmouth road, West Newton, died suddenly Monday at Hampton Beach, N. H., where her family was spending a vacation.

She was born in Brighton. Besides her parents, she leaves a sister, Diane Marie, three years old.

Funeral services were conducted Wednesday morning at 9:30 o'clock from her home.

Interment was in the family lot in Calvary Cemetery, Waltham.

KUNTZ—Mrs. Emilie Stadler Kuntz, widow of Leo Kuntz, died Sunday at her home in Newton Highlands.

The funeral was held Wednesday morning at 8 o'clock from the home of her daughter, Mrs. Otto C. Kalweit, 383 Elliot street, Newton Highlands, with a requiem high mass in Mary Immaculate of Lourdes' Church at 9 o'clock.

Interment was in St. Mary's cemetery, Needham.

McCULLOUGH—Mrs. Louise (Hallaran) McCullough of 54 Eddy street, Newton, wife of Donald J. McCullough, and daughter of Mrs. Mary E. Hallaran (Dacey) and the late David Hallaran, died at home Sunday.

Funeral services were held from her late residence Wednesday morning at 8:15 o'clock followed by a solemn high mass of requiem at St. Bernard's Church, West Newton, at 9 o'clock.

CAHEN—Arnold Cahen of 35 Commonwealth Park, Newton, husband of Ethel (Gilman) Cahen, died last Thursday.

Besides his widow, he is survived by six daughters, Eva Pillard of Dorchester, Ida Krigman of Brookline, Selma Sugarman of Malden, Esther Land of Roxbury, Irene Harris of Roxbury, Sylvia Finkelstein of Dorchester, and three sons, Clarence, George and Bernard, and a brother Peter, of New York City.

Services were held at the Stanetsky Funeral Chapel, 10 Washington street, Dorchester, Sunday.

HOFFMAN—Freda Fannie (Boardman) Hoffman, wife of the late Joseph Hoffman of 470 Watertown street, Newtonville, passed away last week.

Services were held last Thursday at the Torf Funeral Chapel, 1615 Beacon street, Brookline. Memorial week will be held at her late residence.

Mrs. Hoffman is survived by two daughters, Mrs. Harry Goldstein and Miss Mindell Hoffman, and by three sons, Harry, Maurice and Samuel.

HOWLAND—Mrs. Fora A. (Harmon) Howland, mother of Mrs. Robert M. Garland of 18 Vinecnt street, West Newton, died last Thursday.

Kill Attempt of Democratic Leadership to Repeal Law On Building Code Authority

An attempt by the Democratic leadership of the House of Representatives to slip through under suspension of the rules a bill to repeal Chapter 534 of 1950 in the closing days of the legislative session, was caught by Representative George E. Rawson.

This Chapter was the bill which he and Rep. Howard Whitmore had filed and carried through to enactment after a long and bitter fight. It restored to local building inspectors authority over the issuance of building permits under local building codes. It was made necessary by the fact that in Newton and other high grade communities, the local building inspector had been forced to issue permits for construction of buildings not complying with the building code if the petitioner produced an affidavit signed by a registered engineer. Hence, the legislation was needed here and was welcomed by building commissioners throughout the Commonwealth.

Rep. Rawson prevented suspension of the rules and forced the printing of the repeal bill on the next day's House calendar. Investigation brought out the fact that the repeal bill had not been referred to any executive session of the appropriate committee, nor given a hearing. The Senate chairman and the other members of that committee had never seen the bill or ever heard of it.

The next day, combined efforts of these two Newton representatives, succeeded in killing the bill, so the Newton building code is still valid.

To Broadcast Home Games of N.H.S.

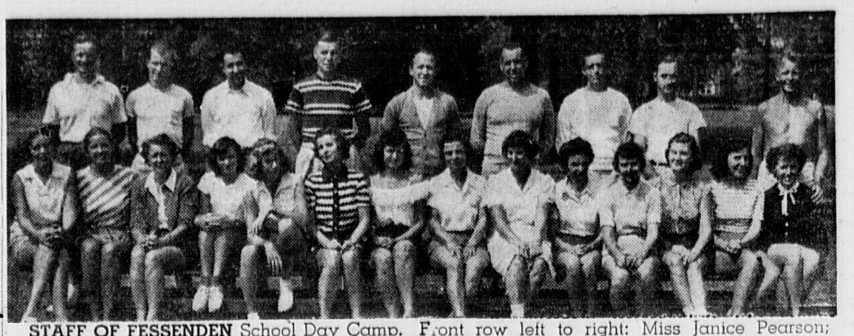

WCRB, Newton's Community Station at 1330 on the dial, began preparations this week for broadcasting the home football games of Newton High School.

First action was to order telephone lines installed at Dickinson Stadium over which to feed the game account. The opening home game will be played with Belmont on September 23rd.

This will be the third season WCRB has carried Newton High football. Bill Sherman, top WCRB announcer, will do the microphone work.

Fessenden Day Camp Has Successful Season

Warren Huston, director of the Fessenden School Day Camp, has announced the closing of a very successful season for more than 200 children. The camp has provided a summer of healthful activities for boys and girls, as well as direction in learning to live and play together. Activities such as swimming, archery, riflery, baseball, tennis, games, horseback riding, open-fire cookouts, woodwork, arts and crafts, music and dramatics were enjoyed by all the campers.

The staff has been excellent, and there has been a feeling of real democracy in the entire camp program. Parents' day was held last Friday, so that all could see their children participating in their various activities followed by refreshments to the gathering.

"We try to make camp an educational adventure", he explained. "We adapt the program to the children's interests instead of forcing them into lines of activity for which they show no aptitude. Many of them, of course, come to us with no well defined interests, but they soon find some sport or craft they would like to know more about. Then, too", he continued, "we'd rather have the child better his own record than feel obliged to better the record of others. We do have a few competitive games, of course, but of the less strenuous kinds". "We see definite results in a short time from this type of training," he continued, "and these results appear in better art work, good sportsmanship and good behavior. Above all, this program goes a long way in helping a boy or girl to be happy and well balanced."

Take Your Time It's Much Safer

Two hundred and eighty-five men from the State Police, two hundred and sixty-five from the Registry of Motor Vehicles, three hundred and seven from the Metropolitan District Commission, two thousand from the City of Boston, and five thousand police officers representing every Massachusetts community will march forward as a unit to meet the enemy "Highway Traffic Accidents" over the coming Labor Day week-end.

All preparations have been completed and the battle lines are tightly drawn. Watch your driving. Don't take a chance—take your time. You'll get their just as quickly, and safely as well.

MORTGAGEE'S SALE OF REAL ESTATE

By virtue and in execution of the POWER OF SALE contained in a certain mortgage given by Philip J. McHugh to Charles A. Dooley dated April 17, 1950 and recorded with Middlesex South District Deeds, Book 7565, Page 102, of which mortgage the undersigned is the present holder for breach of the conditions of said mortgage and for the purpose of foreclosing the same will be sold at Public Auction at two o'clock P.M. on the fifteenth day of September A.D. 1950; 400 Cherry Street, West Newton, Massachusetts, all and singular the premises described in said mortgage,

To wit: the land in that part of said Newton, known as West Newton, with the buildings thereon, and bounded and described as follows:—

WESTERLY by Cherry Street, 130.80 feet;
NORTHERLY by land now or formerly of Nelson, 193.34 feet;
EASTERLY by land now or formerly of Eddy, 74.74 feet;
SOUTHERLY by land now or formerly of heirs of Allen, 22.50 feet;
SOUTHEASTERLY by land now or late of heirs of Allen, 34.39 feet;
SOUTHEASTERLY again by land now or late of heirs of Allen, by a curved line, 53.22 feet; and SOUTHERLY by land now or formerly of heirs of Allen, 122.97 feet;

containing 24698 square feet of land, more or less.

Being the same premises conveyed to me by deed of Joan A. Martorana to be recorded herewith, and are conveyed subject to a mortgage for $9,000.00 given by me to the Auburndale Co-operative Bank to be recorded herewith.

And as further security for the loan for which this mortgage is given, I hereby assign to said grantee, all my right and interest in the share of stock in said bank referred to in said prior mortgage.

The failure to comply with any of the conditions of this mortgage, or the conditions of said prior mortgage, or the failure to pay any of said installments within 30 days from the date when the same is due, notwithstanding any license or waiver of any prior breach of condition shall make the whole of the balance of the principal sum due hereunder, immediately due and payable at the option of the holder hereof.

Terms of Sale: Five hundred dollars will be required to be paid in cash by the purchaser at the time and place of sale and the balance to be paid in cash within ten (10) days thereafter at the Middlesex South District Registry of Deeds, East Cambridge, Mass.

Other terms to be announced at the sale.

CHARLES A. DOOLEY,
Present holder of said mortgage.

Excellent Progress

Volunteer Workers Rally For Salvation Army Drive

At a meeting of Residential Committee Chairmen, held last Thursday, at Eliot Church, Newton, it was revealed that while excellent progress had been made in setting up teams of Newton workers for the Salvation Army's annual appeal for funds, which opens September 12th, there were still gaps in the ranks of several village teams.

"That's not surprising, however, in view of the fact that so many people are still away on vacation," said Mrs. Norman W. Garfield, Campaign Organizer for the Salvation Army in Newton, who conducted the meeting in the absence of Mrs. Edward G. Huber, Overall Residential Chairman. "I'm sure those gaps will be filled well before the drive begins."

During the meeting innumerable details were ironed out and, at its close, instruction sheets and kits for the use of team captains and their workers were distributed to the chairmen attending.

Kenneth E. Prior, General Chairman for Newton, when asked for a statement on the fund organization to date, said that he had nothing but praise for everyone concerned. "It's not easy to enlist a lot of men and women for a job like this, right at the beginning of the fall season," he said. "There's still a lot to do. But knowing Newton, and how Newton folks are always ready to do their bit for the Salvation Army, I know all our teams will be 'out there' in full force when the signal is given on September 12."

The list of team captains and workers to date, as announced by Mr. Prior, is as follows

Newton Team Captains: Mrs. Carlton L. Shaw, Mrs. Spurgeon C. Donald, Mrs. Henry Ziegal, Mrs. Oliver C. Appleton, Mrs. Morton T. Merrill, Mrs. Conway, Mrs. C. A. Davenport, Mrs. S. "The WIN-IT! STATION"

Newt'n Corner in the Good Old Days

Below is an extract from a letter received recently by Miss Louise Stewart of Vernon street, Newton. The letter was from an old friend, Mr. Henry Ware Allen, now of Wichita, Kansas, and in his eighty-ninth year, but blessed with an excellent memory. When a boy, Mr. Allen used to visit his grandmother, Mrs. Toulon, who lived on Boyd street. He attended the Allen School in West Newton, and was a cousin of the Allen family, his roommate there being the late Charles E. Hatfield, a prominent citizen and ex-mayor of Newton.

"About eighty years ago I was often a visitor at my grandmothers' in Newton. It was 'Newton Corner' then, and a good deal of a country village.

"There was a noisy sawmill not far from the railroad station. The streets were alternately dusty or muddy, but the place was convenient as a sleeping-place for Boston businessmen. You would be amused could you now see those who were standing on the platform awaiting the morning train to Boston. Nearly every man had a tall hat on his head, and he wore a Prince Albert coat, the present business sack coat not being in use at all. Then there were various styles of whiskers, in accord with varied tastes, all the way from long beards, side whiskers, goatees, very seldom a mustache only.

"The passing of express trains and freight trains had a very great fascination for me, and it was a great treat for me to be on the old horse-sheds of the Unitarian Church to watch the trains. (The Unitarian Church stood where the Fire Station now stands). I knew the different locomotives by name, the passenger engines being more ornate than today, with red paint and polished brass. I remember two specially fine ones, the D. W. Lincoln and the William Bliss, both named for Directors of the Boston and Albany Railroad; the ugly looking freight engines, all black, bore names like Hero, Nero, Ajax. The rhythm of the passing freight trains was a particular joy to me."
